OUST 5 SOCIALISTS; WILL COMPEL PARTY TO PURGE ITSELF

DEBATE NEARLY 24 HOURS

Vote to Expel Three Assemblymen Was 116 to 28 and on Other Two 104 to 40.

VOTERS BETRAYED, THEY SAY

Will Take Appeal to Nation's Highest Tribunal if They Lose in State Court.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 1.—At 10 o'clock this morning, following a 23-hour session, the Assembly expelled from its membership the five Socialists, Louis Waldman and August Claessens of New York, Samuel A. De Witt and Samuel Orr of the Bronx and Charles Solomon of Kings and declared their seats vacant. The vote for expulsion, taken on each individual case, was overwhelming.

In the cases of Waldman, Claessens and Solomon against whom there were individual charges as well as those growing out of their membership in the Socialist Party, the vote was 116 for expulsion to 28 against. In the cases of Orr and De Witt, against whom there were no individual charges, the vote was 104 for expulsion to 40 against.

Following the expulsion, Speaker Sweet and his lieutenants today took steps to carry out the recommendation made by the Assembly Judiciary Committee that the Socialist Party be outlawed at the polls until it purges itself of principles and practices which are held to be disloyal and treasonable to the Government of the State and nation.

Speaker Sweet announced this afternoon that two bills were being prepared for this purpose, that one had practically been completed and that both might be introduced as early as tomorrow and in any event not later than next Monday night.

Must Reconstruct Socialist Party.

Speaker Sweet said he was not prepared to discuss the details of the proposed legislation, but that it was being designed to compel the Socialist Party to become thoroughly American and exclusively political by purging itself of fundamental errors woven into the fabric of its fundamental law and expressed in its platform and policies.

In order to meet the provisions of the proposed measures the Socialist Party must do these things.

It must exclude aliens, minors and other non-voters from the governing party committees.

It must divert party control from the small group of "dues-paying" members and turn the management of the party over to enrolled Socialists, as contemplated by the direct primary law.

It must renounce entangling alliances with the Third Internationale or any other similar aggregation of radicals abroad which have adopted forms of organization and programs dictated by political conditions in countries where the ballot box is not available as an antidote to political and economic wrongs.

It must amend its Constitution by eliminating any clauses in conflict with provisions of State and national Constitutions, such as the clause prohibiting members of the Socialist Party elected to legislative bodies from voting for military and naval appropriations.

It must discontinue the practice of exacting pledges from Socialists elected to office which would have the effect of interfering with their complete freedom of action, so far as the party is concerned, in public office.

It must abandon what now is a fixed policy of the Socialist Party, propaganda and organization work undertaken with a view to supplementing political action with industrial action such as sabotage and the general strike.

It must adopt a policy definitely committing the party to attain its ends through political, parliamentary and peaceful means.

It was pointed out that severance of relations existing or contemplated with the Third Internationale, or any other internationale, would not debar the Socialists from sending representatives to international gatherings of Socialists for the discussion of topics of mutual interest and concern, but it would prohibit Socialists in this country from subscribing to any program which might commit the party in this country to policies initiated abroad and out of harmony with the political system or practice of the institutions and Government of the United States.

That considerable difficulty was being encountered in the drafting of the proposed measures to make them conform with the Constitution and render them proof against repudiation in the courts was not denied by those engaged in their framing. Pains were being taken, it was stated, to make the bills safe from attack on the ground that they were in conflict with the theory of representative government or repressive in character.

The recommendation of the Judiciary Majority Committee was that "appropriate legislation be enacted to the end that hereafter no party, group or political organization in which aliens are

No American on Mission of League to Soviet Russia

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The American Government has replied to the invitation of the League of Nations to send a representative to accompany the commission appointed by the League Council to investigate the situation within Soviet Russia.

Non-membership in the League of Nations precludes participation in the commission's work by any official representative of this Government and the sending of an unofficial representative to accompany the commission as an observer has not been deemed practicable by the State Department.

DELAWARE HOUSE REJECTS SUFFRAGE

BUT SUFFRAGISTS KEEP ON

Hope to Carry Senate and Force New House Vote—Louisiana Women Predict Victory.

DOVER, Del., April 1.—The ratification resolution to make Delaware the thirty-sixth and last State needed to write the woman suffrage amendment into the Constitution of the United States went down to defeat in the House of Representatives today by a vote of 22 to 9, but before the result was announced three members changed their votes to place themselves in a parliamentary position to move for reconsideration and one member who was not down as voting asked to be recorded in the negative. This made the official vote 20 noes to 6 ayes. Eighteen affirmative votes were necessary to pass the resolution. After the vote the House adjourned until Monday.

In a parliamentary sense, according to the rules of the Legislature, the suffrage question is not dead for the special session, but legislative leaders generally conceded that affirmative action in both Houses is a forlorn hope.

Suffragists who still hope for affirmative action say that the House has three legislative days to reconsider today's vote and that if this fails it is still possible for the House to take a vote on the Senate reolution if it is passed by the upper body.

It was disclosed today that the suffragists had fifteen votes in line for the resolution if they could have mustered three more, but as they could not get the required pledges those conditionally for suffrage voted with the antis.

Suffragists Leave Chamber in Tears.

After the vote was announced there was great cheering among the men and women opponents of ratification. Anti-suffrage members were surrounded by enthusiastic women, who showered them with congratulations and red roses, while suffragists, wearing the yellow daffodil, walked sadly from the chamber, some of them in tears.

Governor Townsend said:

"I think suffrage is thoroughly beaten, and I am sorry, for some Republican representatives have brought a stain upon the integrity of the Republican Party."

Mrs. Florence Hilles, President of the suffrage State organization, said:

"We have a majority in the Senate. We will try to shove the measure through that body and then strive to have the House act favorably on the joint ratification resolution. We are discouraged, but we are by no means licked."

Gratification over the defeat of ratification was expressed by Mrs. Henry B. Thompson, President of the Delaware Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

"I was sure of the result from the beginning," she said. "Delaware men are true to their convictions and the traditions of their State and cannot be coerced or bought. We have assurances from Connecticut and Vermont that no

RYAN FIGHTS STUTZ BAN; 80,000-SHARE DIVIDEND ISSUED

STRENGTHENS HIS CORNER

SHORTS FACE BIG LOSSES

The corner in the stock of the Stutz Motor Car Company, which caused the New York Stock Exchange to announce a suspension of trading in the issue late Wednesday afternoon, developed yesterday into a fight between the Exhange and Allan A. Ryan, who heads the interests which control the bulk of Stutz stock. An advertisement by the firm of Allan A. Ryan & Co. offering to buy Stutz stock was construed to be an open defiance of the ruling of the Stock Exchange. Mr. Ryan refused to comment on the action of the Exchange, but advertisements, which first appeared in the morning papers, were repeated in the afternoon, and it appeared there was a wide difference between the Exchange and Mr. Ryan.

The latter was in the Stock Exchange twice yesterday, once in the morning and again in the afternoon, and it is understood that he was called before some committee, presumably the Business Conduct Committee, which would be the first to pass on any act supposed to be in violation of the rule of the Exchange. As far as the Exchange itself was concerned, there was silence.

There was great curiosity on the part of brokerage houses and traders to know what the Stock Exchange would do. It was admitted Wednesday that the ban against trading could be construed as only a temporary measure. The contract to buy or sell stock is a document which is binding under the laws of this State and a settlement of contractural obligations must necessarily be met some time.

Fight Awaited Eagerly.

The action of Allan A. Ryan & Co. in defying the ruling of the exchange by advertising to purchase stock added a new tangle that gave plenty of opportunity for a busy day in the rumor mart. The fight that seemed inevitable was looked forward to with real pleasure by most of the financial district as Allan A. Ryan is in a more strongly intrenched position to combat the exchange than any one who has undertaken such a procedure, in recent years at least.

Since the Curb Market Association and the Consolidated Stock Exchange followed the ruling of the New York Stock Exchange in forbidding trading in Stutz stock, the field of activity was narrowed greatly. A moderate amount of stock changed hands yesterday in over-the-counter trading by firms that had no affiliation with any of the three organizations mentioned above. The firm of Allan A. Ryan & Co. admitted it was doing some trading in Stutz, but the volume was small and was distributed mostly in lots of less than 100 shares. It was said some purchases had been made at $400. The heaviest trading recorded was 350 shares by a commission house, which did not come under any of the bans against trading.

Transactions were closed at prices ranging from $390 to $430 a share. At the latter figure Stutz was up 30 points from the closing price on the Stock Exchange on Wednesday. Several houses which advertised that they would deal in Stutz stock withdrew from the field of activities on learning before the market opened that their respective associations had followed the Stock Exchange ruling.

Demand on Shorts Seen.

The advertisement by Allan A. Ryan & Co., although only an announcement that the firm stood ready to buy Stutz stock, was interpreted by some as meaning that the shorts were being invited to

ATLANTA, April 1.—President Wilson's name will not appear on the ballot in the Georgia Presidential primary, the entries for which closed at noon today. A number of those who signed the petition in his favor withdrew their signatures.

Hiram L. Gardner, Secretary of the Democratic Committee, made a statement of the situation in which he said:

"The name of President Wilson was filed by duly signed petition, but the names of a number of the petitioners were formally withdrawn, leaving the list below the one hundred names required by the State Committee to make formal entry of any name.

"Of the names appearing on this petition many were evidently signed by one person, but it was not necessary for us to go into the validity of the petition, for even as it stood, and taking every name as that of a bona fide signer and voter, the withdrawals by letter reduced the petition below the required number of signatures.

"The preferential primary for President has developed the following entries: A. Mitchell Palmer, Hoke Smith, Thomas E. Watson. The names of all of these have been presented in accordance with the regulations prescribed by the committee.

"The name of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was entered and withdrawn by him.

"The name of ex-Secretary of State Robert E. Lansing was also entered and withdrawn by him."

WASHINGTON, April 1.—President Wilson took no steps to prevent his name from appearing on the Presidential primary ballot in Georgia, it was said today at the White House.

The President had until 1 o'clock today, Washington time, to act. It was understood that he did not reply to the telegram from Secretary Gardner of the Georgia Democratic State Committee asking whether he wished his name to appear on the ballot.

It was said at the White House that the President did not authorize the use of his name and that the telegram from Secretary Gardner brought the first news to the White House that the petition had been filed.

Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, when questioned about Georgia today, sought rather than gave information concerning the situation. The Chairman wanted to know who the 700 signers to the petition could have been and who "put them up to it."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 1.—The Allies have delivered a new note to Holland on the subject of the ex-Kaiser, in which they have emphasized the responsibility which the Dutch Government has assumed in guarding Wilhelm.

This note did not, as reported, accept Holland's suggestion that the ex-Emperor be interned at Doorn, but rather let The Hague know that such a solution was not regarded as satisfactory. Further diplomatic conversations on the subject are expected.

FOUR ARE INDICTED FOR COURT 'LEAK'

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Indictments were returned today against four men charged with being implicated in the alleged Supreme Court "leak" in the Southern Pacific decision in November. Those charged by the Grand Jury of the District of Columbia with conspiracy to defraud the Government of its right of secrecy concerning the opinions, in advance, are Ashton F. Embry, former secretary to Justice McKenna; James Harwood Graves, former Assistant Attorney in the Department of Justice; Barnett E. Moses, a Washington attorney, and E. Millard Mayer, Jr., said to be a New York stock operator.

It is charged that the advance information on the decision was used in stock speculation to sell 500 shares of Southern Pacific "short," and that $1,412.50 was realized. It is also alleged that Embry received $600 for furnishing the information ahead of the decision.

E. Millard Mayer, Jr., who describes himself as a "commercial adviser," said here tonight that he was guiltless of any wrongdoing "as every one will know when the case is tried." He stated that he had represented "a New York firm" in Washington.

The indictment alleges that on Nov. 16, the day before the decision was handed down, Embry met Graves and told him what the decision would be and when it would be made and that Graves thereupon went to New York, met Mayer an Moses, and with them traded in Southern Pacific on the stock market.

"Section 37. If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States in any manner, or for any purpose, any one or more of such parties do any act to affect the object of the conspiracy, each of the parties to such conspiracy shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years, or both."

The indictment says that "It was and from time immemorial had been the custom and, practice obtaining in and governing procedure in the Supreme Court of the United States for the said Supreme Court of the United States to deliver its judgments and decisions by public announcement in open court at days and times by the Chief Justice of the United States and the associated justices of the said court from time to time set apart, and in the presence of a quorum of the said justices formally assembled, and in no other way, so that all the citizens of the United States, and especially the litigants and attorneys, counselors and practitioners, before the said court, could and might have and enjoy equal opportunity to be informed and know, at the same time, of the disposition and decision of appeals and causes pending before the said court, * * * to the end that the confidence and esteem of the citizens of the United States and of the litigants and counselors and practitioners before the said court should be maintained, and that the said court should continue and he regarded as an impartial and public tribunal administering and declaring public law in a public and general manner without favor in its decisions or in the observance of its established customs and practices for the disposition of its business and the performance of its judicial functions, and in the secrecy, efficiency and sanctity of its deliberations, and the integrity of its officials and confidential attaches, as one Ashton F. Embry, hereinafter named, then and there well knew."

Supreme Court officials said the indictments were the first ever returned in connection with charges of a leak in the Supreme Court. Reports of leaks have been circulated a number of times, but unofficial investigation showed them to be without basis. The secretary to one of the justices was reported to be giving out advance information regarding decisions about fifteen years ago, but the charges were never substantiated and no action ever was taken.

Embrey was private secretary to Justice McKenna for nine years. He resigned several days after the court decided the Southern Pacific case. Mayer formerly lived in Cincinnati and Moses in Memphis.

The Government won the Southern Pacific oil land suit when on Nov. 17, 1919, the Supreme Court, in a decision

GOES NOW TO LABOR BOARD

WILL NOT HELP GATHER DATA

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The bi-partisan board which has been considering the $1,000,000,000 wage increase demanded by the railway employes reached a deadlock today and abruptly broke off its sessions. The railway executives upon the board insisted that the matter must be passed on to the Labor Board, created under the new Railway bill, on the theory that the public must have representation when so huge a demand is being considered.

E. T. Whiter, Chairman of the Railroad Executives' Conference Committee, issued a statement tonight saying that the executives had asked the unions to form a committee to prepare data to be presented to the Labor Board, but the unions had refused. The unions, said this statement, declared they would appeal to the Labor Board.

No word was forthcoming from the union side tonight. Earlier in the evening, when the rumor became prevalent that the bi-partisan board had split up in disagreement, union officials refused either to confirm or to deny this. They contented themselves by saying a full statement of their case would be made tomorrow. They made this answer again late tonight, after Mr. Whiter issued his statement.

The statement by Mr. Whiter was accompanied by a copy of a letter which he wrote last Tuesday to Bert M. Jewell, Chairman of the Employes' Conference Committee.

Railroad Executives' Statement.

Mr. Whiter's statement follows:

"The representatives of the railroads take the position that they could not assume the responsibility of adding such a burden to the costs of transportation, which are necessarily borne by the public, without the full knowledge and consent of the public, through its representatives, and that they must therefore decline the requests and let the entire matter be disposed of as provided in the Transportation act.

"This means that the controversy must be submitted to the Railroad Labor Board to be appointed by the President in accordance with the terms of the law, on which the public will have three representatives, the employes three and the railroad managements three. We invited the committee representing the employes to join with us in the formation of a committee to prepare data on the various aspects of the subject, which we feel must ultimately be presented to the Labor Board in any event, with a view to expediting the disposition of this difficult problem. They declined to join with us in the formation of such a committee. They have announced their intention of appealing to the Labor Board.

"The conference committee representing the employes insists that the representatives of the railroads and of the employes by conference shall reach an agreement upon wages and working conditions, and that the law contemplated such an agreement prior to any opportunity for participation by the representatives of the public.

"While Section 301 of the Transportation act does provide that representatives of the carriers and of their employes may reach agreements upon matters in controversy, it is not believed by the management conferees that Congress ever contemplated that a controversy involving so great an addition to transportation costs, and in which the public is therefore so vitally interested, should be disposed of by direct negotiation.

"This interpretation of the spirit of the law is borne out by a provision in section 307 that if the carriers and the employes should by direct negotiation agree upon wage increases likely to necessitate a substantial readjustment of the rates of any carrier, the Labor Board may suspend such agreement until it can inquire into its character.

"Another provision brings out this thought still more clearly by providing that in important cases at least one member of the public group on the Labor Board must join in the decision in order to make it effective. In view of this specific provision of the law, it seems to us that its framers never intended that representatives of the managements and of the employes, without any public representation, should reach an agreement upon demands involving more than a billion dollars increase in wages."

Advises Unions of Situation.

The letter which Mr. Whiter wrote to Mr. Jewel follows:

"In conformity with a request made by the President of the United States upon the Association of Railway Executives and the chief executives of the various organizations of employes, this board, or joint conference, was convened for the purpose of endeavoring to dispose of the wage requests pending at the end of Federal control by the method provided in section 301 of the Transportation act.

RAILROAD BOATMEN IN HARBOR STRIKE; 6,000 MEN OUT; FERRY SERVICE CRIPPLED; CITY'S FOOD AND COAL SUPPLY MENACED

Most of Ferries at 1:30 A. M. Only Partly Crippled; D., L. & W. On Full Schedule; City Lines Not Affected

The situation with regard to the ferry service at 1:30 this morning was as follows:

The West Shore Railroad ferry from West Forty-second Street to West New York was completely tied up. There are four boats at this ferry and also four boats from Cortlandt Street to Weehawken. Most of the crowd that went to the ferry house last night after the service had been suspended used the Hudson tubes and the Lackawanna ferry at Twenty-third Street.

The Erie Railroad, running to Jersey City from West Twenty-third Street and Chambers Street, was maintaining a fairly regular schedule. One trip only was missed at Twenty-third Street, this at 10:15. At Chambers Street the boats were running every fifteen minutes.

The Lackawanna, from West Twenty-third Street to Jersey City and from Barclay and Christopher Streets to Hoboken, was running on full schedule. The Lackawanna crews have a separate organization and in previous strikes they have not left their posts. Officials of the line said they expected no interruption in service today.

The Central Railroad of New Jersey, from West Twenty-third Street to Jersey City, was completely shut down at 9 o'clock last night. The boats at Liberty Street were still running at intervals of one hour.

The Pennsylvania Railroad ferries put up the tie-up signals as they pulled out of the Manhattan docks at 7:30, standard time. At 8 o'clock the boats made their last trips from the Manhattan side. Officials said that they would not try to operate the boats again during the night.

The Long Island Railroad ferry from East Thirty-fourth Street to Long Island City was not affected. Four boats operated after 8 o'clock, and the crews said they would finish out the night.

The municipal ferries were not affected.

MRS. CROKER'S PAST ASSAILED IN SUIT

Deny That She Is Daughter of Indian Chief and Assert She Lacks Culture.

Richard Croker, Jr., yesterday through McCombs & Ryan, attorneys employed by himself, his brother Howard, and his sister, Mrs. Ethel White of Cedarhurst, L. I., made public copies of the formal complaint filed Tuesday last in the Circuit Court at Palm Beach, Fla., in the injunction proceedings against Mrs. Richard Croker, Sr., their stepmother, to restrain her from disposing of her husband's property alleged to be in her possession, and requesting the appointment of a master or committee to examine the former Tammany chieftain as to his mental qualifications to conduct his affairs. Richard Croker, Jr., arrived in this city at noon, and later joined his attorneys, William F. McCombs and Frederick A. Ryan, at the Manhattan Club, where after a conference, the complaint and supporting affidavits by Richard Croker, Jr., and Howard Croker were given out.

The complaint in the injunction proceeding is signed by Howard Croker, second son of the retired boss of Tammany, as the latter's "next friend," and among other charges alleges that Mrs. Croker, Sr., "by reason of the enfeebled mental condition of her husband, and by reason of the practices and devices employed by her, has fraudulently and by undue influence succeeded in obtaining control and management of all the property, real and personal, of the said Richard Croker, Sr., and has caused him to deliver to her large sums of money, and has permitted her to invest and reinvest the same, ostensibly for his benefit, but actually with the intent and purpose of ultimately getting control and possession thereof for her sole use and benefit."

Accusations Against Wife.

It is also alleged in the complaint that Mrs. Croker, Sr., who is referred to all through the complaint as Bula E. Croker, "has caused large amounts of real property within the County of Palm Beach, Fla., purchased with the funds of the said Richard Croker, Sr., to be taken in the joint names of the defendant and the said Richard Croker, Sr., and has caused certain other real property to be taken and deeded in her own name.

"Your orator further alleges," the complaint continues, "that on information and belief, that the defendant has in her possession a large amount of cash and securities belonging to the said Richard Croker, Sr., which she unjustly retains, and which she has from time to time secreted and transferred out of this jurisdiction in order to prevent lawful process to reach the same within this State; that the defendant has large sums of money deposited in banks in her own name within the County of Palm Beach and elsewhere, which sums of money rightfully belong to her husband and that from time to time she has withdrawn large portions thereof and forwarded the same out of the jurisdiction and beyond the reach of the process of this State."

The complaint asserts that Richard Croker, Sr., is 79 years old, and relates that because of his advancing years, supplemented by his physical and mental condition at the time, in 1907, he executed a power of attorney in favor of

DEMOCRATS RESIST PEACE DECLARATION

DEBATE NEXT THURSDAY

Expected to be Passed Promptly and Sent to Senate—War Legislation Affected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—By a vote of 12 to 6 the House Foreign Affairs Committee today reported with slight modification the resolution declaring war with Germany at an end. All the Democratic members present opposed the resolution, except Representative Huddleston of Alabama, who voted "present."

Immediately following the action of this committee the Rules Committee met and reported a rule giving the joint resolution the right of way in the House on Thursday of next week. The rule apportions seven hours' debate, with indications that the vote on the resolution will be taken on Friday, three years and two days after the declaration of war against Germany.

On the anniversary of the declaration of war, April 6, next Tuesday, Representative Stephen G. Porter, Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, will make his formal report on the resolution, which, judged by indications today, will be passed in the House by a partisan vote, with less than a dozen Democrats supporting it.

The committee vote on the resolution was:

Senator Knox, who is the author of a similar resolution in the Senate and an authority on constitutional law, said that there was no doubt that Congress had the power to declare that a status of peace existed between Germany and the United States. He also said that the negotiation of peace terms between this country and Germany rested with the President. In the opinion of Senator Knox, the Senate will accept the resolution as it passes the House finally.

Representative Porter made public some of the wartime legislation, which he said the public is demanding shall be repealed. This includes the maintenance of the Shipping Board and the War Risk Insurance Bureau; the Lever Food and Fuel Control act, with clauses against profiteering; the espionage law; authorization for loans to the Allies; control over shipping; authority for priority shipments; Employment Bureau of the Department of Labor; authority for an embargo on imports; the War Finance Corporation; Capital Issues Committee; Trading with the Enemy act, and the Overman act, empowering the President to distribute executive powers.

Representative Caraway of Arkansas, a Democrat, declared in the House that the passage of the peace resolution would be "another scene in the conspiracy to discredit President Wilson and gain political impetus. It is the desperate game at which the Republicans play in order to deceive the American people into returning that party to power."

COMPANIES PLAN TO FIGHT

SHORT DELAY FOR FERRYMEN

DOCK COMPANIES AFFECTED

A general tieup of all railroad shipping in New York Harbor, with a consequent crippling of commuters' service and a possible suspension of 90 per cent. of the city's food and coal supply, is threatened as the result of a strike of railroad lighter, tug and ferry crews, called yesterday by the Marine Workers' Affiliation.

The crews of all ferry lines were to have joined the lighter and tug crews, who had quit earlier in the day, at 8 o'clock last night. Despite the efforts of the union officials, however, to cause a complete tieup, most of the lines were maintaining some sort of service at 11 o'clock last night, and one or two lines were running on normal schedule. Altogether, the union officials say, 6,000 harbor workers are out, and 4,000 other railroad employes, such as freight handlers and those whose work is dependent upon the ferry, tug and lighter service, will be involved.

The ostensible motive for the strike assigned by the union leaders is the sale of seven lighters by the Erie Railroad to a private concern, and the refusal of the new owners to give the crews an eight-hour day. The union men assert that the sale was only a subterfuge by which the railroads hope to get back to the ten-hour day. The rumored intention of the other railroads to follow the Erie's example in selling its lighters is the only reason given for involving them in the strike. The employes of all the railroads, including the Erie, are under the eight-hour day rule at present.

Railroads to Seek New Crews.

Railroad officials assert that the reasons for the strike given by the union leaders are only a pretext and that actually the walkout is a sympathetic strike to aid the striking longshoremen of the United Fruit Company. They declare that they will do everything possible to maintain the normal service, and they are preparing to replace the discontented workers today with new crews on all their boats. Officials of all the railroads met last night at the office of N. L. Cullin of the Jersey Central Railroad, at Pier 10 North River, to consider means of breaking the strike.

The railroads involved are the Erie, the New York, New Haven & Hartford, the New York Central, the Jersey Central, the Lehigh Valley, the Baltimore & Ohio, the West Shore, the Philadelphia & Reading, the Pennsylvania and the Lackawanna. The workers of the New York Dock Company, the Brooklyn Eastern District Terminal, the Jay Street Terminal and the Bush Terminal are also affected. The affiliated unions concerned are Masters, Mates and Pilots' Local, No. 1; Marine Engineers, No. 33, and Port and Terminal Workers, No. 38.

The strike had been decided upon Wednesday night at a meeting of the Marine Workers' Affiliation. A conference yesterday morning between Captain William A. Maher of Masters, Mates and Pilots' Local, No. 1; Thomas R. Healey of the Marine Engineers and J. J. Mantell of the Erie Railroad, did not succeed in adjusting the differences, so the word was passed for the walkout. A launch went up and down the Hudson giving the signal to the crews of tugs and lighters. The walkout of the ferrymen was postponed until last night. "We brought the commuters over this morning and we'll take them back," said Captain Maher.

No question of wages is involved in the controversy between the harbor men and the railroads, nor is the eight-hour day directly an issue. The strikers complain that C. R. Stewart of the Phoenix Transit Company, who bought seven lighters from the Erie, is laying off the crews and is replacing them with men who are willing to work longer hours. Mr. Stewart was for ten years Marine Superintendent of the Erie, and the union officials assert that the sale of the boats to him was simply a plan to circumvent the eight-hour day law for railroad workers.

Says Men Were Threatened.

"The railroad people have been telling us for weeks that they would 'fix' us when the railroads went back to private ownership on March 1," Captain Maher said at the union headquarters, 26 Park Place, yesterday. "They have been saying that there would be no seniority rule, no eight-hour day and that the men would be hired and fired as the railroad managers pleased. The men naturally are up in arms because of this attitude, and the Erie's transfer of the lighters made them still more angry.

"It looks funny that the Erie should want to sell its boats when it is doing such a big business. The truth of the matter is that the railroads can charge only 60 cents a ton for lighterage under the United States commerce laws, while under other ownership they can charge from $1.50 to $3 a ton.

"As soon as Stewart took over the Erie lighters the first thing that he did was to fire the crews of two boats—147 men in all. All of these men were experienced and most of them had served under Stewart when he was with the Erie. The only reason for his action was to increase the working hours. A peculiar fact is that Stewart is still consulting engineer of the Erie.

"We got no satisfaction at the conference today with Mr. Mantell, so the strike order went out. We have evidence that the other railroads intend to follow the example of the Erie and turn over their boats to private owners. That is the reason they were brought into it."

Captain Maher was asked about the nature of his evidence relating to the other railroads.

"There have been rumors to that effect for some time," he said. "After our talk with Mr. Mantell today we are still more convinced that they are true."

To Urge Sympathetic Strikes

Mr. Healey, of the marine engineers, said yesterday that the Marine Workers' Affiliation would take up with Samuel Gompers the question of a sympathetic strike in the Erie Railroad repair shops at Jersey City and Newburg. An effort will also be made to induce other railroad workers to strike in sympathy.

Mr. Mantell, after the conference yesterday morning, said that the strike was an outgrowth of the strike of stevedores employed by the United Fruit Company.

"The Port and Terminal Workers, who represent a portion of the men on our tugs and ferryboats, served notice on the railroads that they would refuse to tow any boats that were loaded by the United Fruit Company. We had various meetings with that organization and night before last I told them personally that as common carriers the railroads must handle all traffic offered for transportation without discrimination."

Mr. Mantell was authority for the assertion that the strike, unless the railroads beat it, would cut off 90 per cent. of the city's food supply. He added, however, that he believed that good service would be maintained and said that representatives of the roads were conferring late in the afternoon to devise means to fight the unions.

"We are not going out of business in New York Harbor, neither are other railroads whose men are on strike because the railroads are attempting to carry out their legal obligations as common carriers in towing United Fruit Company floats," said Mr. Mantell. "I am sure that there are many loyal men who will refuse to contribute their assistance to a cause so unjust and unreasonable in the face of Section 301 of the Transportation act, which covers fully the legal obligations of both employer and employe.

Not Interested in Outside Dispute.

"We are not interested in any outside disputes such as that between the United Fruit Company and its men, and our employes ought not to be mixed up in them; but they are, and have begun a fight not only against their employers but against a long-suffering public, both of whom are sick and tired of an evident plan to work less and get more pay without any regard to fairness or justice to the railroads or the public.

"The men who are on strike have had a larger increase in wages than any other class of employes in railroad service. The inconvenience of the public and the losses of the companies don't seem to have been taken into consideration. Demands were submitted to the railroads for heavy and exorbitant increases in wages, and the Managers' Association have had this under consideration and no doubt would have reached a decision shortly.

"While the negotiations were being conducted the Port and Terminal workers, covering a portion of marine employes, served notice on the railroads that they would refuse to tow any boats that were loaded by the United Fruit Company. Their attention was called to Section 301 of the Transportation act of 1920. The Port and Terminal workers' officers held out regardless of the provisions of the law or the legal obligations of the railroads as common carriers, and said they were not going to leave a stone unturned to win the fight against the United Fruit Company.

"Last night we were served with a notice that after 8 o'clock this morning the crews would refuse to tow boats of this company, thus preventing the railroads from carrying out their obligations as common carriers. Late this afternoon we were called upon to perform our duty as common carriers, and employes of the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central Railroads went out on strike. Early this morning, however, a strike was ordered of all men on the Erie Railroad tugs.

Sale of Tug Boats.

"The Erie Railroad has entered into a contract with the Phoenix Transit Company to handle a portion of its lighterage freight at a considerable reduction below what the railroad could perform the service for. The contract permitted the Erie Railroad to sell some of its tug boats, which sale has been consummated. The Phoenix Transit Company is an independent tow boat company.

"The question of hours and wages has never been raised and is not a question in the affair, but a primary cause of the trouble was the railroad companies attempting to carry out their legal obligations as common carriers, and the business of the Erie Railroad of contracting a part of its lighterage business the same as it would contract to build a new station, side tracks or other construction or improvements.

"The men of the railroads went out without any notice whatever. They refused to man the boats, in violation of the laws governing steamboat inspection service, Section 4,440, which provides that 'if any licensed officer shall to the hindrance of commerce or unreasonably refuse to perform his officer's duties after having signed articles or while employed on any vessel as authorized by the terms of his license' his license shall be revoked or suspended upon the same proceedings as are provided in other cases of revocation or suspension of such licenses. The men have ignored this provision of a law, in addition to Section 301. I find that the general public is beginning to understand the true state of affairs, and when it fully understands it will place its seal of disapproval upon the men who cause delay and incur the severe losses that the City of New York has suffered during the last two years."

When the hour for the walkout arrived last night many of the men refused to leave. There was no disorder of any kind. The men who quit simply tied up the boats and walked off. There was no attempt to replace them by strike-breakers, but enough of the union workers stuck to their posts on most of the lines to continue some sort of service. Officials of the railroad companies annnounced that they would make no attempt last night to get new crews, but asserted that a serious effort to resume service would be made this morning. The police of Manhattan, Jersey City and Hoboken prepared to send details to all of the ferry terminals this morning to prevent disorder.

Jersey Central commuters may have difficulty in reaching Manhattan this morning. Traffic from the Erie and the Pennsylvania may be more easily diverted to the tubes and steps were taken last night to provide for extra trains under the river. On other occasions Jersey Central trains have been diverted over the Pennsylvania tracks and this may be done today, although Pennsylvania officials said last night that no arrangements had been made to do this.

Hundreds of persons who were barred from ferry lines when service was suspended or interrupted took the Hudson and Manhattan tubes. There was no apparent difficulty in handling the extra crowds.

Walkout on Tugs and Lighters.

The walkout on the tugs and lighters was more general. There was a noticeable decrease during the day in the number of boats in the waters about Manhattan and by last night the railroad officials admitted that the service had been crippled.

Tugs and barges belonging to the railroads that have docks at Jersey City tied up one after another throughout the day. All of the boats of the Jersey Central at the Communipaw yards were deserted. The Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley and Philadelphia & Reading were also affected.

In the Greenpoint section of Brooklyn, tugs, lighters and barges were tied up all along the waterfront and in Wallabout Creek. The striking crews asserted that there would be no one there today to man them.

On the Manhattan side similar conditions prevailed. The crews walked off and when the time came for the other crews to relieve them none of the harbor workers appeared.

Four hundred freight handlers employed on the various piers in Jersey City got orders late yesterday afternoon to strike in sympathy with the harbor men. No demands were made. The Erie track laborers in Jersey City also joined the sympathetic strike. Five hundred handlers in the Pennsylvania's Bay Street yards quit at noon and about the same number went out in the Jersey Central's Communipaw yards.

The union officials said that the strike would automatically extend to all of the freight handlers, as well as to many other railroad workers. They asserted that the service would be completely stopped, so that there would be nothing for them to handle.

Mr. Mantell declared late last night that the strike had failed to materialize as the union leaders had threatened. He said that plans had been made which would insure a speedy resumption of normal service on all the lines.

COMMITTEE KILLS ALL LIQUOR BILLS

TO INVESTIGATE ANDERSON

Excise Committee Will Sit After Adjournment for This Purpose.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 1.—At a meeting tonight the Assembly Excise Committee, by a vote of 7 to 6, voted to kill all pending light wine and beer bills and all other prohibition enforcement measures. This includes the Anti-Saloon League Enforcement bill, which was drafted to make possible the application of provisions in the Volstead act to State enforcement.

It was stated tonight that in all probability a new "liberal" enforcement bill to legalize the traffic in beer and possibly light wines will be prepared and introduced the last week of the session in the event that a decision of the United States Supreme Court should be rendered on April 16 construing the concurrent jurisdiction clause of the Eighteenth Amendment in a manner to make such legislation constitutional.

When the Assembly today adopted a concurrent resolution providing for final adjournment on April 15, which involves the taking over of all functions now exercised by the standing committees of the Assembly by the Committee on Rules next Tuesday, the life of the Assembly Judiciary Committee was extended for a week.

This was largely to permit that body to rake Superintendent William H. Anderson of the New York Anti-Saloon League over the coals in the event that it should be found that his attacks upon "liberal" lawmakers and legislative leaders have had the effect of bringing the Assembly into disrepute with the public.

The Judiciary Committee, under a resolution presented by Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier and adopted by the Assembly, was instructed to summon Anderson before it, investigate the utterances complained of and their effect, give an opportunity to purge himself of any utterances found to have brought him into contempt with the Assembly, and if he fails to do so have him haled before the Assembly for punishment.

This duty, it was stated tonight, the committee will discharge next week. The members expect that it will be an all-day job, but do not propose to permit it to engross their attention for any longer time, as there is much other serious work that must be performed before the committee becomes functus officio.

It is now understood that the investigation of the lobbying activities of the Anti-Saloon League at the Capitol and its money-raising methods may be shifted to the shoulders of the District Attorney of Albany County, who would have power to place the matter before the Grand Jury. The legislative leaders have never been very keen for this probe, which Cuvillier "wished on them."

RYAN FIGHTS STUTZ BAN

step up and settle. It is probable there was very little short covering done yesterday. The action of the Stock Exchange was a straw at which the shorts were only too eager to clutch and there was evidently a hope that some development might come forth which would break the corner.

Instead of the situation easing, however, it developed along lines calculated to cause more squirming as the pressure increased. Early in the day it was known that a meeting of the Directors of the Stutz Motor Car Company was scheduled for the afternoon at which some statement would be made, and the conclusion was formed that a settlement of the difficulties was in sight. The statement, however, when it did come forth, afforded no comfort for the shorts. It was the announcement of an 80,000-share stock dividend on Stutz stock, this coming on top of a 20,000-share dividend which will fall due to holders of record Monday.

The new stock dividend is payable in four installments of 20,000 shares each, as follows: July 8, to holders of record June 15; Oct. 8, to holders of record Sept. 15; Jan. 7, 1921, to holders of record Dec. 15, and April 8, 1921, to holders of record March 15, 1921. A special meeting of the stockholders has been called for May 5 to act on the proposed increase in the capital stock. When the first installment of this new stock dividend falls due the outstanding Stutz shares will number 120,000 and the dividend will be paid on these shares. The next dividend therefore will be paid on 140,000 shares and so on until the capital has been increased to 200,000 shares.

Announcement of a stock dividend paid in this manner was construed by some as a means taken to hold up the price of Stutz shares against all attacks. Instead of the plight of the shorts being alleviated, it is made more difficult by the new stock dividend declaration, as it makes practically untenable the position which might be assumed of staying short of Stutz over a long period in the hope that the price of the shares would decline and therefore make covering easier. Dividends always follow the stock and since the shorts have no stock they may be forced to buy in shares to meet the stock dividend, unless a money settlement can be agreed upon.

It was the assertion of the Stock Exchange that it had discovered that Allan A. Ryan and interests identified with him held more stock and contracts for delivery of stock than there were shares outstanding. With trading in the stock suspended on the Stock Exchange, there was some question yesterday as to just what method the shorts could take to meet their stock dividend payments. The stock must sell ex-dividend at some time before payment is due. With the books closing on Monday for a one-fifth share stock dividend, which was declared last month, the shorts, unless they can cover, might give a due bill, but this would fall for payment on April 15 and to ease their position there would have to be a sharp break in Stutz in the next two weeks.

At yesterday's meeting of the Directors of the Stutz Company Mr. Ryan resigned as President and was elected Chairman of the board and William N. Thompson of Indianapolis was elected President. George H. Saylor was elected Treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the promotion of Mr. Thompson. After the meeting Mr. Ryan was asked if he had any comment to make on the action of the New York Stock Exchange. He replied: "Don't ask me about that."

addressed the board and left with us the thought that, owing to the importance of the subject and the delay that had already ensued, the whole matter should be taken up at once and expedited to the greatest possible extent. At some preliminary work was necessary, subsequent conferences were held March 22 to 25, inclusive, within which time you submitted your respective propositions. A recess was then taken during which the railroad representatives considered your requests and compiled figures to estimate the increased yearly costs. A very conservative estimate shows a total of more than $1,000,000,000. This estimate is based only on the requested changes in the rates of pay, and no attempt has been made to estimate the cost of changes in rules which would further materially increase the total. Consideration of your requests and the bases upon which they are predicated have convinced our conference that there is no intermediate ground which could be reached that in itself would not represent an aggregate sum so great as to be beyond the possibility of our reaching a settlement.

"To study all angles of the subject exhaustively would require a long time, and notwithstanding any points which might develop in your favor, the railroads could not assume the responsibility of adding such a burden to the costs of transportation, excepting with full knowledge and consent of the public through its representatives, and we must, therefore, decline to grant your requests, and let the matter be disposed of as provided for in the Transportation act.

"We feel that it would be an injustice to you and those you represent to further prolong these conferences, and if you desire to appeal to the Labor Board, we invite you to select a committee of your representatives to work with a committee which we may select to prepare data on the various aspects of the subject, so that if we can agree upon such data, even in part, some time, at least, will be saved in presenting the case to the Labor Board.

"We note that the propositions submitted include several subjects which we understood were disposed of by the United States Railroad Administration prior to the termination of Federal control, and therefore ought not to be considered as pending. However, in view of our conclusions as to the disposition of the present requests, it appears unnecessary to enter into a discussion of these features of the situation at this time."

Labor Board's Problem.

The Labor Board which must finally act upon the demands has not yet been appointed by the President, although nominations have been sent in by both the railway unions and the railway executives. They will have three members each upon the board, and the President will appoint three representatives of the public. Under the law, the President must wait thirty days before making any appointments to the Labor Board. The thirty days were up yesterday.

GUARANTEE COST, $175,000,000.

Houston Estimates That This Sum Must Be Advanced to Roads.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The guarantee provisions of the new railroad law will cost the Government approximately $175,000,000 for the six months they are operative, it was estimated tonight by Secretary Houston.

He said that machinery was being created to handle advances to the railroads and loans from the $300,000,000 revolving fund, and that several corporations already had filed applications to cover deficits for which the guarantee sections provide relief.

Coincidentally with the Treasury announcement, Governor Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, made public the personnel of the board's Railway Advisory Committee, which will examine securities offered to cover advances or loans. F. A. Delano and Paul M. Warburg, former members of the board, and Bradley H. Palmer, Boston attorney, will compose this committee, which now has before it inquiries with respect to its policies and acceptable security.

No action is expected until the committee has discussed the entire situation with members of the Interstate Commerce Commission, which receives all applications. A railroad committee was scheduled to confer with the commission on this subject next week, and it was indicated that no principles would be outlined until the corporations' views have been set out.

REIGN OF TERROR IN KIEV.

Bolsheviki Replace Police in Ukrainian Capital by Chinese.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 31.—Russian and Jewish refugees arriving in Lemberg, Galicia, report that in consequence of the incessant fighting between the Bolsheviki and the Ukranians, Kiev has been completely ruined, and that the population has decreased from 400,000 to 150,000. Food was obtainable only at exhorbitant prices.

The refugees assert that the supreme authority was in the hands of a Bolshevist committee, that bands of Bolsheviki continually strolled through the streets day and night, and that rifle firing was constantly heard.

"The Noble Art of Boxing A Hand-Tailored Topcoat"

IN a squared circle or on a tailor's bench, boxing is a matter of hand-work. Now, in boxing a hand-tailored topcoat, one leads with the left and and follows with the right. That is, one feints with the fabric and makes short arm jabs with the needle.

Of course, a box-back connotes draping. But only delicate hand-workmanship can achieve that nicety of balance in the neck and blades which gives to a box-back it zephyrful mobility of line.

CROKER AND WIFE TO FIGHT CHILDREN

Both Blame Richard for Getting Howard to Bring Suit Over Estate.

WILL TAKE LEGAL ACTION

Mrs. Croker Says Sons Want Father's Life—He Attacks Both of Them.

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, Fla., April 1.—Mrs. Richard Croker in the presence of her husband and uncontradicted by him today accused Richard Croker, Jr., of gross misconduct in connection with administration of his father's affairs. She said they were now going to proceed against him as the only means left to rid themselves of what they charge to be his "persecution," the last evidence of which they point to being the suit Howard Croker started in the Circuit Court yesterday to have his father judged mentally incompetent and have a committee appointed to take charge of him and of his property.

While it is Howard Croker who is bringing the suit, the father and stepmother say they blame Richard more than they do Howard for what has been attempted. The question of Mr. Croker's sanity is not likely to be passed upon by a court for several weeks, as Judge E. B. Donnell, who issued the injunction yesterday restraining Mrs. Croker from disposing of any property and restraining the banks of this country from honoring her checks or allowing her access to safe deposit boxes, is sick in bed. Furthermore, H. L. Bussey, Mr. Croker's Palm Beach lawyer, says that he will require two weeks to get ready for the argument.

Mrs. Croker made this statement:

"I can only believe that Richard and Howard Croker want my husband's life. Last Spring they served us as we were about to board the steamer in New York for Ireland, where they know he is always most comfortable in summer, and now they serve us here just as we were about to leave. We were going to leave Palm Beach for Ireland on Saturday of this week. They do this because they know he cannot stand the hot weather here and their injunction has got us tied up without any money. They do not believe and neither will any one else believe that he is insane, and while he lives they have no chance of getting his money."

At this juncture Mr. Croker broke in to comment that he'd bet the boys had spent $10,000 on their law suits already.

"Isn't it a shame," he continued, "to think of my own sons trying to put me away and after I have done so much for them? Richard has plenty of money, and lots of it I helped him make without his ever suspecting it. He thinks that Conners got him his contracts, but I was the one that got Conners to get them for him. It was his father looking after him all the time. It is Richard who is bringing this suit. The bill says Howard is doing it, but it is Richard's work. Howard is too lazy to go to so much trouble. Howard don't know he's alive and Richard sends him after me. You know a man isn't right that will treat his old father that way. Those boys are not responsible, and that's letting them down easy.

"Their Aunt Sarah is in an insane asylum now, and I guess maybe that has something to do with this whole affair.

"You know what Connors told Richard the other day," said Mr. Croker, referring to William J. Connors, former Chairman of the New York State Democratic Committee. "He told him if 'I was crazy it was a pretty good kind of crazy because I had made a million dollars in real estate since I came down here. You go ask Connors what else he told Richard. I'll say that he laid that boy out, and he's the one that can do it. According to Richard I grew absent minded about the time I got married and when I took that power of attorney away from him then I became crazy. I took that power of attorney away from him because I became suspicious of his honesty."

Mrs. Croker was asked about certain allegations in the bill of complaint in connection with charges that she in various ways misrepresented herself to Mr. Croker at the time of her marriage and "sought to ingratiate herself into his affections, realizing him to be a man of wealth, and falsely represented herself as 23 years of age, and of royal Indian blood, the direct descendant of Sequoyah, greatest of Cherokee Indians, and fasely represented to him that she was a woman of culture, * * * and by reason of seductive methods and subtle devices, worked herself into the love, affection and confidence of Richard Croker, who, through lack of mentality, believed her; that she did so with the intent of defrauding the said Richard Croker, Sr., of a large part or all of his wealth."

"All that is absurd," Mrs. Croker said. "In the first place I was 23 when I was married. I guess my mother knows. I have wired my father and mother to come here and give testimony concerning this and other allegations, and it will be found when the accounts and properties are examined that everything is all right."

H. L. Bussey, lawyer for the Crokers, gave out a statement tonight in which he called attention to the fact that the injunction yesterday was issued without notice and without opportunity to contest its issuance, although the bill failed to allege the matters required by the court rules of this State as a condition precedent to the issuance of an injunction without notice. The statement continued:

"We are preparing to ask for a dissolution of the injunction, but do not know just when the application can be made because of the illness of Judge Donnell, which prevents the fixing of any definite date for the hearing.

"Speaking for myself, and not for Mr. Croker, it should be no surprise to anyone that Mr. Croker refuses to receive either his son Richard or his son Howard. Last February, at a time when Mr. Croker, Sr., was dangerously ill at his home in Palm Beach he received his son Howard and entertained him there. During the visit it became necessary for Mrs. Croker to come to West Palm Beach and while she was absent Howard went to Mr. Croker's room and engaged in a heated controversy with Mr. Croker Sr., lasting about an hour and a half and only departed when Mrs. Croker reappeared. Dr. Noah Jackson can bear witness to the unfavorable effect of that interview upon Mr. Croker's health.

"When Mr. and Mrs. Croker returned from Ireand last Fall Richard Croker, Jr., called upon them at the Hotel Savoy, in New York City, drew Mr. Croker, Sr., into a controversy, and used insulting language toward him, and the interview was closed by Mr. Croker, Jr., leaving the hotel at the invitation of the hotel authorities.

"In addition to all this and many other matters, Mr. Croker's sons are now maintaining no less than six law suits against him in the courts of New York.

"Such information as has been obtained upon these visits or at these interviews has been later rearranged and adopted to fit the purpose of further annoyance to both Mr. and Mrs. Croker. Because of these facts and under the advice of his New York attorneys, Mr. Croker, Sr., has refused to receive either of his sons since last Fall.

"Within the last month, to my own knowledge, detectives at Palm Beach and West Palm Beach, crude and coarse in their methods, have hounded and slandered both Mr. and Mrs. Croker. It is easy to surmise under what inspiration they acted. Certain citizens of West Palm Beach recently visited the Palms Hotel in this city for the purpose of terminating the stay at West Palm Beach of one of these detectives and with the additional aim of treating him to a coat of tar in the event he failed to respect their limit to his visit. The detective was not found at the hotel, but evidently got wind of the errand of these citizens. He has not since been seen here, but th visit of Richard, Jr., and Howard came immediately after his departure.

his son, Richard Croker, Jr., giving the latter full authority to manage all his financial affairs. The complaint then asserts that up to November, 1914, the two sons and two daughters "enjoyed the love, affection and confidence of their father, and received from him all the fatherly considerations to which they were entitled, and that such love and affection were mutual and reciprocal."

It is alleged, however, that within a few months of the death of Mrs. Elizabeth R. Croker, the mother of the four Croker children, the present wife of their father became acquainted with him. It is contended in the complaint that Mrs. Bula E. Croker, prior to 1913, resided in Oklahoma and that she was born there about 1880 or 1881, and was known in Oklahoma as Bula Edmonson.

The complaint continues further:

"Shortly prior to 1914, and about the year 1912 or 1913, the said Bula E. Croker became a resident of New York City; that during the course of the acquaintance between them the said defendant, Bula E. Croker, realizing that the said Richard Croker, Sr., was a man of large means and wealth, sought to ingratiate herself into his affections and falsely represented to the said Richard Croker, Sr., that she was then of the age of 23 years and was of royal Indian blood, and that she was a direct descendant of Chief Sequoyah, the greatest man of the Indian tribe of Cherokees, and falsely represented to him that she was a woman of culture, refinement and good reputation.

"And by reason of the charms and smooth manner, ingratiating ways, seductive methods, and her subtle devices and deceit, she quickly worked herself into the confidence, love and affection of the said Richard Croker, Sr., who, through lack of mentality and by reason of her undue influence, believed such false representations and pretensions, and soon became helpless in her toils."

Referring to the marriage of Mr. Croker, Sr., and his second wife in the residence of Nathan Straus in this city on Nov. 26, 1914, the petitioner continues:

"The said Bula E. Croker, the defendant herein, persuaded and inveigled the said Richard Croker, Sr., notwithstanding the differences in ages and the unsuitability of a marriage between them, and her knowledge of his feeble mind and impaired physical condition, to marry her; that such scheming and connivance were perpetrated by the defendant with the intent of securing and defrauding the said Richard Croker, Sr., of a large part or all of his wealth, and with the deliberate intent of defeating the children, who were the natural objects of his love and affection, of the bounty which their father had theretofore bestowed upon them."

Says Mrs. Croker Lacks Culture.

Howard Croker then, on information or belief, declares that the alleged claims to culture and refinement advanced by Mrs. Croker, Sr., were "false and untrue; that your orator has learned that the defendant is not a direct descendant of royal Indian blood or of the Prince Sequoyah; that the defendant was not a person of culture, refinement and good character, but on the contrary was a person lacking in refinement, culture and reputation." The complaint comments on the defendant's acquaintance with other men and adds "that the defendant was not 23 years of age, as claimed by her, at the time of her marriage, but was about the age of 31 years."

It is then alleged in the complaint that at the time Mrs. Croker, Sr., was being courted by the one-time Tammany boss she was without financial resources, and was dependent for her maintenance during his courtship of six weeks on friends. It is further averred by Howard Croker that after her marriage in Mr. Straus's home Mrs. Croker, Sr., "in furtherance of her fraudulent scheming and connivance" so wormed herself into her husband's good graces, "who soon became helpless under her power."

Howard Croker also alleges in the complaint that his stepmother made false representations concerning the honesty and integrity of his brother, Richard Croker, Jr., and caused their father to withdraw the power of attorney he had conferred on Richard, Jr. He also alleges that Mrs. Bula E. Croker induced her husband to compel his son Richard, Jr., to turn over to him records, books, vouchers, and evidences showing accounts and transactions made by the son in behalf of the father during the period of his management of the father's financial affairs, and to deliver to his father all the money, securities and other personal property then in Richard, Jr.'s, possession.

Stepmother's Charges Called False.

Howard Croker again asserts on information and belief that his stepmother falsely represented to their father that the records of Richard, Jr.'s, transactions for his father had been kept in a fraudulent manner, and that she had represented to their father that Richard, Jr., had misappropriated and withheld large sums of money and securities. He further charges that, knowing such alleged assertions to be untrue, Mrs. Croker, Sr., made them with the deliberate intent of destroying the faith and confidence which the father had in his son, Richard, so that the management of the Croker estate, estimated to be worth more than $10,000,000, would be placed in her hands. It is then added in the complaint that Mrs. Croker, Sr., "did subsequently obtain possession of the same for herself."

It is asserted in the complaint that during 1917 and 1918 Mrs. Croker, Sr., had so poisoned the mind of her husband against his two sons and two daughters that he wrote to them, at the instance of their stepmother, "various false, scandalous and libelous letters," and among other things accused Richard Croker, Jr., of having defrauded his brother and two sisters of large sums of money.

The letters, he asserts, were inspired by the defendant's deliberate intent to cause dissension and disagreement among the children and the father. Mrs. Croker, Sr., also is accused of having done everything within her power to prevent the children and the father coming together without her being present and always had her husband "closely within her control and in her immediate presence." Howard Croker also asserts that she refused to let his father have friendly relations with any of his old-time acquaintances, so that she might have full sway over him without possible interference.

The petition concludes with the statement that unless the court makes the injunction permanent Mrs. Croker, Sr., will continue to withdraw and secrete her aged husband's assets and that "she contemplates shortly leaving the Florida jurisdiction and going abroad with her husband to make their permanent residence in Ireland, taking with her all such assets and property as are capable of being moved."

Wants Defendant to Answer.

Howard Croker requests the court to compel Mrs. Bula E. Croker to make a complete answer to his complaint, although he waives his right to have Mrs. Croker, Sr.'s, answer obtained under oath. He further requests that if the court consents to appoint a committee of his father's estate his stepmother be not named on the committee and that in as much as his father, in his belief, is of unsound mind, that the committee be authorized also to care for his father's person until such time as the court appoints a guardian under the laws of the State.

A demand also is contained in the complaint that all the property alleged to have been obtained by Mrs. Croker, Sr., from her husband, including real estate and money, be turned back to his father, with all her rights, title and interest in such property, especially that in which she is named as the joint owner with her husband. It is also requested in the complaint that Mrs. Croker, Sr., be compelled to reveal all the real and personal property she has received from her aged husband or through him, and it is demanded that she be enjoined from disposing of any of the property alleged to be in her possession, and which formerly is alleged to have been the property of her husband.

Affidavits by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Croker, Richard Croker, Jr., and Mrs. Ethel White, wife of Thomas F. White, a contractor, and daughter of the petitioner, also were filed with the complaint. In his affidavit supporting his brother's complaint Richard Croker, Jr., tells of a conference called by the father in the family residence at 5 East Seventy-fourth Street, soon after the death of his first wife. His father announced to them, he alleges, the nature of the trust fund he had provided for his children and indicated that the father and his children were in perfect accord at the time. Then Richard Croker, Jr., tells of the receipt of the first news from a friend of the family that the old Tammany leaders was going to marry, and the efforts of the children to dissuade him from marrying so soon after the death of their mother.

Second Marriage a Surprise.

"My father's decision to marry again came as a surprise," says Richard, Jr., "first, because the marriage was fixed to take place within about three days to a woman he had known only six weeks; secondly, because it would take place within six weeks of my mother's funeral; thirdly, we learned of the marriage about three days from the time it took place from a friend, by whom my father sent us the news."

Describing the children's remonstrance against the proposed marriage, the affidavit continues:

"In reply he (Mr. Croker) said that she was an angel; that she had never told a lie in her life; that she was a very refined as well as intelligent woman; that she was an Indian Princess and an absolute stranger in New York City."

Efforts were made by Mr. Croker in 1916 to induce Richard, Jr., to turn over to Mr. Croker's second wife all stocks, bonds, deeds, and other properties of Mr. Croker's then in Richard, Jr.'s, possession, the affidavit says.

At that time Richard, Jr., affirms, "I told my father that he was making a mistake in taking such action, first, because it was unnecessary, satisfactorily to handle his affairs, to have some competent, experienced man who could be on the ground * * * and secondly, because his wife was not a proper person to act in this capacity for the reason that she had deceived my father in connection with the representations she had made to him prior to their marriage; that instead of being 23 years of age, as a matter of fact the records show that she was about 35 years of age at the time of the marriage in 1914."

The affidavit comments unfavorably on Mrs. Croker's life in New York and adds "that her reference to the fact that she was an Indian princess was considered a joke even among the Indians.

"I further said to my father that the statements I made were not based on rumor or hearsay but could easily be confirmed; and so far as business was concerned, the facts of his wife negotiating the placing of the insurance on his horse Orby, a well-known horse, belonging to my father, the circumstances of which he related to me a few days before, showed that her ideas of business principles were such that they might be the means of causing her considerable trouble. I told my father than he had greatly changed when he would let anybody believe that he would countenance a transaction of that kind. In reply he said that he did not believe anything of what I told him."

Change in Father's Attitude.

Howard Croker's affidavit says:

"Shortly after the marriage of said Richard Croker, Sr., deponent noted there was a change in attitude by their father toward his children; he began to show aversion toward meeting his said children; that shortly thereafter, and without any just cause, said Richard Croker, Sr., whenever there was a meeting between his said children and himself, began to unjustly accuse his said children of conspiring against him, and accused his son, Richard Croker, Jr., of having mismanaged and misappropriated considerable amounts of money; that said Richard Croker, Sr., refused to give Richard Croker, Jr., the opportunity to make full disclosure of all his affairs which he had handled for his father.

"There was never any intimation made by our father of any alleged wrong-doing on the part of the said Richard Croker, Jr., until some time after the marriage."

Howard Croker set forth as showing the interruption of the close relations which had existed between the children and their father, that it was only by chance that the children learned of their father's presence in this country on his various trips from Ireland.

Asserting that he had been accustomed to find his father in "a very vigorous condition of mind" and "able to handle large affairs with judgment and ability," Howard continues:

"For the past few years, however, his mind has completely changed and he has become forgetful in many things with which he was intimately connected, and weak, and feeble in mind; very often he would make statements of fact and then, at a subsequent period, would say that he never made such statements; that in a great many matters he seemed to look to his said wife for aid."

Howard refers to an intention of his father to sail on the Carmania on April 10 en route to Dublin, Ireland, and adds: "Deponent has no means of knowing whether he will ever return to this country."

"Deponent further states, as an indication of the manner in which the said defendant, Bula E. Croker, conducts financial matters, that on the 24th day of March, 1920, deponent saw the defendant at or near the Post Office on Olive Street, West Palm Beach, Fla., after having come out of the First National Bank. At that time she was alone, and deponent saw her tear up a piece of paper and throw the pieces in the street. Deponent caused these pieces of paper to be picked up, and saw that it was part of a note made and signed by Richard Croker, Sr., and Bula E. Croker, payable to the order of the First National Bank of West Palm Beach, Fla., in the amount of $11,000, dated March 4, 1920; that said note was canceled and had a stamp of the bank. Subsequently her husband met her. Deponent verily believes that the said defendant is destroying for some purpose or other important records of her financial transactions."

Alleging that Mrs. Croker exercises "a dominating power upon his enfeebled mind" the affidavit cites that she has caused all of Crocker's real estate to be transferred to herself and Croker jointly. The affidavit says "the deponent further avers that such transfers have been made without any monetary consideration whatsoever, and have been made for the purpose of completing and carrying out the fraudulent intent with which said defendant married said Richard Croker, well knowing that he has but a short time to live and, being desirous of having the record title to the property in her name at the time of his death."

On two occasions, Howard says, his father was seriously ill but Mrs. Croker failed to notify the children.

His failure to properly fill out stubbs for checks made out by him on his father's account in banks in this country, Richard Croker, Jr., further alleges in his affidavit, led up to the dispute with his father which culminated in his hands over the management of his father's estate. He declares that he offered to call in another lawyer to go over his records and accounts, but that his father turned a deaf ear to the proposition. Since then, he avers in his affidavit, he has been forced to go into the courts of this State for a ruling on several accounts still in dispute between his father and himself.

"It was not until some months later during 1917 that I had intimation that my father felt there had been any dishonesty, irregularities or mismanagement on my part in the handling of his affairs," he continues. "Through Mr. Leventritt, an attorney in New York City, I received word that my father wished to revoke the trust already mentioned and that I should surrender all the funds comprising the trust estate which were to be sent him. I wrote my father explaining that as trustee I could not accept a revocation. He replied I was not to be trusted as trustee of the trust estate or as executor of my mother's estate and that I had grossly mismanaged his affairs, that by drawing checks on his bank account and omitting to keep any record of same I was misappropriating his money to my own use.

Asked for Investigation.

"I told him he was mistaken and I would welcome a thorough investigation. I suggested in case he found it inconvenient to take up the matter personally that he authorize his attorney and an accountant to do so. I asked my sister and brother to take up with my father the matter of the accusations for the purpose of persuading him to give me an opportunity on his first visit to New York of showing what I had done by the complete records I had turned over to his wife. These held full information relating to his affairs. Upon their return to New York my brother and sister told me he refused.

"Finally I saw him at the National Democratic Club, June 4, 1919, where he said that Bula, his wife, in going over the data I had given him in December, 1916, had discovered all this alleged wrongdoing on my part. I spent considerable time that night endeavoring to have him confine himself to facts, but that was impossible. It was difficult to follow his rambling statements. I realized he had been misinformed. I reassured him for particulars, and he admitted his memory was poor. He knew everything was wrong, since Bula, his wife, had so told him.

"He said, 'If I went to your office you could show me anything you liked because you and your secretary have your accounts and statements padded.' I said in substance that if he would bring his lawyer and an accountant to my office I could soon convince him that Bula had deceived him and wished to make us bad friends. My father said the subject was disagreeable and he did not wish to further talk about it.

Served Father with Papers.

"I told him there was but one thing left for me to do. That since he refused to give an opportunity to show that he was wrong I must take legal action in order to prove he had made a mistake. I said: 'I must serve you with summons in three suits.' He threw the summonses on the floor and said: 'I won't accept service,' and walked out of the club."

Richard Croker, Jr., goes on to say he saw his father again in December, 1919, at the Savoy Hotel, New York, on the way from Ireland to Palm Beach. His wife was present and in the conversation. She said Mr. Croker's memory was rapidly failing and that it was necessary for her to correct and help him. The affidavit continues:

"His statements were contradictory not only as to what he said at that time, but contradictory to previous statements. His mind was more confused than ever regarding the subject that we had talked about. He pleaded loss of memory when pressed for facts. I was struck with the great change that had taken place, both in his mental and physical condition. It was apparent by the frequency and the manner with which Mrs. Croker prompted my father on that occasion that he was relying entirely on what she had told him.

Croker's Manner Described.

"He also looked at her in the most meek and appealing way, to ascertain whether or not what he had to say met with her approval. He is incapable of concentrating for even a short time, and consequently is unable intelligently to discuss or understand the simplest business transactions or to manage or direct his own affairs; he has been influenced by his wife to such an extent that he no longer feels free to express his own opinion or exercise his own judgment, and he has been turned against his children whom he refused to see, and against many of his best friends in Ireland, New York City and Palm Beach, with whom he is no longer permitted to associate. I have known of many instances where after my father has been advised to take action contrary to his wife's plans where she has succeeded in breaking up these friendships and secluding my father from them, thus preventing him from learning the true situation in matters in which he was interested."

Nathan Says Croker Is Sane.

Harold Nathan, a member of the firm of Leventritt, Cook, Lehman & Nathan, counsel for Richard Croker, Sr., announced yesterday that he would leave for Palm Beach today to confer with the old Tammany leader in regard to the injunction proceeding instituted by his children.

"Richard Croker, Sr., is just as mentally competent and keen today as he was in his palmy days," Mr. Nathan declared at his office, 115 Broadway, yesterday. He is perfectly able to attend to his own affairs, but some of the children of Mr. Croker are not inclined to permit him to do so. They want to dictate to Mr. Croker just what they want him to do with his property and they have undertaken to charge him with senility because they don't approve of what he is doing."

He declared that ex-Justice David Leventritt of the Supreme Court, a member of the firm, had known Richard Croker, Sr., for a great many years and if anybody was in a position to detect mental incompetency on the part of the old Tammany leader Justice Leventritt certainly was the man.

"Mr. Croker, Sr., was in this office last December," continued Mr. Nathan. "I conversed with him and he revealed himself to be just as sharp and keen as ever he had been. This pretense that the old man is subject to his wife's domination is an outrage. It is rot and nonsense and was started to create an impression that he is not of sound mind.

"In an affidavit Mr. Croker filed in the Supreme Court some time ago when we applied to have set aside a default decision obtained by Richard Croker, Jr., in one of his several suits against his father, Mr. Croker, Sr., told of the actions of his son, Richard, in the dining room of the Savoy Hotel one evening when the old man and his wife were at dinner. The father alleged in that affidavit that his son approached his table, and insulted him, calling him among other things, a liar.

"The father swore in that affidavit that his son's conduct toward him became such that he had to appeal to the management of the hotel to come to his protection, and he also stated in his affidavit that the manager of the hotel ordered young Croker put out.

"We received a telegram this morning from Mr. Croker, Sr., informing us that his son had brought an injunction proceeding in the Palm Beach County Court. I have not had any other communication from him since then, and I therefore, do not know what steps he has taken in the matter to date. I assume he has employed local counsel, but I shall know all about the matter when I reach Palm Beach."

MINERS PROTEST COAL PRICE RISE

CALL COST 40-50c MORE

Workers' Responsibility Disclaimed —Anthracite Men Renew Conferences.

There will be no justification for a rise of from 65 cents to $1.50 a ton in the price of coal as a result of the new wage agreement giving miners in the bituminous fields an increase of 27 per cent. which was signed in this city on Wednesday, according to a statement made last night by Ellis Searles, who said he spoke on behalf of the United Mine Workers of America. He said that the increase in the cost of production due to the rise in wages would not be more than 40 to 50 cents a ton, and that the workers should not be held responsible for the proposed advance.

The first intimation of such an advance in the price of coal came from T. L. Lewis, Secretary of the New River Coal Operators' Association of West Virginia, who declared that the operators were now justified in advancing their prices, which in his territory he believed would be from $1 to $1.50 a ton because of the miners wage advance. Other operators said the advances would be from 65 cents to $1.50 a ton.

"When Fuel Administrator Garfield granted the miners a 14 per cent. increase in wages last Fall," said Mr. Searles, "he said that the 14 per cent. could and should be absorbed by the operators and that they could afford to pay it out of their profits. But the operators did not pay the increase out of their profits. Instead, they passed on to the public at least 80 to 90 per cent. of the increase by increasing their selling price.

"The present increase in wages adds 13 per cent. to the pay of the miners above the 14 per cent. granted by Mr. Garfield. If Mr. Garfield was right in saying the operators could absorb and pay the 14 per cent. increase out of their profits, then they certainly can at least absorb the 13 per cent. now instead of passing it on to the public.

"If the operators make an unreasonable or unnecessary increase in the price of coal, the miners want the public to know that they are not responsible."

It was the belief of the miners' officials that the Government made a mistake in lifting the price restrictions on coal at just this time. They believe that the Fuel Administration has played indirectly into the hands of the operators because they say that 75 per cent of the contracts for coal are made about April 1, while the greatest number of buyers are in the market. This will tend to send prices higher than ever before.

The conference seeking the negotiation of a new wage contract between anthracite operators and miners was resumed at the Union League Club yesterday, when John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mine Workers, took part in the meeting with Philip Murray, International Vice President. Most

TELL D'ANNUNZIO WILSON PLAN WINS

Nitti Said to Have Informed Him Italy Will Have to Accept President's Offer.

FIUME 'REPUBLIC' WITHHELD

TRIESTE, April 1 (Associated Press).—The Italian Government has notfied Gabriele d'Annunzio that it will have to accept President Wilson's project for the settlement of the Adriatic question. An envoy from Premier Nitti has been to Fiume, where he made this decision known to d'Annunzio, the insurgent Italian commander there.

A meeting was held in Fiume at which all of d'Annunzio's volunteers were present. At this meeting Alceste de Ambris, chief of the d'Annunzio Cabinet, declared the proclamation of Fiume as an independent state would be made only in case such action was necessary to protect the Italian character of the city, to guarantee the principles for which d'Annunzio went to Fiume and to insure to that city possession of the port and railways.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The American Government has not been advised that Italy has decided to accept President Wilson's settlement of the Fiume question, White House and State Department officials said today.

Italy and Jugoslavia have been undertaking to reach a settlement of the Adriatic problem by direct negotiations, which were begun when President Wilson refused to accede to the new arrangement agreed upon by the allied Supreme Council at London and communicated to Jugoslavia in the form of an ultimatum. It is the opinion here the latest move by Italy is simply one phase of the development of these negotiations, for it is believed to be essential to any permanent settlement that d'Annunzio be eliminated as a factor.

This condition must be met, it was said, if the Wilson plan, which contemplates the creation of a free State of Fiume, is adopted or if, through the failure of the direct negotiations between Italy and Jugoslavia, the former succeeds in its demand for the application of the provisions of the treaty of London which leaves Fiume in the possession of the Jugoslavs.

SENATE UPHOLDS NITTI.

ROME, April 1.—The Senate today after an address by Premier Nitti on the Government program adopted a vote of confidence in the Government. The vote was 107 to 11.

Senator Mazziotti deplored that the Government had not yet succeeded in having the Peace Treaty with Austria ratified by France and England. He criticised Premier Nitti's frequent expressions of friendship for the Jugoslavs, declaring the Jugoslavs did not reciprocate this sentiment.

"It is not true. I will demonstrate that Fiume has been eating twice as much as Italy."

Senator de Novellis approved the foreign policy of the Cabinet and suggested the idea of forming an Adriatic confederation, with the different peoples having outlets on the eastern shore of that sea. He recommended liberty and independence for Montenegro and Albania, besides autonomy for Dalmatia, which had enjoyed it for 2,000 years.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, March 31.—Following the vote of confidence given to Premier Nitti in the Chamber yesterday, inquiry was made among Senators and Deputies to ascertain their opinion concerning the present situation. The following sums up their views:

"After days of stormy discussions both in the Chamber and press, when it seemed as though the Nitti Cabinet had not the least chance to survive, the atmosphere almost imperceptibly changed daily in favor of the Premier, who finally triumphed.

"Although we foresaw he would get a few votes' majority we never expected as many as 55, which is a great victory considering the majority he obtained last December.

"Nitti's clear, straightforward speech concerning the financial, economic and social conditions of the country convinced the Catholics that this was not the moment to create a crisis which would only further complicate the already serious situation. They argued that it was useless to overthrow Nitti, who accepts a large part of their program, unless they themselves were strong enough to assume power for the realization of their ideals.

"We all attack him and his policy, but when he delivers one of his masterful speeches, setting before us in trenchant terms the obstacles Government has to overcome and the colossal problems that have to be solved, even some most irrepressible Socialists are silenced and nonplussed."

If the authorities are correct in their estimate, you have a 5 per cent chance to remain free from unfavorable mouth acids throughout your life. RED DRIVE HALTED ON POLISH FRONT

MAY STRIKE TOWARD VILNA

WARSAW, March 30.—Only artillery duels and a few skirmishes on the Polesian front are reported in today's official statement issued at the War Office, yesterday being the quietest day on all fronts since the Bolsheviki began their Spring offensive on March 21.

Reports have been received here indicating the Bolsheviki are withdrawing large numbers of units from the vicinity of Odessa, and it is believed they intend to make a concentrated drive on the northern front before Spring thaws begin.

Some time ago President Pilsudski announced the Poles were more than ready for the Bolsheviki "wherever or whenever they attack on any and all fronts."

Simon Petlura, the Ukrainian leader, has visited Prague for the purpose of arranging for the formation of a Czech army to be used against the Russian Bolsheviki on the Ukrainian front, according to newspapers here. No announcement is made as to the size of the army contemplated.

A force of 6,000 Ukrainians, newly recruited, was recently thrown against the Soviet line on the southern front, it is stated in dispatches received here.

The note of M. Tchitcherin, the Russian Soviet Foreign Minister, addressed to the Poles concerning peace pourparlers, says the Russian Republican Government of Soviets "accepts with pleasure the Polish communication indicating Poland's readiness to open peace negotiations April 10, seeing in it future friendship between two neighboring countries."

With reference to ceasing military activities and a meeting for the discussion of peace Tchitcherin says:

"In the meantime the Soviet Government proposes an armistice on the entire Polish-Russian front and wishes the assembly of the Polish and Russian peace delegations to take place on neutral ground, preferably in some town in Esthonia."

The Militarists say the Bolsheviki merely want an armistice to give them time to bring up reinforcements along the whole front.

HONOLULU, T. H., April 1 (Associated Press).—Seven hundred Japanese troops and civilians were killed in the two-day battle with Russian Bolshevist forces at Nikolaevsk, Siberia, according to a Tokio cable dispatch received by the Japanese newspaper Nippu Jiji here.

The Japanese residents organized a volunteer force to aid the Japanese soldiers fight a heavy force of Bolsheviki.

Consul Ishida, who disappeared when the Japanese consulate was burned, is still missing, according to the cable.

The two-day battle began on March 18. Nikolaevsk is at the mouth of the Amur River.

Proposals for peace between Soviet Russia and Japan, China and the United States are announced here by M. Vilenski, Bolshevist envoy, who recently arrived here from Moscow. The Soviet Government gives a pledge not to carry on propaganda in America, recognizes Japan's "special interest" in the Far East and renounces all claims to concessions in China.

SAYS ARTIST KILLED WIFE.

Italian Clears Up Two-Year-Old Peruvian Murder Mystery in Rome.

ROME, March 31.—Senora Luis Ignatius Mesones, wife of the Peruvian artist arrested here last Winter on a charge of murder, was slain by her husband and accomplices in a hotel in this city, according to a confession said to have been made in court today by a man named Tomashetti.

Investigation has proved that the body of a supposed suicide found on the banks of the Tiber in January, 1918, was that of Senora Mesones, and Tomashetti told the court, it is asserted, that the body of the slain woman was taken from the hotel and left where it was found.

For more than two years the name of the woman was believed to be Maria Rotellini. It was said by Tomashetti that Senora Mesones had ben told she had a rival in her husband's affections and adopted that name in an effort to discover and punish her husband's duplicity. She was led into a trap, it was asserted, and was herself slain. It is said the information contained in the confession has been confirmed by other information in the hands of the police.

NO PRESSURE INTENDED, COLBY SATISFIES CHILE

Foreign Minister Huidobro Assures Ambassador Shea He Understands Our Attitude.

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 1.—An exchange of friendly notes has taken place between the Minister of Foreign Affairs and the American Ambassador at Santiago, Joseph H. Shea, establishing that the United States, according to the declaration of the American Secretary of State, never pretended intervention, but limited its action merely to "counsels of conciliation," without any idea of exercising pressure on Chile on the question of Peru and Bolivia.

The note of the Foreign Minister says that Chile has not accepted and never will accept the intervention of foreign powers on the question of Tacna-Arica. Ambassador Shea recalls that the United States never dreamed of intervention.

BUENOS AIRES, April 1.—The United States Government, in its recent note to Chile asking that country to leave nothing undone to prevent a rupture between Peru and Bolivia, did not intend to "exercise pressure nor intervene in any form." That such a statement has been made by Secretary Colby to the Chilean Ambassador at Washington, Beltran Mathieu, is disclosed in a note Foreign Minister Huidobro of Chile has delivered to United States Ambassador Shea at Santiago, the text of which is published here.

SHOWS CAILLAUX WEALTH.

Expert Says Money Was Not a Factor in the Case.

PARIS, April 1.—At today's session of the trial of former Premier Joseph Caillaux, charged with treason, M. Doyen, a noted expert accountant, gave the High Court the results of a detailed examination into the pecuniary resources of the accused.

The examination, the expert set forth, showed that M. Caillaux's possessions, including his wife's property, amounted to 1,187,000 francs in 1898, 800,000 francs at the beginning of the war and had decreased an additional 33,000 francs by the time the investigation of the case against the ex-Premier was begun.

This state of things showed, said the expert, "that the Caillaux affair could not have involved a question of money."

MACPHERSON QUITS AS IRISH SECRETARY

DUBLIN PRESS ASSAILS BILL

London Newspapers Follow Party Lines, but Some See Lloyd George's Proposal Gaining.

LONDON, April 1.—Ian Macpherson, Chief Secretary for Ireland, has resigned his office and the resignation has been accepted, it was announced officially this afternoon. Sir Hamar Greenwood, Under Secretary for Home Affairs, has been offered the Secretaryship, according to the newspapers.

Comment in London newspapers this morning on the debate in the House of Commons yesterday on the Irish Home Rule bill follows the usual party lines.

The Daily News, which is equally antagonistic to the Premier and the bill, asserts that the debate had only one effect, to expose the impracticability of the measure. The newspaper admits that if the bill "is to be forced through it can be made in committee a little less bad than it is" by converting the Council and the two Parliaments into a Parliament and two Councils.

Daily Mail Sees Bill Gaining.

The Daily Mail, which supports the bill, says the debate produced a marked change in opinion among members of the House of Commons in favor of the bill. The speech of Andrew Bonar Law, the newspaper asserts, brought to the support of the bill members who had decided not to vote for it.

The Daily Telegraph also contends that the Government's case was greatly strengthened by the debate.

The Morning Post, which opposes home rule in any form, blames "the seditious Irish and their American supporters for the disunion and discontent in Ireland and the vindictive refusal to accept any settlement except stark secession."

"If they reject this measure," the newspaper adds, "they must stand confessed as secessionists, and nothing else, in the sight of America."

The Daily Chronicle believes the enactment of the bill is assured. "Even if Dublin sulks and refuses to carry out home rule because it cannot have an independent republic," it says, "the fact that the proffered autonomy is working successfully in Belfast would make it impossible for Dublin to persist in its attitude of willful self-deprivation."

Irish Newspapers Assail Bill.

DUBLIN, April 1.—The Irish Times says that even should the Home Rule bill become law there would remain a wide gap between enactment and enforcement. "Two points," it declares, "will become more obvious as the bill moves toward the statute book—it surrenders three-fourths of Ireland to the forces of anarchy and plants a cancer in every heart in the Empire."

The Freeman's Journal says: "The bill can have no other effect than to make confusion more confounded."

The Irish Independent says: "The bill was framed on the assumption that the Irish people are idiots and that any abominable system of government is good enough for them."

DE VALERA AT ANNAPOLIS.

Greeted by Governor and Addresses Legislators.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 1.—Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," addressed the Maryland House of Delegates today in response to an invitation from that body. He was met at the railroad station here by a delegation of House members and before going to the hall of the House exchanged greetings with Governor Ritchie in the latter's office.

Ireland's case, Mr. de Valera said, was based on the principle of self-determination. Now there are two governments in Ireland, he said, one exercising its power on the authority of its people and the other imposed on it by England.

As soon as Mr. de Valera concluded his speech he left Annapolis. He will, it is understood, address the Legislature of Delaware tomorrow.

IRISH MARCH ON CAPITOL.

Women Attempt Demonstration, but Are Escorted Away by Police.

DANES PREPARE ARMY TO OCCUPY FLENSBURG

Government Also Takes Measures to Suppress Disorder if General Strike Is Begun.

COPENHAGEN, April 1.—Despite reports that were current late yesterday and last night that there appeared to be excellent prospects of a settlement of the general strike called by the Danish labor unions, the Politiken today reports Government preparations to put the military forces in shape for dealing with possible trouble.

The troops in Copenhagen, the Politiken says, have been served with ball cartridges and the soldiers have been instructed to be prepared to use their arms against demonstrators. Much anxiety, adds the newspaper, has been caused by a report that there is unrest in this connection among the non-commissioned officers.

The newspaper also reports that the Cabinet has issued a notice calling up enlisted men who are not now in service for the purpose of having them take part in an occupation of the Flensburg zone, the plebiscite area which recently voted in favor of remaining German. It was over the final disposition of this zone that the Governmental crisis arose, the Zahle Ministry considering it settled in favor of Germany by the plebiscite, while the opposition insisted there should be at least provisional internationalization of Flensburg and the second zone.

The Politiken's account of the action taken in calling up these men states that they are to assemble on the same day that the general strike is expected to reach its zenith (next Tuesday). At the same time, it states, a number of non-commissioned officers and military students have been ordered to Copenhagen.

The first move toward putting into effect the general strike ordered by the trades unions in protest against the refusal of King Christian to reinstate the dismissed Zahle Ministry appears to have been made by the bakers of Copenhagen. A number of the bakers quit work last evening. The stokers on four Danish steamers also struck.

Despite these moves, however, it develops that steps have been taken to open negotiations between the Government on the one hand and the trades unions and the opposition parties on the other in the direction of a settlement. The Zahle party has requested all the parties to hold meetings on Saturday for the purpose of coming to an agreement on the question of an electoral bill.

PARIS, April 1.—Fololwing the delivery of the note from the Allies to the Porte demanding that the Cabinet disavow officially the nationalistic movement the Turkish Cabinet headed by Salih Pasha has resigned. Demad Feried has been charged with the formation of a new Cabinet.

Advices reaching Paris say that Mustapha Kemal, the Turkish Nationalistic leader, has occupied Ada-Babar and has concentrated forces in front of the British troops in the Ismid sector.

According to the French Foreign Office information, the uprising in western Anatolia is not aimed against the Allies, but against Kemal Pasha. In the region of Bigha these forces have formed a front and occupied Panderma. The leaders demand an anti-Kemalist Cabinet at Constantinople. It is stated that a delegation went to Stantinople and presented a petition to the Sultan against the demands of Kemal.

A commission of the Turkish Parliament has gone into Anatolia to summon Kemal to cease his work against the Entente and to lay down his arms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, March 30.—Announcement of the decision of the Entente Powers to ointly supervise the administration of the Batoum district has been met with extreme disapproval in the new Republic of Georgia.

The Georgian Government had disapproved of British occupation of Batoum Province, and apparently was not appeased by the oint occupation, which was announced unexpectedly after the British had previously made public their intention to evacuate the province.

A mass meeting was held at Tiflis following the decision of the Entente, and a large number of regular troops joined a procession carrying red banners, eulogizing the soviets, and urging a proletarian government.

Government troops were moved to the edge of Batoum Province when the Entente officials asked the meaning of this movement, the Georgian Government said it was for the purpose of assisting the Entente to Maintain order. British troops and French marines are now ashore at Batoum. French troops are reported to be en route to assist in the occupation.

The Georgian Government is so Bolshevist in its tenuencies that it would cause no surprise were it to make peace anu ally itself immediately with the Bolsheviki, if the Entente troops move against it.

PARIS, April 1 (Havas).—A mandate for Armenia has been offered the League of Nations by the Supreme Allied Council.

Shipping Board Sells Seattle Yard.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The Skinner & Eddy Shipyard No. 2, at Seattle, taken over by the Government on a mortgage, has been sold to David Rogers, it was learned at the Shipping Board today. While the price was not stated, Rogers announced some time ago that he had offered $3,400,000 for the plant. The former owners secured an injunction to prevent sale of the yard recently, but the order was later vacated.

BRIDAL PAIR TO FLY FROM FLORIDA HERE

Special to The New York Times.

PALM BEACH, April 1.—Robert L. Ireland, Cleveland capitalist and member of the firm of M. A. Hanna & Co. of that city, was quietly married at noon today to Miss Mary Esther Wood of New York at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Thomas, where the bride has been a guest this Winter. The romance involved in today's ceremony began only a few weeks ago when Mr. Ireland met Miss Wood in connection with an aeroplane flight to Miami.

There is a distinct flavor of aviation about the whole affair, for not only did the couple meet under aerial auspices, but they have engaged an airplane to transport them to New York from Jacksonville. Also, it was only three days before the wedding that Mr. Ireland received a telegram from his son, Robert L., Jr., recently a lieutenant in the American Aviation Corps in France, announcing the birth of a grandson in the following technical terms:

"Little boy has arrived. Made a forced landing and nobody was hurt."

The bride is a daughter of the late John Pelton Wood and a niece of the late James Jennings McComb. Her sister, Mrs. Adrian Kuhn of New York, gave her in marriage. She and her husband began their honeymoon by entering an automobile and driving to Miami, where they went on board the houseboat Siesta, on which they will proceed by slow stages to Jacksonville, where the airplane awaits them.

Mr. Ireland, who is a close associate of Dan Hanna, is identified with a score of large manufacturing and shipping corporations. He was born in Stratford, Conn., in 1867, and was graduated from Yale in 1890. He held official positions with several concerns before he helped to consolidate the shipbuilding interests of the Great Lakes into the American Shipbuilding Company, of which he became Vice President. Though still actively interested in that organization he resigned his Vice Presidency to go with Hanna & Co., in 1908.

He was married on May 2, 1894, to Miss Kate Hanna, daughter of H. M. Hanna of Cleveland, and was divorced from her less than a year ago. They had two children, the former aviation officer and Miss Elizabeth Ireland.

Loft Buys Cuban Sugar Mill.

HAVANA, Cuba, March 31.—Former Congressman George W. Loft of New York has purchased the Dulce Nombre Sugar Central, located at Macaguay, province of Matanzas, which hereafter will be known as the Loft Central. Purchase price is said to have been between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000. The new owner intends to have the Central's output, which is now about 60,000 bags yearly, washed and clarified at the Central instead of in the United States, as was formerly done.

special session will be called. We also have assurances Ohio, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Maine will, by right of referendum, determine the will of the people as to whether women shall vote."

WILMINGTON, Del., April 1.—Announcement was made here tonight that Alfred I. Du Pont would support the Suffrage amendment. Suffrage leaders were jubilant when the news became public and predicted reconsideration in the House and ultimate victory. Speaker Short said an effort would be made to have the House reconsider its defeat of the measure when it reassembled Monday.

Louisiana Hopes to Be 36th State.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—Defeat of the suffrage amendment by the Mississippi and Delaware Legislatures may permit Louisiana to be the thirty-sixth State to ratify. The Legislature convenes in early May, and the contest over the amendment will probably be intense. Women suffragists are divided on ratification of the Federal amendment, some urging that State rights are supreme.

John M. Parker, the Governor elect, is an advocate of woman suffrage, and Mayor Behrman of New Orleans has yielded to pressure on the subject. Ring members of the Legislature have long been followers of Behrmann.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 1.—Governor Bickett said today that the Legislature would not be called in special session until early in July. The Governor recenty announced that he would ask the special session, which will be convened to act on tax legislation, to ratify the Suffrage amendment.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 1.—The action of the Legislature in ratifying the Federal Suffrage amendment will be submitted to a referendum at the general election in November under a State constitutional provision, unless the Supreme Court holds invalid such a provision. The case is now before the Supreme Court for decision. State courts have upheld the validity of the State constitutional referendum provision.

Miss Mary G. Kilbreth, President of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, characterized the defeat of the Federal suffrage amendment in Delaware yesterday as a victory for sanity in government and predicted that the "stampede" toward ratification had been stopped. "Delaware was like the battle of the Marne," she said. "The suffragists, like the Germans, waged a campaign of frightfulness and threatened members of Legislatures with political reprisals. It needed only a few courageous men to block them, and those were found in Delaware."

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., April 1.—There is still hope that Governor Clement will call a special session for ratification of the suffrage amendment, according to a statement made tonight by Mrs. L. L. Olzendam, Chairman of the Vermont committee of suffragists.

At the last meeting with the suffragists Governor Clement imposed conditions on the suffragists which, if complied with, would gain a special session.

DEALERS PROMISE 8 1-2 CENT MILK

COPELAND TO HELP MOVE

Will Conduct Educational Campaign to Stimulate Use of More Milk by Poor.

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, Health Commissioner, announced at the close of a conference in the Health Department yesterday with representatives of several large milk distributing companies that the Sheffield Farms Company is working on details of a scheme to sell milk in this city at 8½ cents a quart. The conference was attended by Daniel S. Horton, Secretary of the Sheffield Farms Company; Harry Cronk, Vice President of the Borden's Farm Products Company; L. L. Campbell of the Clover Farms Company; William Levy of the Levy Dairy Company; William Burgess, Secretary and Treasurer of the same company, and W. Evans of the W. Evans Milk Company.

The offer by the Sheffield Company came as a result of the Health Commissioner's offer last week to start an educational campaign in the poorer sections of the city to encourage more consumption of milk, with the idea of preventing waste of surplus milk now held on farms because of the inability of milk distributing companies to export the surplus commodity.

Dr. Copeland said the scheme is in tentative form but that representatives of the distributers explained that its success depended on the ability of the Health Department to sell the milk at 8½ cents a quart at several hundred stations throughout the city under the supervision of Health Department inspectors. The milk is to be sold at that price is of the Grade B, or dip variety, he said. It was agreed that the distributers would present the completed plan to him within two weeks.

Stephen T. Lockwood of Buffalo, United States Attorney for the Western District of New York, will confer today with Francis G. Caffey, United States Attorney in this district, regarding possible action against the Sheffield Farms Company in connection with the order recently posted on a milk station of the company at Franklinville, N. Y., ordering the manager to urge farmers to reduce their supply of milk.

Would Force L.I.R.R. to Obey Order.

District Attorney O'Leary of Queens County was asked by Deputy Public Service Commissioner Barrett yesterday to begin proceedings to compel the Long Island Railroad Company to obey an order of the commission calling for enough men to operate the gates on cars with closed platforms.

reversing the action of lower Federal courts, cancelled patents to 6,000 acres of oil lands in California which the railroad obtained in 1904 and which were said to be worth $10,000,000. Suit for restitution was based upon an allegation of fraud, it being asserted that the grants were obtained on false affidavits whereby the railroad concealed knowledge that the land involved contained valuable oil deposits.

The first intimation that there had been a leak whereby the nature of the decision was known "in Wall Street," though apparently to but a few persons, came the middle of the following month. Though deprecating publication of the fact that an investigation of the supposed leak was under way, before that investigation was completed Captain Burke of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice in Washington dictated to Washington correspondents on Dec. 15 the following statement:

"On Nov. 23 Martin Kew, manager of the International News Service of New York, came to Washington and consulted Chief Justice White of the Supreme Court in regard to recent alleged leaks in the Supreme Court's decisions.

"Chief Justice White then came to Judge Ames and asked him to investigate a report by Mr. Kew that a friend had talked to him and had said that he had been approached by a B. E. Moses, with offices in the Munsey Building, Washington, in regard to alleged profiting by tips on Supreme Court decisions.

"Mr. Moses was said to have told Kew's friend that he had advance information on a Supreme Court decision, that if Kew's friend would connect him with financial agencies able to finance the proposition they would be able to play the market on advance information of the Supreme Court's decision and that much money could be made as a result. At that time he (Moses) was said to have mentioned some decision that would be handed down as proof of what he could do. When this was brought to Judge Ames's attention he directed the Bureau of Investigation to institute immediate inquiry.

"Moses was said to have told Kew's friend that he had been doing this for some time, but he did not have sufficient funds to make the profit he might make if he had financial backing. The friend of Kew insisted that before he could get the finances that Moses desired he would have to be convinced that advance information of Supreme Court decisions was absolutely obtainable. He told him on Nov. 1 that the man who furnished him (Moses) was employed in the Department of Justice in Washington. Furthermore, this man was believed to have been with Moses in New York on Sunday, Nov. 16, and that on Monday morning they went downtown and played Southern Pacific short, closing out when Southern Pacific dropped three points. They were said to have made some money, but they did not say how much.

"They both stopped at the Waldorf-Astoria, but only Moses registered, and they returned together to Washington on Monday night. At that time, Southern Pacific was being played the other way; so obviously they had the correct information. Moses was interrogated by William Flynn, Chief of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice today in New York. Moses denied to Flynn that he was getting his information from an official in the Department of Justice, as was claimed, or that the Department of Justice official was getting it in turn from a minor attaché of the Supreme Court. Moses admitted that he had played the markets, but denied that he had received advance information. He said that he had made his deductions on the future movement of the stock, as any lawyer might have done from the general information on the subject of the Southern Pacific case. He denied also that there was a leak in the Supreme Court. He claimed that, as others were putting up the money for him, he had nothing to lose.

"The man in the Department of Justice implicated holds a minor position, and upon interrogation by Department of Justice officials, denied that he knew anyone in the Supreme Court who would give out any such information as had been stated or that he had been in any such deals as were charged. The attaché of the Supreme Court denied also that he had had any connection with the affair, and there is nothing to show that he did."

On Dec. 30 it was announced that the whole affair would be taken before the Grand Jury in the District of Columbia, and nothing further was heard until the announcement yesterday of the indictments.

Fighting Hunger

Hunger is never more than a few days away from the American people.

The coal strike showed us what a narrow margin the country goes on, even in a non-perishable necessity which can be stored.

From coast to coast, from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, the lines of defense are drawn—packing plants at strategic points; branch houses in four hundred towns and cities; hundreds of car routes; thousands of refrigerator cars; tens of thousands of loyal men and women expert in their work.

Day by day, hour by hour ceaselessly, this fight, your fight, goes on. Yet so smoothly, surely and victoriously that you, unaware how close hunger always is, are as certain each night of tomorrow's meat as you are of tomorrow's sun.

And so economically is this done that the cost to you for this service is less than three cents a pound of meat sold. The profits shared in by more than 30,000 shareholders whose money makes the victory possible is only a fraction of a cent a pound on all products.

If hunger did not make it necessary for us to fight this fight in the best possible way for all concerned, the competition of hundreds of other packers, large and small, would compel us.

Big Pottery Plant Locates at Hopewell

Latest enterprise established at Hopewell by well-known pottery men gets advantages of low-priced fuel, direct water and rail transportation and ideal climate

Another strong, vigorous industry has joined the rapidly growing number of American enterprises located at Hopewell, Virginia.

The Hopewell China Corporation, organized by well-known, thoroughly experienced and progressive pottery men, with substantial financial backing, is among the most recent concerns to take advantage of the natural and acquired advantages of Hopewell. The officers of the corporation helped, during the past twenty years, to make East Liverpool, Ohio, the world's pottery centre.

The purchase includes a five-acre tract of land with railway sidings already built and two modern factory buildings with more than 50,000 feet of floor space.

The buildings were found to be so suitable for pottery manufacture that eleven kilns can be installed immediately and production of high grade table china started by June. The directors of the corporation have already voted to enlarge the plant to twenty-two kilns within the next two years.

Knowing the pottery situation, as they do, these men unhesitatingly predict that during the next decade Hopewell will become the centre of the pottery industry. They base their prediction upon facts they have discovered for themselves after a great deal of investigation.

Climatic conditions at Hopewell are ideal for the pottery industry. It never gets too hot or too cold. There are no extremes of weather to interfere with production, or the health of employees.

This pottery firm is the pioneer in its field to take advantage of the opportunities at Hopewell. Others are bound to follow. Hopewell is fertile ground for growing industries.

Why not be the pioneer in your industry to place a plant here? You, too, can reap similar advantages at Hopewell, "America's greatest industrial opportunity." Here are some of the advantages it offers:

Plant sites with railway sidings.
Plentiful supply of contented labor.
Homes for 12,000 families.
Abundance of pure water.
Best rail and water transportation.
No harmful municipal restrictions.

JURY IS EXPECTED TO EXONERATE SMITH

DELAY DUE TO A WITNESS

Regular Grand Jury Is Continued in Session to Investigate Police Scandals.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury made a brief investigation yesterday of the last of the charges against Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, which was brought against him on Wednesday by Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield, and then adjourned for one week. When it reconvenes it is probable that another presentment will be handed to Supreme Court Justice Weeks, exonerating Smith of the charges of Inspector Dominick Henry and Commissioner Hirshfield, as it exonerated him several days ago from the charge of bribe-taking made by Mayor Hylan.

After the Grand Jury had finished its investigation of the last attack on Smith, one of the jurors was asked if the session had developed anything important.

"Far from it," he said. "It made us sick."

The final blast at the Assistant District Attorney was the charge made public by Commissioner Hirshfield that Assistant District Attorney Smith had been responsible for the failure to prosecute Alfred E. Lindsay on a white slavery charge. Lindsay was indicted through the effort of Smith, after the case had been dropped in the Federal District Attorney's office, on the charge that he had sought to entrap women by advertising for women for secret service work during the war.

Records were placed before the Grand Jury to show that Smith had nothing to do with the case after he had obtained the indictment, and that it was handled thereafter by Assistant District Attorney Samuel Markewich. Mr. Markewich testified before the Grand Jury that he could not prosecute because of the disappearance of the complaining witness, Mrs. Beatrice Weille.

An affidavit of a process-server, made at the time of the dismissal of bail in the Lindsay case, was placed in evidence. The process-server had sworn that he had made many unavailing efforts to reach Mrs. Weille. Mrs. Weille has since been found, according to the affidavit of John G. Purdie, a former agent of the Intelligence Division, whose affidavit was made public by Commissioner Hirshfield.

"This must be conclusive proof to everybody of the desperate state of the people who are attacking me," said Mr. Smith. "In the first place, Commissioner Hirshfield made the affidavit public last night. He evidently hoped that it would be published before I got a chance to reply to it. In the second place, they were apparently in such a hurry that they did not even bother to examine the records, which would have prevented them from making the mistake at all. The things that stand forth are that I had the man indicted after the case was thrown aside at the Federal Building, and that the sole cause of the failure to prosecute was the disappearance of the complaining witness.

"If the police or Purdie know where the complaining witness is, we will proceed at once to trial, and try to convict."

Commissioner Hirshfield was absent from his office yesterday afternoon. Commissioner Enright maintained silence as to the new attack on Smith. The Purdie affidavit was obtained by Police Commissioner Enright and given by him to the Commissioner of Accounts.

The regular March Grand Jury, which returned indictments against two detectives on Inspector Henry's staff and a Deputy Police Commissioner, was continued in session by Judge Malone of Special Sessions yesterday for the specific purpose of dealing with police scandals. Mr. Smith will submit his evidence to this Grand Jury.

Mayor Hylan announced yesterday that he had appointed a committee to investigate the management of the Bronx Park Zoological Gardens, which Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield contends should be under municipal control.

Burr, Joseph Hennessy, Bronx Park Commissioner, and one member the Mayor has requested to be appointed by the New York Zoological Society.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Another version of the wounding of Ambassador Bonillas, who is a candidate for President of Mexico, was received here today from Mexico City.

It said that Bonillas and General Cosio Robelo became engaged in a dispute and that Bonillas struck the General over the head with a revolver. The General then drew his sword and struck the Ambassador. Neither of the men was seriously injured.

PANAMA CROWDS GREET THE PRINCE OF WALES

PANAMA, March 31.—Great crowds lined the streets and enthusiastically cheered the Prince of Wales as he went to the Executive Mansion to pay a formal call on President Lefevre today.

So large were the throngs surging through the thoroughfares that the progress of the royal visitor's car was often impeded. Upon arriving at the President's home the Prince was forced to go to the balcony, from which he bowed his acknowledgements to the crowd.

Later the Prince inspected the Pacific defenses of the canal and reviewed discharged British West Indian soldiers. He was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the President tonight.

A feature of the ball given on Wednesday night in honor of the Prince was his selection of Miss Caroline Granberry, daughter of a Canal Zone employe, as a partner in several dances. He had not been presented, but, seeing her dancing, asked that he be introduced.

BEGIN TO RUSH LEGISLATION

Assembly Passes 70 Bills—Senate Also Active.

ALBANY, April 1.—With the expulsion of five Socialist members the Assembly today lost no time in getting down to business. After adjourning Wednesday's session soon after 10 A. M. today, the House reconvened at 2 P. M. for today's session, passed more than seventy bills and advanced twenty to the order of final passage.

While Monday and Tuesday will be legislative days, it is not expected that much business will be transacted on account of the Presidential primaries on Tuesday. With the passing of Tuesday the Rules Committee will assume charge of all bills not reported by the standing committees by that time.

The Senate today adopted a concurrent resolution introduced by the Judiciary Committee proposing an amendment to the State Constitution to increase salaries of members of the Legislature and the Speaker of the Assembly. It would increase the salaries of members of Assembly from $1,500 to $3,000 and of Senators from $1,500 to $3,500. The salary of the Speaker, now $1,500, would be increased to $5,000.

The Senate Codes Committee today reported out for consideration by the Senate the bill introduced by Senator John J. Boylan, Democrat, New York, to provide for abolishing capital punishment. Senator Boylan thanked the committee for its action, declaring that he introduced the bill in the Assembly ten years ago and this was the greatest progress it ever had made.

Are you pounding away your energy?

FRESH and vigorous in the morning—yet long before the day's work is done you begin to tire. By half-past three or four fatigue is stealing your strength.

This fatigue decreases the amount of work you can do. It makes pleasure less enjoyable. It lowers your resistance to disease.

A certain amount of fatigue is natural and inevitable—but too many men and women waste much of their precious energy.

One of the greatest of these wastes comes from pounding away your energy on hard, modern pavements. If you are a person of average activity you take 8,000 steps a day. Every step you take with hard leather heels or "dead" rubber heels acts as a hammer blow to your nervous system. The constant repetition of these jolts and jars tends to exhaust your energy—to produce that tired-out feeling you so often experience.

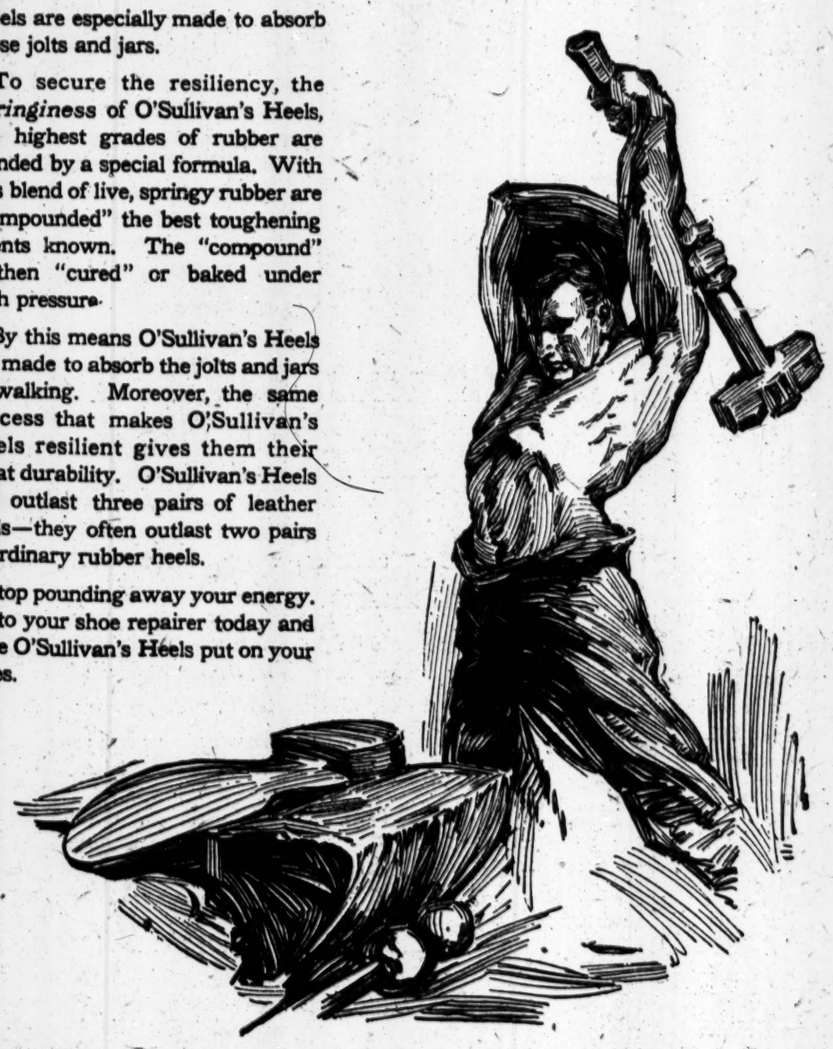
Remove this cause of fatigue

You can do much to prevent this condition. You can eliminate the shocks of pounding hard heels on still harder pavements. O'Sullivan's Heels are especially made to absorb these jolts and jars.

To secure the resiliency, the springiness of O'Sullivan's Heels, the highest grades of rubber are blended by a special formula. With this blend of live, springy rubber are "compounded" the best toughening agents known. The "compound" is then "cured" or baked under high pressure.

By this means O'Sullivan's Heels are made to absorb the jolts and jars of walking. Moreover, the same process that makes O'Sullivan's Heels resilient gives them their great durability. O'Sullivan's Heels will outlast three pairs of leather heels—they often outlast two pairs of ordinary rubber heels.

Stop pounding away your energy. Go to your shoe repairer today and have O'Sullivan's Heels put on your shoes.



Every step a hammer blow

Advancing civilization has covered over the soft dirt streets and paths of years ago with layers of hard, unyielding pavement. When we walked on country roadways the earth itself cushioned the jolts and jars of walking. Then, leather heels served their purpose. But today hard heels are doomed.

With every step on leather heels or "dead" rubber heels you are pounding away your energy. Each step acts as a hammer blow to your nervous system—tends to exhaust your strength. Yet you can prevent this needless waste of energy. O'Sullivan's Heels absorb the shocks that tire you out.

CITY'S BUS LINES HALTED BY COURT

FINDS LAW IS VIOLATED

Rules Against Emergency Contention—One Jurist Suggests Criminal Proceedings.

Operation of the bus lines established by authority of the Board of Estimate was yesterday enjoined by Justice Cropsey of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, who declared the operation illegal and described it as a public menace. Acting under instructions from Mayor Hylan the city will appeal from the decision and in the meantime will apply for a stay.

It was the general opinion that this decision, together with the taxpayers' suit now pending in the Supreme Court in this county, to restrain the city from appropriating money for the purchase and operation of municipal bus lines, and suits to be begun by other interests against the operation of buses either by private owners or by the city, had brought to an abrupt end the attempt of the city administration to set up bus lines in opposition to surface car lines.

Counsel for Job Hedges, receiver of the New York Railways Company, are preparing papers in a suit to be begun within a day or two to stop the running of buses, and a similar suit is to be instituted by Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. While it was agreed that Justice Cropsey's decision covered the bus operation throughout the city it was determined to set up separate actions against the buses competing with the various railroad companies.

A jurist who has been involved in the traction situation since the appointment of Mr. Garrison as receiver stated yesterday that the outlay of public money in the operation of the bus lines, which Justice Cropsey has estimated to amount to upward of $85,000 a year, was a serious violation of law, and that the indictment of those responsible for it might follow the presentation of the facts to a Grand Jury. It was plainly intimated that this phase of the situation was being carefully examined, with a view of discovering if it warranted criminal proceedings. Authority to operate the fifteen bus lines now running was conferred upon the private owners by members of the Board of Estimate.

When word of the decision reached Mayor Hylan he replied to it by making public this statement:

"I have directed the Corporation Counsel to immediately appeal from Justice Cropsey's decision and ask for a stay pending an appeal. The people of Brooklyn must have transportation and if the buses are stopped as a result of Justice Cropsey's injunction it will be a great inconvenience to them. Hundreds and thousands of people ride on the buses daily and should not be deprived of their service."

Tomorrow an order will be presented to Justice Cropsey by counsel for the Brooklyn City Railroad Company directing the city to withdraw the buses from the streets. It is likely that the Court will not act on the order until next week.

FLAYS PEACE MOVE.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, in a discussion of political conditions here today, sharply attacked the Republicans in Congress for their peace resolution, which, he declared, was a "disgraceful attempt to surrender the honor of America," and remarked "about the lowest ebb of moral incapacity to which Republican leadership has yet descended."

Regarding Herbert Hoover, Mr. Cummings said that "it is a sad thing to see an essential Democrat endeavoring to liberalize a stand-pat party." He refused to amplify this comment.

The Democratic Chairman said that the opposition to the peace resolution now before the House "ought to be unanimous." The resolution as submitted by the majority of the Foreign Affairs Committee, he declared, begins with false statements; it then attempts to exercise power that the House does not possess, and if the resolution should by any chance become effective, it would complicate domestic and international matters to a great degree.

"It puts America," he said, "in the position of attempting to take advantage of the Treaty of Versailles without itself accepting the treaty. It is a surrender. It is unthinkable that the President should allow it to become law. I am speaking of the attempt; I have no fear of its consummation."

RABBIS DISAGREE ON WINE ALLOWANCE

Reformed Ministers Oppose Privilege Granted Jewish Families, Says Dr. Silverman.

NOT NECESSARY, THEY HOLD

Orthodox Rabbis Favor Alcoholic Beverage for Sacramental Use, as Following Tradition.

While a Government regulation allows each Jewish family in the country ten gallons of alcoholic liquors for sacramental purposes, providing the order for the beverage has been made by the clergyman of the synagogue, probably no reformed rabbi in the country obtained wine for any member of his temple, it was learned yesterday. Many of the conservative rabbis in this city also are opposed to the privilege bestowed upon the Jews and it was said by one of the principal semi-orthodox rabbis here that action may be taken soon asking that the regulation be abolished.

Rabbi Joseph Silverman of Temple Emanu-El, at Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, said he had flatly refused to sign his name to any permit giving wine to a member of his synagogue, because he felt that by being instrumental in obtaining an alcoholic beverage he would be "indirectly violating" the law. His reason for this, he said, is that Jews have no right at all to demand wines with alcoholic content for ritual purposes, as it is not justified by the laws governing the synagogue.

"There is no compulsion, so far as Judaism is concerned, to use fermented liquor for any religious purposes whatsoever," Dr. Silverman said. "For that reason I consider it an indirect violation of the law to obtain it for the members of my synagogue. I believe all the other reformed rabbis in this city, and perhaps in the country, agree with me, and if the orthodox ministers demand the alcoholic liquors, it is because of their conscience."

Rabbi Silverman said that Rabbi Leon M. Franklin, dean of American reformed rabbis, and President of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, had sent a bulletin to all members of the conference to the effect that Dr. Kaufman Kohler, President of the Hebrew Union College at Cincinnati, had issued an authoritative opinion to the effect that unfermented wine may be used for ritual purposes. Dr. Franklin, said Rabbi Silverman, had urged all members to use the unfermented, rather than the fermented wines. The Association of Reformed Rabbis of New York City and Vicinity, of which Rabbi Silverman is President, has not taken any action on the matter, he said.

Dr. Jacob Kohn of Temple Ansche Chesed, Seventh Avenue and 114th Street, a semi-orthodox congregation, also said that some other wine, not coming under the prohibition law, such as home-made raisin or grape wine, might be used by Jews.

Fifteen Policemen Promoted.

Four sergeants and eleven patrolmen were promoted yesterday. They were selected from the eligible lists. Sergeants William H. Anderson, Daniel W. O'Grady, Thomas M. Clancy and John McGary were made lieutenants. The following patrolmen were given the rank of sergeants: Richard F. Oliver, Austin Mead, William Goodnow, Jacob Gosker, George W. Mulholland, John J. Nugent, James Brennan, Thomas M. Shaw, John J. Martin, William J. Ferrick and Robert H. Copeland.

JOHN BARRYMORE ILL.

John Barrymore, following a partial breakdown during the performance of "Richard III" at the Plymouth Theatre on Wednesday night, was unable to appear last night. The audience was turned away from the theatre at curtain time and all money refunded.

Mr. Barrymore, as nearly as could be learned last night, is suffering from a nervous malady and finished the performance on Wednesday only after the greatest difficulty. While it is hoped to resume performances as soon as possible, the sale of tickets at the Plymouth Theatre has been temporarily stopped entirely. The holders of tickets for tonight are requested to telephone the Plymouth Theatre after 2 o'clock for information as to the possibility of a performance.

MAYOR WILL RESIST ICE PROFITEERING

If Exorbitant Prices Are Asked, He Says, "We Will Put Them Out of Business."

O'MALLEY SEES SHORTAGE

Says Harvest Was Kept Down to Force Price Up—Swann After Poultry Dealers.

In a letter yesterday to Edwin J. O'Malley, Commissioner of Markets, Mayor Hylan announced that if the "ice gang" charged exorbitant prices for ice next Summer the city would begin preparations to "put them out of business if we can." The Mayor's action followed an announcement by the Knickerbocker Ice Company that the price for family ice will be 60 cents, instead of 50 cents, per 100 pounds.

With the receipt of the Mayor's letter, which advised him to get in touch with Wesley M. Oler of the Knickerbocker Ice Company and others, Mr. O'Malley made the assertion that only 650,000 tons of ice are stored in the icehouses of the Hudson, whereas there should be 1,500,000 tons.

An investigator of his department made a tour of the ice harvesting territory on the Hudson, said Commissioner O'Malley, and reported to him that the Knickerbcker Ice Company and Burns Brothers had rented a great many vacant icehouses and that these companies had closed up the icehouses without storing any ice in them in order to create a shortage, although the companies, according to Mr. O'Malley, said they did it to stabilize prices.

At the office of the Knickerbocker Ice Company it was said that Mr. Oler was not in. An employe volunteered the explanation for the short crop stored as due to the increased cost of harvesting ice.

C. M. Schatzkin, President of the National Ice and Coal Company; one of the purchasers of the ice business of Burns Brothers, took issue with Commissioner O'Malley's assertions and figures.

"There have been about 1,500,000 tons of ice harvested," he said, "and not 650,000. There is no possible chance of an ice shortage this Summer, nor will there be any rise in the cost of ice to the consumer."

District Attorney Swann assigned Samuel Markewich yesterday to investigate the live poultry dealers who recently ordered the stoppage of shipments of poultry to this city. A large number of West Washington Market poultry dealers will be subphoenaed to appear before Mr. Markewich in the District Attorney's office on Monday.

BRITISH LABOR COURT PLEASES BY DECISION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 1.—The result of the first case brought before the Industrial Court of Inquiry has given much encouragement to those who believe that in such investigations lies the real hope of escape from disastrous strikes. The dockers are naturally pleased as the majority of investigators have recommended—they have no power to order—the establishment of sixteen shillings as the national minimum daily wage, while the general public is gratified because the court did not divide along party lines. This is held as a long step toward the establishment of judicial investigations of industrial questions.

The majority in favor of increased wages hails it as "a landmark in the history of labor" and as of much wider application than to dock laborers alone. Large numbers of all kinds of workers, it argues, are subject to similar fluctuations in work, and it traces the trend to socialism far more than to the hope that such a system would tend to reduce recurrent employment than to any love of State control for its own sake.

Meanwhile, two employers who dissent from the majority report fear if it is acted upon widely it will cause a new widespread labor upheaval, as the proper standard daily wage of 16s. is three and a half times pre-war rates. Moreover, it is 60 per cent. in excess of what railroad men working on docks alongside are paid. The Westminster Gazette points out that the majority includes three Commissioners who were supposed to be in the employers' camp, and this compares very favorably with the way in which the similar miners' inquiry split entirely on party lines.

Another notable point about the findings is that they recognize definitely the claim for maintenance by dock industry of those laborers for whom only casual employment can be found. The curse of the dockworkers has always been a lack of continuity of work, while on the other hand the dock owners have need of a reservoir of labor on which they can draw whenever the emergency arises.

The court now unanimously recommends that all men regularly but not continuously employed should be registered and should receive allowances when times are slack. Railroad goods porters are bound to demand an increase, and if they want men better skilled the railroad grades will also seek advance. So it is prophesied that just as British industry is settling down it will be faced with as general a demand for higher wages as was set going during the war by Winston Churchill's grant of 12½ per cent. advance to munition workers.

The majority in this report recognize that advances and reforms they advocate are only possible if dockers work faithfully and contentedly. For this they have to rely on the promise that was given by Bevin, the dockworkers' leader, who conducted the men's case in court with such remarkable skill.

STRIKE FOR MORE WAGES.

Union Men in Massachusetts and Ohio Balk.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 1.—Approximately 2,000 union painters were idle today as a result of refusing to accept an offer of $1.12 an hour commencing May 1 as their 1920 wage scale and which was believed to have been agreed to yesterday. The men are demanding $1.25 per hour. The old scale was 80 cents.

Three hundred drivers employed by the American Railway Express Company today called an independent walkout because the company refused their demands for a flat $25 a month wage increase.

HOLYOKE, Mass., April 1.—Three hundred union bricklayers and mason tenders refused to accept the new scale of $1 an hour that took effect today and which granted a wage increase of about 10 per cent.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 1.—Employes of the Eastern Bridge and Structural Company struck today when informed that their demands for a 25 per cent. raise in pay had been denied.

Anthracite Prices Rise in Boston.

BOSTON, April 1.—The price of all grades of anthracite coal was advanced here today. The pea size, which has been termed by dealers "the poor man's coal," went up from $11 to $12.75; furnace advanced from $12.75 to $14.25, and nut, stove and egg sizes sold at $14.50 instead of $13.50. Dealers announced they would book orders for next Winter's supply only at the price in effect on the date when the coal is put into the bins.

PALMER TO EXAMINE VAUDEVILLE EVIDENCE

Federal Trade Commission Transfers It After Finding Two Trust Laws Not Violated.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The evidence produced before the Federal Trade Commission on the complaint issued against the Vaudeville Managers' Protective Association and other vaudeville interests has been referred by the commission to the Department of Justice, which will consider whether the anti-trust law has been violated.

The Federal Trade Commission, which decided yesterday that the vaudeville interests had not violated the Federal Trade act or the Clayton act and could not be considered trusts under either statute, announced today the transference of the evidence to Attorney General Palmer, adding:

"The subject matter of the complaint seemed to involve the features of combination and restraint of trade rather than individual methods of competition or contracts, therefore possibly within the scope of the Sherman act, the enforcement of which lies with the Attorney General."

Charges by White Rats' Union.

Harry Mountford, Secretary of the White Rats Actors' Union, gave an explanation yesterday of the stand taken by that organization. He said:

"The controversy between the vaudeville managers and the White Rats was caused by the excessive commissions, amounting in 90 per cent. of vaudeville actors' salaries to 10 per cent. every week they work. In many cases the commission extorted was 15, 20 and sometimes 50 per cent. Yet the State law of New York expressly states that 5 per cent. shall be the maximum fee charged by the booking agencies. Actors refused to submit to this and were therefore blacklisted, unable to obtain work in any part of the United States.

"The White Rats also desired and fought for a legal and equitable contract and endeavored to abolish the practice of playing five or six abbreviated performances a day while charging the public full prices.

"The White Rats Actors' Union repeatedly asked for a conference with the managers and were always refused because they were members of a trade union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. What the White Rats in the Federal Trade Investigation charged was that there was a combination of managers which controlled the whole vaudeville business; that if you offended one manager you could not work in vaudeville or burlesque in the United States and Canada, and that exorbitant and extortionate commissions were charged by the Booking Trust.

"The union has never expected nor desired other outcome to these proceedings than has been announced by the decision of the Federal Trade Commission, namely, referring the entire matter with the evidence and exhibits to the Department of Justice."

STELLA HAMMERSTEIN WED.

Actress, Just Divorced, Marries Charles F. Pope in West Hoboken.

Miss Stella Hammerstein of 158 West Seventy-eighth Street, the youngest daughter of the late Oscar Hammerstein, and Charles Fyles Pope, a son of ex-Governor Pope of Florida, and Mrs. Pope, were married yesterday in the office of Justice Miles of West Hoboken, the Justice officiating. Murray Fyles was the best man and Mrs. Clifford Tostevin of New Rochelle, a sister of the bride, was her matron of honor. Both had been married before.

The bride, who is well known on the stage and in the movies, divorced her first husband, Frederic L. Keating, the final decree having been signed in March. She made her last appearance on the stage last Summer in "Loyalty." Mr. Pope is Vice President of the International Doll Association and has made his home at the Friars' Club.

Alberto Salvi, Harpist, Pleases.

Alberto Salvi, an Italian musician's son and himself a harpist, put some of the romance of his native Venice into a recital yesterday afternoon at Aeolian Hall, an event which had moments of genuine musical delight. The modest newcomer borrowed from France a "Ballade" by Hasselmans, among more general numbers by Zabel and Schuecker, a light "Mandolin" study by Alvars, Posse's "Dance of Sylphs," and a "Serenade," either his own or his father's. His first appearance in New York gave yesterday's audience evident pleasure.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Eugene Brieux's "Les Americains Chez Nous," which Leo Ditrichstein will produce here next season, has been translated by A. I. du P. Coleman.

"Maytime" is now being played in Yiddish by Maurice Schwartz and his company at the Irving Place Theatre.

Vivienne Osborne, well known on the screen, will be in the cast of Frederic Arnold Kummer's "The Bonehead," coming to the Fulton on April 12. Edwin Nicander will head the cast.

Emma Trentini, who was unable to appear at the Palace this week because of illness, will head the program at that house next week.

Max Spiegel's purposed new theatre in Forty-fourth Street, west of the Little Theatre, probably will be known as the Cecil Lean.

The Playhouse, in accordance with its custom, will be dark tonight, Good Friday. An Easter matinee of "The Wonderful Thing" will be given on Monday.

CASH'S mee-tee NUTS

CASH'S Nut Booth now open in the Hudson Terminal Concourse, opposite the Penn. and Erie ticket offices.

On your way home tonight stop there, and start the happy habit of regularly bringing home Cash's meetee nuts. In the shell, shelled and salted—every one a choice, sweet, toothsome treat.

Richard Buhlig's Last Recital.

Mr. Richard Buhlig finished last evening his elaborate undertaking of seven piano recitals exemplifying the work of the greatest masters who have written for the piano. He recurred to Beethoven in this seventh recital, the Beethoven of the last period, and his program was made up of four of the last sonatas, those in E minor, Op. 90; in A, Op. 101; in A flat, Op. 110, and in C minor, Op. 111. He had already, last January, presented the "Hammenklavier" sonata, and the sonata in E, Op. 109, so that the greatest of Beethoven's works in this form have all had their exposition at his hands.

The audience at the recital last evening was the largest that has attended any of the series, and yet the program may be considered the most exacting one that Mr. Buhlig has given. The four sonatas that he played tax alike the powers of the performer and the listeners. There have been few who would venture to undertake such a program since Von Bülow or Lamond. Mr. Buhlig might take as his own the motto of a famous musical institution: "Res severa verum gaudium."

The sonata in E minor with which he made his beginning is an inviting introduction, with the vivacity and sentiment of the first of its two movements—there was somewhat less of vivacity than of sentiment in Buhlig's reading—and the transporting first theme of the second. The weightiest matter followed. His playing was marked by a profound seriousness. His tone was somewhat hard and unvarying in its quality and color, as it has been before. His left hand had an elastic vigor, but there were passages in which a keener rhythmic feeling would have imparted more value. But there was more depth of feeling, more vitality of expression than he has sometimes shown, and these illumined his scholarly and analytical style that sometimes tends toward grayness and dryness.

It was no small achievement that Mr. Buhlig put to his credit in this last recital. It made a true climax of his series. The artistic value of his programs has been great; and the musician resolute enough to aim so high and sustain his purpose to the end has thereby deserved respect.

"Eugene Onegin" Sung Again.

Tschaikovsky's opera, "Eugene Onegin," attracted a large audience at its second Metropolitan performance last evening, though sudden rain prevented the house being early surrounded by standees as it was at the recent premiere. In its operatic form, the Russian composer's music is still a novelty; the dances in three of the six scenes again pleased last night's house, and so did the scenes themselves, the latest work of Urban. Miss Muzio, Messrs. Martinelli and De Luca sang the leading characters in Pushkin's vague but poetic story, and Bodanzky conducted.

"Ruddigore" for Roosevelt House.

The performance of "Ruddigore" at the Park on Monday will be under the auspices of the Women's Roosevelt Memorial Association, and will mark the beginning of the Roosevelt House campaign. Tickets are on sale at the Park Theatre and at the home of Mrs. Martha H. Miller, 101 Park Avenue.

Henry Miller's Attractions.

The list of plays routed through the theatres of A. L. Erlanger for next season, announced yesterday, omitted the attractions of Henry Miller through error. Mr. Miller will offer James Forbes's "The Famous Mrs. Fair," with himself and Blanche Bates as the stars, and Ruth Chatterton in "Just Suppose," a comedy by A. E. Thomas.

INQUIRY ON PICKFORD CASE.

Nevada Attorney General Orders Investigation of Record Divorce.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., April 1.—Developments in the investigation which the Attorney General of Nevada is conducting to ascertain whether the divorce decree issued to Mary Pickford was secured through fraud, collusion, or by irregular methods may not be expected inside of a week. This was annopnced today by Robert Richards, Deputy Attorney General, who is conducting the investigation. If the record in the case discloses irregularity, collusion, or fraud the State will begin an action to have the decree set aside, the Deputy Attorney General said.

EXPULSION OF THE SOCIALISTS.

The vote of more than four to one by which the Socialist members of the Assembly were deprived of their seats was not taken in partisanship or in passion, in heedlessness or in haste. It was an American vote altogether, a patriotic and conservative vote. The 116 Assemblymen who voted for expulsion rose above the strifes of politics. The majority of each party in the Assembly voted in the affirmative upon the resolution to expel, except in the case of two of the Socialist members where on the Democratic side there was a slight balance in favor of reseating. Democrats and Republicans do not vote in that way when they are moved by partisan considerations. The Assemblymen who voted to unseat the Socialists were prompted by the same motive that arrayed the Republicans of the House and of the Senate in support of innumerable measures for the prosecution of the war, a war that was to be carried on by a Democratic Administration. In Albany, as in Washington, the legislators were thinking not of party but of the nation, of the interests of the American people. The vote taken in the Assembly yesterday was as clearly and demonstrably a measure of national defense as the vote of Congress declaring war against Germany. And an immense majority of the American people will approve and sanction the Assembly's decision.

It was a courageous act. Politicians, like capitalists, are proverbially timid. With them it is a native instinct to cultivate votes, above all not to alienate the votes of any large class. Every Assemblyman who voted to expel these five Socialists knew that in 1917 MORRIS HILLQUIT, candidate of the Socialists for Mayor of this city, polled 141,000 votes, that ERVIN, Socialist candidate for Governor in 1918, had 121,000 votes. If the 98 Republican and 18 Democratic Assemblymen who voted to unseat the Socialists had not been actuated by motives higher than those of mere party interest their courage would have failed them when they were brought to the test upon a question which involved winning or losing so large a number of votes. At the outset of this proceeding there was some evidence of a political and party interest; attempts were made to "head off" the inquiry. But as the evidence accumulated of overwhelming popular approval of the investigation into the fitness of these Socialists to sit as lawmakers that effort was abandoned. The politicians concerned in it were reinforced by a considerable number of perfectly sincere men who doubted the constitutionality and the wisdom of a move to deny what they called the right of representation to so large a body of voters. They overlooked the fundamental fact that the right of representation is not unconditioned; that the right to be represented in the lawmaking body must be exercised under conditions prescribed by the Constitution and the laws. The Assembly finds and decides that the Socialist organization, by its very nature, is incapable of sending men to Albany who can conscientiously take and keep the oath to support the Constitution of the State of New York. These five men never were entitled to their seats, they failed in the first essential qualification of membership in the Assembly.

Assemblyman MCCUE had full warrant of fact and principle when he compared the proceeding at Albany with Governor COOLIDGE'S course in the strike of policemen in Boston. That brings into view the true nature of the conflict between the constitution of the Socialist Party and the Constitution of the United States and of all the States of the Union. We have established a Government of laws, not of men. The Socialist constitution aims to establish a Government of men. It proves the case against them, for it requires that members of the Socialist Party who sit in legislative bodies "shall carry "out instructions which may be given "by the national conventions, the "National Executive Committee or by "a general referendum of the "party"; and these instructions given by committees or conventions of men require that they shall violate the laws of the country by refusing to vote to appropriate money for national defense or for any military purpose. A Socialist Assemblyman is tied hand and foot, he is not permitted to support that provision of the Constitution which requires the appropriation of money for the maintenance of a militia force, he submits himself in advance to the will of a few men organized as a committee, who under the Socialist constitution may be aliens.

That is not the American way of making laws, it is not consistent with the safety of American institutions that men so pledged and beholden should sit as legislators. The preachings and the doctrines of a multitude of Socialist leaders, the utterances of at least three of the five Assemblymen under inquiry, give proof of a hope and purpose to overthrow the American Government and institutions by violence, to destroy American industries, to seize property, to subvert the social organization. The aims of the American Socialist Party and of the Russian internationalists are identical and cannot be separated, as was established by the testimony. It is contrary to human reason and to all political principles to assume that a party or organization which seeks to destroy a Government can claim the right of representation under the laws of that Government. A good many apologists and defenders of these five Assemblymen have overlooked the fact that States and nations have the same right of self-defense that individuals possess.

The remedy for the Socialists of America is not an appeal to the courts, but the mending of their ways, complete abandonment of their plottings against Government and society, of their disorderly discourse in which they continually seek to arouse class passion and bring on bloody disturbances. First of all, they should abolish their constitution. A political party, in the very nature of things, should have no written constitution. Theirs makes every man that pledges support to it an enemy alien at heart. The socialism these men profess and practice was born in hate and has been sustained by delusion. They may call themselves what they please, Socialists or by any other name, they may espouse reforms that they believe in, they may seek by lawful means to change the laws. But if they are capable of learning anything, they should be taught by this stern lesson at Albany that the Constitution of the United States and that of the State of New York were established by men not under the political guidance of KARL MARX, but by Americans, and that the institutions and the laws of the country will be upheld by whatever measures are found to be necessary, against all who by open or covert means seek their overthrow.

THE 25 PER CENT. INCREASE.

The law limiting rent increases in any one year to 25 per cent. has two virtues. It prevents the more ruthless sort of profiteering, of which a great outburst threatened, and it does this without checking the influx of capital into new building. Flagrant exactions are forbidden without jeopardizing legitimate and sorely needed enterprise. Of the many possible calamities, the law thus avoids the two which are beyond question greatest.

In the days to come we shall do well to keep this firmly in mind, for the law brings in its train a swarm of injustices and abuses from which multitudes will suffer, and which could probably have been avoided if, instead of jamming through the bills, time had been taken for criticism and measured deliberation. While checking the extremer forms of profiteering, the rent increase law legitimizes many a sharp exaction. Most landlords have already raised their rents, and many of them greedily. Yet as long as the new law is in force they can demand an annual increase of 25 per cent., and the harried tenant will have no recourse except to the courts, which bid fair to be overwhelmed with such cases. In effect a premium is placed upon past profiteering, for the landlord who has already had his gouge at work finds himself, so to speak, armed with a larger weapon.

Meantime the landlords who have hitherto had a heart for their fellow-creatures and a sense of public duty will be subject to a new temptation. Many of them have limited their yearly advances to 5 per cent. and less; but with the law on their side and the example of men, already qualified profiteers, who are raising their rents by the full statutory amount, it will be strange if many of them do not hunt with the pack. Though extremes of profiteering are prevented, it may well be that, in the gross, the advances exacted under the new law will amount to a larger sum than would have been exacted under unchecked profiteering.

The more scientific method, as has been urged from the start, is to reckon the legitimate rent increase not upon the rentals of the present or of any other year, but upon an actual valuation of the property. The assessed valuation of the property affords a ready base of reckoning, and if in any case it happens to be too low it could be advanced to the mutual benefit of the city and of the individual landlord. Upon this basis an advance should be granted not in gross rent, but in net profit. The result would be an equitable increase, evenly distributed. In fixing the rate of this profit circumspection would be necessary. On the one hand, the rate should preclude gross profiteering, and, on the other, it should offer no obstacle to capitalists seeking investment in new buildings.

Under present conditions the thing most to be feared is a check in the supply of capital. New building, and that alone, can bring ultimate relief to the community as a whole. But even a net profit of 15 per cent. would be preferable to what we are facing under the present law.

THE TWO GERMAN ARMIES.

While the Ebert Government is negotiating for peace with the Westphalian insurgents, it gives out a menacing announcement that its army is advancing toward the Ruhr "step by step." This is reassuring as a promise that it is not advancing by pole vaults or standing broad jumps, but the character of that army makes it permissible to infer that it is advancing goose step by goose step. It is a reactionary army, almost a Kaiser-army; the loyalty of most of its units and most of its officers to EBERT is extremely doubtful.

The Red army which confronts it is more trustworthy but less formidable. The feminine impulse to service is manifested by the outpouring of most of the younger women of the Ruhr district, outfitted as nurses and apparently flocking up toward the front to see what is going on. Fewer women and more field guns would give the Ruhr rebels a better chance of success. As it is, they may owe their immunity from serious attack so far chiefly to the well-grounded reluctance of the French to see a German army of the old type occupying the mining districts within the neutral zone.

If EBERT'S army started in to clean up the Ruhr it could probably do it, but there might be a great deal of fighting, many men killed in battle, and still more massacred after the firing was over. That would be unfortunate in itself, for the program of the Ruhr rebellion is in most of its features a good one both for Germany and for the neighbors of Germany; and it would be still more unfortunate in that it would probably lead to a new general strike and a rising against the present Government which might lead to a Bolshevist upheaval, or to a concentration of power in the hands of the group which was temporarily beaten when the Kapp rebellion collapsed.

STATUTORY BANKING.

The Chicago Federal Reserve Bank has raised its rate on bankers' acceptances in order to discourage excessive loans by member banks. At the same time Federal Reserve Governor HARDING in New York gives his approval to the bill which passed the House yesterday proposing that rates for rediscounts to member banks should rise in proportion to their increase above a fixed normal line of credit. The exercise of the power in Chicago would seem to show that what the bill proposes may be done without it, and there is every presumption that what bankers do on their responsibility is done with sound discretion. The presumption is not so strong regarding what bankers do in reliance on a statute.

The original Federal Reserve law provided that rediscounts might be granted, not that they must be. Since power was given to grant them there was an implied power to refuse them, or at least to grant them on terms. The proposed amendment would seem to limit this banking discretion by proportioning rediscount rates to a rising line of credit. So long as the rates were paid the rediscounts could not be refused, although rates should be a minor consideration. Also, there are occasions when the granting of rediscounts ought not to be conditioned upon making credit costly. Commercial banking is seasonal, being largest when the farmer is planting or harvesting, or the producer is manufacturing, or the trader importing. If a normal line of credit is to be fixed, either it must be so generous as to encourage expansion in the dull season or so moderate as to penalize expansion in the busy season. There is no difficulty about that when banking is done by discretion, but there are many embarrassments when banking is done by legislation, which can neither foresee unusual conditions nor provide for them. As the law stands Federal Reserve rates are established by discretion according to particular classes of paper. Fixing of rates according to the conditions of credit of individual banks sets up new standards in a matter best governed by discretion rather than law.

In this particular case the proposal is to regulate banking according to volume rather than quality, although quality is more important than volume. The usefulness of the Federal Reserve itself is lessened by the uncommercial quality of its rediscounts. No criticism is meant by the statement of the fact, for it is known to all that commercial banking was submerged by war necessities and the granting of loans on Government war paper below the market rate. The Reserve Bank of New York is usually among the most generous users of the rediscount privilege. Penal rates upon excess above a normal line of credit would fall most heavily upon New York, and lower rates would be granted to banks elsewhere which extended themselves less liberally in the public interest in emergencies of either public or commercial nature. The Federal Reserve ought to be free not to penalize banks which place themselves in the position New York so often occupies, and would be thought neglectful of its duties if it failed to rise to such occasions. On the other hand, the Federal Reserve ought not to regulate excess expansion by an undiscriminating increase of rates. On suitable occasion it ought to use discretion in its rediscounts; calling for explanation of undue increases and counseling individual banks when they expose themselves to it. Bankers of all leading nations agree that the present troubles are due to Government finance rather than to banking errors. The remedy is not to allow Governments to foster inferior banking, but for bankers to insist that Governments shall heed sound banking counsel. The Federal Reserve might find a way to alter the proportions of liquid and illiquid collateral among the rediscounts, with the result that there would be larger accommodation for trade and increased pressure upon Congress for economy and better tax laws. The inflation of credit should be checked, beginning with Government credit of all ranks, national, State, city or county.

ENCOURAGING MURDER.

A Paris dispatch to The Tribune outlines the probable answer of the Allies to Mr. WILSON'S note on Turkey. There is the expected reference to America's inability to contribute military force to the guarantee of the Turkish settlement, the expected assertion that the retention of the Sultan in Constantinople is the best guarantee for the future of Armenia. Along with these old arguments are some that are more novel. The Allies are sympathetic with the general idea of giving the Armenians "boundaries in proportion to their population," but they have discovered that as a matter of strict equity "the Armenians have "less right in the disputed territory "than the indigenous Turkish peas-"ants."

The Armenians were in Armenia at least as long ago as the time of XENOPHON, some twelve or fourteen centuries before the Turks were heard of west of the Caspian; but the "indigenous" Turkish peasants who stole the ground that had been Armenian since the dawn of history are now preferred over the former owners because "the Armenians are essen-"tially national middlemen who do "not constitute the productive por-"tion of the population."

Although these arguments are pure nonsense, at least there is something laughable about them. But the reasoning passes from comedy to tragedy. "The Armenians are not so numerous "as to warrant giving them a too ex-"tended territory." Why are they not so numerous? Because the Turks butchered a third of them in 1915. If the Turks are a logical race, they will infer that the only thing needful to remove the Armenian menace forever—and there are political, economic, racial and religious reasons which make the Turks regard them as a menace—is to turn in and kill all the rest. The Allies have not yet given them any great reason to suppose that a completion of the work of massacre would be punished very severely.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN IN MEXICO.

The report that an attempt was made in the City of Mexico on Monday night to kidnap YGNACIO BONILLAS, recently Mexican Ambassador to the United States and now candidate of the non-military party for President, is credible, because partisans of General OBREGON resent the appearance of BONILLAS as a candidate favored by President CARRANZA and have a special grievance in the arrest of three of their number, army officers, on the occasion of a parade in the interest of BONILLAS. Mexicans take their politics tragically. They doubt the good faith of their opponents and put the worst construction upon acts of the Administration, although it may be trying to hold the balance true between aspirants to the Presidency.

BONILLAS has been an obstruction in the path of General OBREGON, who commands the fanatical devotion of his followers. President CARRANZA may prefer a civilian as his successor, but he has denied giving any help to BONILLAS as a candidate.

The campaign in Mexico has reached a critical stage. The real issue is whether a civilian or a soldier shall be President. There are those skeptical enough to believe that it will be decided before election day, which falls on the first Sunday in July. The two soldier candidates, ALVARO OBREGON and PABLO GONZALEZ, the latter not very conspicuous nor influential, both suspect President CARRANZA of an active partiality for the civilian BONILLAS. Perhaps it does not need to be proved that the lawyer President has no solid liking for military men. Yet General GONZALEZ for some time supposed himself to be the choice of the President. The General has no illusions about the matter now. It would be natural for CARRANZA to distrust General OBREGON, the type in Mexico of the man on horseback, because he is a popular soldier and an organizer of victory in the field. It was OBREGON who saved his chief by defeating VILLA and dispersing that bandit-General's formidable following. It has been rumored that OBREGON has been at no pains to conceal his contempt for CARRANZA.

At this distance opinions about the course of the campaign in Mexico can be little more than conjecture, especially as the dispatches are censored when a clash between the factions occurs. But it may be hazarded that all the elements inimical to President CARRANZA are combining to see that he does not retain power and that his personal choice shall not succeed him. Thus there is a report that VILLA has buried the hatchet with OBREGON and is prepared to support him by force if a bandit army is needed. VILLA is still popular with the peons. Some revolutionary odds and ends have come together and formed a "coalition provisional government," honoring FRANCISCO DE LA BARRA, now residing in Paris, as President. Probably he is not grateful for the distinction. It simply reflects another form of opposition to the Carranza Administration and its political manifestations. If the people are heartily sick of revolution and in love with the prosperity of which they are now enjoying the shadow, they would turn to BONILLAS, were they not Mexicans. But the glamour of a soldier's reputation may be too much for them if the ex-Ambassador should become a dangerous candidate and General OBREGON should issue a manifesto protesting against the intervention of President CARRANZA. A fair and free election in Mexico has never been known, but her friends in this country hope for the best.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Annoying for All Concerned.

Just as children, so often that it seems always, make the presence of "company" something between an excuse and an opportunity for behavior that humiliates their fond parents, so the Panama Canal, that large offspring of the United States, has chosen the time when the Renown, with the Prince of WALES on board, was passing through, to resume the bad habit it was supposed to have abandoned two years ago. Instead of letting him see the canal at its best, as consideration of American sensibilities and reputation required, the hills fronting the Culebra Cut suddenly grew tired of standing quietly where they should, and insisted on establishing a new angle of stability by forcing up the bottom of the prism and so creating shoals where deep water had been provided at so much labor and expense.

This is conduct that cannot have failed to compel a hasty revision of carefully prepared speeches, both by the amiable Prince and by his admiring hosts. He had to suppress or mitigate his congratulations on the successful overcoming of difficulties that envious prophets have declared insuperable, while his entertainers, instead of standing in graceful attitudes while they received his compliments and answered them with the proud modesty that is so becoming, were obliged to put on their working clothes, get down into the mud and water, and clear the way for their distinguished guest.

Of course, he and they made the best of the embarrassing situation, but the day must have been pretty well spoiled for all who were concerned in the fine effort to make it a new and enthusiastic tightening of the tie that binds.

Nothing to Cause Despair.

Annoying as it was that the passage of the Isthmus by the Prince of WALES should have been made slow for him and somewhat dangerous for his ship, the incident need cause no apprehension as to the ultimate and continuous navigability of the canal. That is shown clearly enough by the fact that the once-frequent slips from the disturbed hills and the related elevation of the bottom at the great cut already had ceased for many months, and that their present recurrence has involved the movement of rock masses of trivial extent in comparison with those that formerly took place. It may, and probably will, be many years before those harshly treated little mountains again gain a permanently stable equilibrium. They must do it some time, however, and then that trouble will be over.

The most plausible doubt of the canal's success is based, not on the land slips at the Culebra Cut, but on the possibility that the foundations of the Gatun Dam may give way under the pressure of the water behind that colossal work. But that is only a possibility, and that it is even a possibility is denied by higher engineering authority than asserts it. At any rate, this heavily taxed generation can thank such rather inefficient stars as it has that its predecessor did not impose on it the task of keeping open a sea-level canal. That would have saved worry about the big dam, but it would have meant land slides and land pushes without end, humanly speaking.

Holland Will Not Feel Much Alarm.

It would be interesting to know just what the allied Powers—or France and Great Britain, to be explicit—meant when they informed Holland that she would be held responsible for the safekeeping of the former Kaiser and for preventing his participation in the political intrigues of the land he once considered his.

"Responsible" is a large word, though so easy to use—far too large to make easily imaginable the enforcement on the Dutch Government or people of any of its ordinary significances, even if Count WILLIAM HOHENZOLLERN did slip across the frontier some dark night and attempt a new Hundred Days more successful than those of his favorite exemplar in the business of world conquest. The aggrieved nations would have to prove negligence—that the self-appointed guardians had not taken reasonable precautions—before they could even scold with any severity, and in any case they could do no more than scold. As they did not venture to insist on the giving up of Holland's troublesome and embarrassing guest, it is more than unlikely that they would dare to punish her in any way for laches that could be no more than suspected. The talk about responsibility, therefore, is not impressive—it is just a little amusing.

The fact is that Holland, having been told to do one thing, did another, and now she is told, in effect, "Well, do that—we will be obeyed!"

Why Two Prices Are High.

Among the building materials now costing more than most purchasers feel able to pay is expanded metal lathing, and the question whether the price is or is not "reasonable" was solemnly considered at a recent meeting where both the Building Trades Employers' Association and the Metallic Lathers' Union were represented. The conclusion reached at the conference was that expanded metal lathing is so terribly expensive because the automobile manufacturers are using it in great quantities and paying excessive prices in order to get what they want.

And from this fact, by a logical process not easy for the uninitiate to follow, it was deduced by the conferees that "the present price of expanded metal lath is reasonable, considering the cost of sheet steel."

The official reporting the meeting then writes: "The opinion was expressed by many that it is beginning to narrow down to a question of automobiles to ride in or houses to live in."

From another source it has been learned that plate glass is enormously advanced in price because the makers of automobiles are using 85 per cent. of all that is made or imported, and everybody else has to compete for the small remainder.

That the automobile is a blessing only abnormally mossy conservatives deny, but apparently it is a blessing of the sort commonly described as "not unmixed."

Finance and the Turkish Question.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Walter Littlefield's article in THE TIMES of March 28 on "Repudiating the Promise to Oust the Turk from Europe" is so complete a review of the facts that one wonders why, in explaining this shameful Anglo-French decision, the sinister interest of owners of Turkish bonds and concessions is overlooked.

Mr. Littlefield rightly turns the spotlight on the old diplomatic rivalries that would still continue to bolster up the rotten Turkish rule in Europe. Perhaps that reason is discreditable enough, but after all we are entitled to know that financiers in Paris and London, who would like to remain as creditors of the Turkish regime, are presumably at the elbows of the diplomatists and are even more culpable.

If these exploiters can have their way, the city of Constantine must always remain under the Sultan, a happy hunting-ground for them, and the Cross can never return to Hagia Sophia.

Anti-English agitation among Indian Moslems is a convenient screen for these gentry to use and to magnify. The whole Christian world should arise to condemn this combination of the selfish investor, the still more conscienceless politician and the Hindu demagogue, who, for different reasons, are helping to fasten injustice and terror upon the Greeks and Armenians in Constantinople.

Not for General Wood.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Through some unaccountable error I see in THE TIMES of March 28 that my name is recorded as one of the New Jersey women who are supporting the candidacy of General Leonard Wood for President.

While holding General Wood in high esteem and appreciating his fine qualities, our views differ so widely upon the question of the Federal suffrage amendment that it would be impossible for me to lend whatsoever influence I might have toward his election.

General Wood has stated that he believes in woman suffrage and in the ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment. I am opposed to woman suffrage, and am for State rights—believing that the interference with the rights of the States is the most serious question before our American Republic today. CLARA VEZIN.
Elizabeth, N. J., April 1, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I have space for the correction of a statement in your issue of March 28 that I am a member of the Leonard Wood Campaign Committee?

General Wood favors the Federal suffrage amendment. I believe that the issues other than suffrage in this measure constitute a grave danger to the life of the Republic and hope that an able anti-amendmenter may declare his candidacy before the National Conventions assemble. Such a man would, I feel confident, find an unexpectedly large following awaiting him. KATHARINE T. BALCH.
(Mrs. John Balch.)
Milton, Mass., March 30, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

With much surprise I have read in your columns my name in a list of Massachusetts women who are said to be supporting General Wood for President. Under no circumstances should I vote for General Wood. ALICE STONE BLACKWELL.
Dorchester, Mass., March 30, 1920.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is certain that the best element in the Legion will resign at once if the Legion as a whole attempts to make it appear that it stands for a bonus for the able-bodied man who can earn his own living. Such a stand could only be taken by those who want something for nothing and will vote for all they can get. The American Legion, as originally formed, never stood for such a thing, but, instead, for high ideals, such as real American citizens and the best in our army and navy stand for today, as in former times.

TRANSITION.

One morn I rose and found that, overnight,
A laughing comrade of my years had fled,
Who was at once my bane and my delight,
Whose bills of life on me were visited.
Youth was his name.
And in his place stood one, for a moment strange,
Yet like some protean actor on the stage,
Who plays a dual rôle on sudden change,
And in this later part was Middle-Age,
Although the same.

Then, while I mourned for Youth, this other said,
Speaking to me as self might self address:
"Time set a price on that young outlaw's head.
Well could he read the signs, yet laughed no less,
And had his day!
Now I, who fill his shoes, staid Middle-Age,
Carry the story on, more calmly, shorn
Yet bring one gift Youth, all-wise, laughed to scorn—

PRICES LEAP IN PARIS.

Street Traffic Fares, Coal and Meat Up Yesterday.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 1.—Paris is having a disagreeable April fool's day. In the first place it is cold and raining. But worse than that, the already high cost of living went higher, for this is the day on which subway, auto bus and street car fares jumped 60 per cent. and postal rates advanced as well. Atop of that, coal prices and meat prices also took another bound upward.

On subways fares were advanced from 30 centimes first class and 20 centimes second class to 50 centimes first class and 30 centimes second class. On auto buses prices went from 20 centimes first class and 15 centimes second class to 35 centimes and 25 centimes. Most travelers on the transportation system use books of tickets, but those tickets are not good today, and, due to the almost total lack of small money, the situation was most difficult. Thousands of persons with nothing less than 5 francs had to walk to work. Printing of 50 centimes and 1-franc paper money has been delayed because a railroad car containing the materials has been lost between Marseilles and Paris.

FRANCE DROPS PROTEST.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 1.—It was said at the French Foreign Office this afternoon that the French Government regarded as closed, the incident growing out of President Wilson's statement in a letter to Senator Hitchcock that the militarist element was in control of France.

It was stated that Ambassador Jusserand, acting without instructions from the French Foreign Office, had delivered to the American Government the protest of the French Government against the President's language. It was added that if the President did not see fit to respond he was entirely within his rights in continuing to think his estimate of the present French Government was correct.

DR. BURCH ON CHURCH UNITY

Greek Priests Among Clergy at Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"In spite of all efforts for church unity, Christian bodies have advanced to a point of actual agreement little beyond holy baptism as a basis for intercommunion and a completer visible unity," Bishop Charles S. Burch said yesterday at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, at a Maundy Thursday service held under the auspices of the Christian Unity Foundation. Another speaker was the Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North, President of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, whose topic was "Intercessory Prayer."

There were about five hundred in the congregation. In the chancel were about twenty-five clergymen representing many denominations. With Bishop Burch were Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd, formerly President of the Episcopal Board of Missions, and the Right Rev. Hiram R. Hulse, Bishop of Cuba, both of whom are assisting the Episcopal Bishop of New York. Two priests of the Greek Orthodox Church were present, their gorgeous robes showing brightly in the procession.

PASSOVER BEGINS TONIGHT.

Jewish Festival of a Week Celebrates Departure from Egypt.

The Jewish festival of Pesach, or the Passover, will begin at sunset this evening and continue for a week. Only the first and the seventh days are regarded as full holidays, according to the Biblical injunction, the intervening ones being classed as semi-holidays. The more orthodox Jews, however, following later rabbinical prescriptions, couple the second day with the first as a full holiday, and also observe an additional day.

While the Passover is looked upon somewhat as a Spring festival it stands out in the Jewish religious calendar as celebrating the departure of the children of Israel from the land of Egypt, under the leadership of Moses. The primary message of the festival today is liberty to all and equal opportunity.

The first night of the festival (the second also among the orthodox Jews) is signalized by a quaintly beautiful service conducted by the head of the household, with the other members of the family gathered about the table. This is called the Seder, and on the table are the Matzoth, or unleavened bread; bitter herbs, the roasted shank of a lamb, as representing the Paschal Lamb, and four cups of wine, each of these symbols having its own special significance.

ROCKEFELLER, JR., ON PAY.

Says People Think Too Much of How Much They Will Get.

"There is too little of service in the world today; the people do too much thinking about how much pay they are going to get," said John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in an address yesterday on the Interchurch World Movement at a luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Hotel McAlpin. Mr. Rockefeller said churches were needed more today than ever, because the world has seen the failure of force and individualism. "A few years ago," he said, "it seemed that individualism was the real solution. Individualism is not the solution of the world's problem. The solution, as I see it, is found in the brotherhood of men and women, between men and women and the nation." It is founded in that brotherhood based on the Fatherhood of God."

Mr. Rockefeller said that the Interchurch World Movement was one of the greatest of the day. He outlined its plans to raise $330,000,000. Senator Hiram W. Johnson was scheduled to speak, but was indisposed.

OFFERS HIGHER FARE BILLS.

Assemblyman Jenks Proposes "Service at Cost" Basis.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 1.—Two State-wide "service at cost" bills were introduced today by Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks of Broome for the relief of traction companies who find it difficult to get along with a 5 cent fare. The bills would authorize cities, incorporated villages and towns to enter into agreements with street surface and rapid transit railroad corporations for transportation upon a service at cost plan, and empowering the public service commissions, in certain cases, to order temporary or permanent changes in the rates, fares and charges of such corporations.

Senator John A. Lynch of Richmond today introduced a bill which would authorize the Board of Estimate to make plans for the manufacture and purchase of buses to be operated by the city, lay out lines and routes, and appropriate funds, to be raised through the sale of special revenue bonds, to defray the cost of operation during the present year.

FARE WRITS AGAINST NIXON.

Garrison Takes Second Step on 8-Cent Ride Move.

The second step by Lindley M. Garrison, as receiver of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, to obtain authority to increase the fare from 5 to 8 cents on three of the company's surface lines, was taken yesterday when he obtained from Justice Newburger of the Supreme Court writs of certiorari requiring Public Service Commission Lewis Nixon to certify to the Court his reasons for refusing the application of Mr. Garrison on Wednesday. The first step was taken when Mr. Nixon declined to act on the application for an increased fare by stating that he was without jurisdiction. The writs are returnable in twenty days.

OUR RHINE FORCE IS NOT UNDER FOCH

ACTING UNDER ARMISTICE

WASHINGTON, April 1.—President Wilson in response to a resolution introduced in the House by Representative Julius Kahn, Chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, sent a letter to the House today explaining the status of the American troops in Germany. These, he said, were under his direction and not under that of Field Marshal Foch, and most of them are in the Coblenz area.

There were on March 28 last 726 officers and 16,756 enlisted men in Germany, the President said in his letter, operating not only under the terms of the original armistice, but the later conventions which prolonged the armistice.

President Wilson's letter follows:

"I am in receipt of House resolution 500, adopted March 25, 1920, which reads as follows:

"'Resolved, That the President be, and he is hereby requested, if not incompatible with the public interest, to inform the House of the exact status of the American military forces now stationed in German territory; the scope to which their operations are confined under the terms of the armistice between the allied nations, the Government of the United States and Germany; the extent of the authority exercised over them by Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch, Commander-in-Chief of the allied forces in the occupied Rhine Provinces, and how far their activities may be directed without express orders from the President of the United States.'

A Force of 17,500 on the Rhine.

"The American forces in Germany on March 28 were reported to comprise 726 officers and 16,756 enlisted men. These forces are stationed principally in the Coblenz area. The exact location of the units are set forth on the accompanying map. They are occupying that territory under the armistice agreements, which, with its annexes and conventions, was transmitted by me to the Senate and published as Senate Document 147, 66th Congress, 1st session, the paragraph V. of the clauses relating to the Western Front.

"The original armistice, signed on Nov. 11, 1918, provided that its duration should be thirty-six days, with option to extend. On Dec. 13, the armistice was extended until 5 A. M. on the 17th day of Jan., 1919; on Jan. 16, 1919, it was still further extended until the 17th day of Feb., 1919; at 5 A. M. on Feb. 16, 1919, it was still further extended to a date not fixed, 'the allied powers and those associated with them reserving to themselves the right to terminate the period at three days' notice.'

"The American forces in Germany are at present operating under the terms of the original armistice and the subsequent conventions prolonging the armistice. The instructions proposed to be issued to the commanding general, American forces in Germany, at the time of their occupying the Coblenz area, was submitted to the War Department by General Pershing, and contained the following statement of policy:

"'The American forces will, however, undertake no action beyond the occupied regions or beyond that in strict accordance with the terms of the treaty. Any use of the American forces beyond that mentioned above must be specifically authorized in each case by the Government of the United States.'

"In reply, it was directed that it should be stated in the orders issued to the Commanding General, American forces in Germany, that the function of the American forces in Germany at present is to enforce the conditions of the armistice and that when a peace treaty shall have been ratified by the United States the function of the American forces will be as outlined.

"Upon the ratification of the treaty of peace by the allied powers, an interallied Rhineland high commission was organized in the manner set forth in the message from the President of the United States to the Senate containing the agreement between the allied and associated powers and Germany with regards to the military occupations of the territories of the Rhine. This document is published as Senate 81, 66th Congress, First Session.

Instructions Given to Authorities.

"This commission having been organized and having formulated ordinances for the zone of occupation, the question arose as to whether the ordinances should govern in the American sector, and the representatives of the State Department and the Commanding General of the American forces in Germany were instructed as follows:

"'This Government cannot admit the jurisdiction of that commission over portions of Rhenish provinces occupied by the American forces. Consequently, neither you (representative of State Department) nor General Allen, should issue any ordinances which conflict with or exceed the terms of the armistice, which the Department (of State) regards as continuing in force as to the United States. You should, however, maintain the closest touch with the high commission and endeavor to, so far as possible, conform administrative regime within territory occupied by American forces to the regime adopted by the High Commission for the other portions of the occupied territory. There is no objection to you sitting informally with the High Commission provided you are requested to do so, nor of continuing your activities, as well as those of your staff in connection with special committees to handle distribution of coal, &c. Ordinances, orders, regulations, &c., relating to financial and economic matters, including those similar to ones adopted by the High Commission which it is desired to put into force in territory occupied by American forces should be issued by General Allen as Commanding General of American forces in Germany, but only after having first been approved by you. In general, endeavor to co-operate fully with the High Commission and avoid all friction with that body, while at the same time make it perfectly clear that you are still operating under the armistice as before Jan. 10 and are in no way bound by the terms of the Rhineland agreement or the memorandum of June 13, 1919, defining the relations between the military authorities and the High Commission.'

"Replying specifically to the remaining questions in the resolutions of the House of Representatives I will state that Field Marshal Ferdinand Foch has no authority over United States troops in German territory nor can any one direct their activities without express orders from the President of the United States.

"It should be stated further that under his general police powers under the terms of the armistice, General Allen has full authority to utilize his troops for the police of the occupied district, for the preservation of

MOBBED IN EVICTING VETERAN'S PARENTS

TAKES REFUGE ON A CAR

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—More than 1,000 angry rioters cut the rope from a trolley car and threatened to hang Deputy Sheriff Edwin Hunter to an elevated railroad girder at shortly before 6 o'clock tonight after he had evicted the aged parents of a wounded war veteran from their home. Several women were injured by flying bricks and stones when Hunter sought refuge on the street car on which they were passengers.

A riot call was sent in to every police district in West Philadelphia, and only with drawn revolvers were the police able to disperse the crowd. Hunter was rushed to a car barn and there kept in hiding until he could be taken home safely under heavy guard.

Mr. and Mrs. George Glassmire, who are about 60 years old, were notified several months ago by the agent that the house had been sold and that they must make way for the new owner. They were unable to find another house for rent, and notified the agent. He placed a writ of eviction in the hands of the Sheriff, and Hunter was assigned to evict them.

After all the effects had been placed in a van and carried off Hunter left the house. Several policemen were in the street. Several spectators, who saw the eviction, accosted the Deputy Sheriff as he was about to board a street car.

"This guy is a Sheriff, and he put out the parents of a poor wounded soldier," cried one.

"Are you going to let this guy get away with it?" asked the haranguer, as he seized Hunter by the coat.

Immediately there was an uproar, and several men struck Hunter with umbrellas.

Car despatchers, and a lone policeman attempted to shield the deputy. They held off the rapidly growing mob while he boarded the car. The door was closed and the motorman was ordered to start his car, but as he did so one of the rioters pulled the trolley off the wire.

Bricks and stones were hurled through the windows. Women shrieked and men attempted to fight their way out.

"Hang him," shouted one of the mob. But before they could seize him Hunter had escaped through a door on the opposite side of the car and jumped into an empty northbound car. He pleaded with the motorman to carry him to safety, and the motorman did not stop his car until it reached the car barn.

THOMAS F. CLARKE DEAD IN CEYLON

Thomas F. Clarke, who gave up his Vice Presidency of the Western Union Telegraph Company in 1914, after a fifteen-year tenure and a record of forty years service with the company, died quietly during the night of Feb. 7 in Colombo, Ceylon, according to information just received here by mail. He and his wife had been traveling together in the Orient, and he was apparently in good health when he retired for the night.

Mr. Clarke first joined the Western Union forces as a young man in 1871. Later he worked for a time for the Atlantic and Pacific Cable Company, also acting as Secretary of the American Union Company. But he returned in 1881 to the Western Union when it absorbed the two other concerns, and this time he remained for the rest of his active career. He gradually rose to be assistant to General Eckert, the President, then he became acting Vice President, and finally, in 1899, Vice President and Director.

In the early seventies Mr. Clarke was well known as an amateur actor. As a member of the Wallack Club, then the equivalent of the Comedy Club of today, he scored a notable success in the title rôle of "David Garrick."

An Hour Spent in Balloting.

The overwhelming majority of 116 to 28 which expelled Claessens, Waldman and Solomon came as a surprise even to the most sanguine among those who had been advocating the ousting of the five radicals. Only one of the latter, Louis Waldman, was in attendance when the final vote came.

Democrats—Cosgrove, Cross and Henderson.

The total vote was thus 104 for expulsion of these two and 40 against.

Telegrams Congratulate Sweet.

Speaker Sweet, while he refused to mtke any comment on the vote, was visibly elated today. Scores of telegrams, some from persons of prominence in the political, financial or industrial world, congratulating the Speaker, have been received by him.

The fact that the final vote did not come until today makes the filling of the vacancies by special election impossible, except in case of an extraordinary session of the Legislature. While the Legislature might be called together if the United States Supreme Court should construe the prohibition amendment "liberally," this possibility is not regarded seriously.

Socialism Exposed, Says Newton.

ALBANY, April 1 (Associated Press.)—"The sensible people of the State will have no misgivings about the stand of an American Legislature," Attorney General Newton, chief counsel for the Judiciary Committee, declared today after the final vote had been taken expelling the Socialist Assemblymen.

"They have learned that to countenance the activities of radicals is to invite disaster to American Government and will not share the view of certain political aspirants and misdirected citizens that it is necessary to handle disloyalists and seditionists with kid gloves. I have no sympathy with that class of citizens who by impulse of misconception aided and comforted these Socialist Assemblymen far more than the members of their own party. The investigation has gone far toward informing the people of the State and nation about the real aims and purposes of Socialism."

By its action the Assembly established a precedent altogether unique in legislative history in the United States, as never before has an entire party delegation been ousted from any legislative body. When the Assembly adjourned, it had been in continuous session for twenty-three hours and forty minutes.

There was a brief outburst of applause when the Clerk announced the vote on Waldman's case, followed by another mild demonstration a few seconds later when Speaker Sweet announced:

"The resolution having been duly passed, I declare the seat occupied by Louis Waldman vacant."

The announcements in the case of the other Socialists were received in silence by members and spectators, until the final declaration by the Speaker that Orr's seat was vacant, when there was a last brief outburst of mild cheering and handclapping.

ALBANY, April 1.—Louis Waldman and Charles Solomon, two of the unseated Socialist Assemblymen, today issued the following statement:

"Treason has been committed in the New York Assembly by Republicans and Democrats, with few honorable exceptions. A bi-partisan combination has overthrown representative government. The representatives of a political party have been driven from the legislative halls solely because their platform was distasteful to their political opponents.

"The Constitution has been lynched, and the perpetrators of this outrage must be brought to justice. The spirit of the mob breathed in the Assembly debate throughout the weary hours. Under the leadership of Speaker Sweet, man after man was openly incited to violence.

"The doctrine of arbitrary power was shamelessly proclaimed again and again.

"The forces of plutocracy and reaction have temporarily triumphed. The common people have been told they have no voice in government except on the sufferance of the hirelings of vested interests to whom the powers of state have been surrendered.

"The outrage at Albany is a clarion call to the people of America to rally for the revival of their ancient liberties. The life of democratic institutions is at stake, and the people must get together to right the wrong.

"The workers by whom we were elected must and will be heard. If the people are to be driven from the ballot box, where shall they go?

"The right of the ballot is an American right, and those who deny it are traitors.

"The Assembly has consummated the act of lawlessness it began on Jan. 7. Where the verdict was not the product of hysteria and ignorance it was the fruit of contemptible political jobbery. The Albany outrage is the culminating step in a series of assaults on our popular liberties which will jolt the people into a new political consciousness.

"The Socialist Party refuses to regard the act of the Assembly as more than a mad manifestation of fear for the growing political power of labor.

"It will not be swerved from its historic course and mission. With greater faith and vigor than ever it will go on agitating, educating and organizing the workers for peaceful social change.

"Socialists will not be goaded into violence or driven under ground. These have never been the methods of Socialism. Always and everywhere it has waged its fight in the open, and where this opportunity has been denied it has ceaselessly fought for political democracy.

"We shall go back to our districts with complete confidence. The people who sent us here knew us, and they will repeat their sovereign will in overwhelming numbers."

WILL TAKE FIRST APPEAL IN STATE SUPREME COURT

The five expelled Socialist Assemblymen will appeal immediately to the State Supreme Court, and if necessary will carry their case to the United States Supreme Court, S. John Block, their associate counsel, said yesterday. Mr. Block said that the exact procedure had not been determined, but stated that the constitutionality of the Assembly's action would be attacked. He said that a conference of the five ousted Assemblymen, their counsel and leading members of the Socialist Party would be held soon, probably today.

The action of the Assembly was approved by the American Defense Society, which sent the following telegram to Speaker Sweet after a meeting of its Executive Committee:

"We are deeply gratified to note the action of the Assembly in expelling the Socialists, consequent upon the majority report of the Judiciary Committee branding the Socialists as perpetual traitors and suggesting that their so-called party be outlawed.

"Our campaign against Bolshevism has convinced us that disloyal, dangerous doctrines can only be crushed by the action of men like yourself who are not afraid to enforce proper measures for the good of the Nation and it's people."

Samuel Orr, one of the expelled Assemblymen, who represented the Fourth District of the Bronx, issued a statement yesterday, stating that the Assembly's action was unprecedented. "It is needless to say that this will not abolish Socialism," he said. "An idea can never be abolished. The Czar and the Kaiser tried to do it and failed miserably in the attempt.

"No plans have yet been formulated to take this matter before the court of public opinion. The Committee of Eight of the Socialist Party and the Committee of Seventeen, representing labor, social and civic bodies will meet soon to take suitable action.

"This ouster, with all it's lawlessness and brutality, has demonstrated more clearly than anything else that the Socialists have a message of truth and justice which the predatory interests are trying to keep away from the people. Truth crushed to earth is bound to rise."

A CALAMITY, SAYS HUGHES.

Regards Expulsion Serious Blow at True Americanism.

When asked for his opinion of the expulsion of the Socialist Assemblymen Charles Evans Hughes said yesterday:

"I do not care to speak of the action of the Assembly in a casual or flippant manner. I regard it as a serious blow at the standards of true Americanism and nothing short of a calamity. Those who make their patriotism a vehicle for intolerance are very distinct friends of our institutions. I expressed my views upon this question at the outset and I have seen no reason to change them."

VETERANS CONDEMN ACTION.

Minnesota Body Says Socialists' Expulsion Opposes Democracy.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 1.—Resolutions condemning the action of the New York State Assembly for expulsion of the five Socialist members today were adopted here by the first State and Northwestern District Convention of the World War Veterans. The convention voted to send a telegram to the Assembly declaring the expulsion an "act opposed to democracy."

Another resolution adopted branded universal military training as "Prussianism," and stated that such legislation would have a tendency to encourage war. The resolution protested against any form of universal military training or conscription except in time of war. National bonuses for former service men and women were approved.

HOWARD HINTON DIES AT 86.

Howard Hinton, "H. H." of the old Home Journal, who died on Wednesday at the Hotel Albert, was perhaps the last link since the death of H. M. Alden of what may be termed the classical period of American literature. Contemporary of N. P. Willis, William Cullen Bryant, George Ripley and other well known American men of letters associated with The Home Journal. Mr. Hinton was recognized among his associates as it delicately directing pirit.

Always adverse to publicity his articles were usually unsigned and his only attempt toward recognition was to append his initials occasionally to some discussion of American politics, a review of a new novel by Zola or a new volume of short stories by De Maupassant. Essentially a poet and philosopher, Mr. Hinton was for a time a journalist, and when The Home Journal receded before the newer styles of magazines he passed with it into a life of philosophic contemplation, which none the less kept a keen eye upon the latest movements of the world, particularly those which made for a realization of the finer spirit of American democracy. George Ripley once described him as one who, while he professed none of the Christian virtues, possessed them all.

Mr. Hinton was born eighty-six years ago in a house overlooking the Battery. His parents were of old Colonial stock who were identified prominently with the early history of New York. Mr. Hinton was graduated from Columbia, where he won honors for his Latin and Greek attainments. LUCY SPELMAN WILL FILED.

Late Mrs. Rockefeller's Sister Left Bequests for Education.

The will of Miss Lucy M. Spelman, sister of the late Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, filed for probate in the Surrogates' Court yesterday disposes of an estate estimated at more than $1,000,000. Miss Spelman makes a number of direct bequests, both to individuals and institutions, and leaves half the residue to Oberlin College and the other half to the General Education Board, a Rockefeller organization.

Oberlin's share, which is believed to amount to more than $200,000, is to be used to prepare girls for foreign missionary work. The General Education Board's share is to be used to prepare colored girls for trained nursing. If, in the judgment of the board, the income cannot be used for that purpose it may be used for the development of the hospital connected with the Spelman Dispensary.

Miss Spelman also left $100,000 to the General Education Board from the income of which $2,000 a year is to be paid to Annette Beebe of Oberlin, Lilla F. and Jennie B. Spelman of Cleveland, and Ethel Chamberlain and Letta Ward of Seville, Ohio. Bequests of $5,000 each go to the Margaret Strachan Home for Women, the New York Congregational Home for the Aged, and the New York State Branch of the Women's Board of Missions of the Congregational Church.

Miss Spelman divided her jewelry among a deceased sister's grandchildren, Madaline Prentice, Margaret Strong, Muriel and Mathilde McCormick, and Abby Rockefeller. A gift of jewelry and of $500 is left to Miss Jessie Turner of Cleveland and Hattie A. Sambrook of Cleveland also gets $500.

The will was made June 31, 1917, and John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was named executor. If he cannot act E. Parmalee Prentice, grandson of John D. Rockefeller, is to be executor.

Give Your Child the Education You Pay For

After 7 years' training, an elementary school teacher gets $20 a week. After 9 years' training, a high school teacher gets $28 a week.

Men and women who have to live on these salaries are not fit to teach your children.

The increase for which the teachers are asking does not come up to the increased cost of living. They are asking for less than they deserve—not more. It is your duty to see that your child's teacher gets a decent salary. It's good business to pay for good teachers.

Your representatives at Albany are anxious to do what you want them to. They determine how your money shall be spent. You must tell them that you want your children to have good schools.

WHAT YOU CAN DO

Write or telegraph to your Assemblyman and your Senator, Albany, N. Y., and tell them it is their duty to support the Lockwood-Donohue bill, which provides for a general increase in teachers' salaries.

OBJECTORS ARE OVERRULED

AMNESTY UP TO NOON TODAY

Under Agreement No More Troops Would Be Sent, and Commissioner Would Restore Order.

ESSEN, April 1 (Associated Press).—The Central Committee and 200 delegates of all the local committees voted this afternoon unanimous acceptance of the Bielefeld agreement of March 24.

The Workmen's Central Committee had been in session for many hours discussing the terms that delegates brought back from Münster. There was some dissatisfaction with the results of the Münster conference, but most of the members of the Central Committee maintained an optimistic attitude.

Delegates who arrived this afternoon from the conference held at Münster to settle the Ruhr Valley troubles said that an agreement had been reached between the representatives of the workingmen and the Government that was satisfactory in most points to the workers.

Although the general strike is still in effect here, an order was issued for the operation of the street cars today. It was thought that the operation of the cars would be begun some time this afternoon.

Terms of Agreement.

THE HAGUE, April 1.—A conference between the insurgents and the Government officials at Münster has ended satisfactorily, according to a dispatch to the Telegraaf from Düsseldorf.

The Government has extended its amnesty proposal until noon tomorrow in accordance with the stipulations of the Bielefeld agreement. If this agreement is executed, no military measures are to be taken. The existing local police will maintain order and no more troops will be sent into the Ruhr district. Government Commissioner Severing will appoint sub-commissioners to assist the Government authorities in the execution of the agreement.

A dispatch to the Telegraaf from Essen says on the contrary that the Münster agreement is not acceptable to the insurgents in Essen.

DUESSELDORF, April 1 (Associated Press).—An agreement was reached at Münster last night upon a compromise arrangement for settling the troubles in the Ruhr district, according to the editor of the moderate labor newspaper in this city.

The reported compromise extends the time for acceptance of the Bielefeld agreement, with an added clause providing for amnesty for those concerned in the Ruhr uprising, until noon tomorrow.

COPENHAGEN, April 1.—The Revolutionary Executive Strike Council at Berlin, whose members belong to the extreme radical group, yesterday decided against the calling of a general strike in Germany as a result of the Ruhr Valley situation, pending the result of the negotiations with the Ruhr workingmen's organization at Münster, according to advices received here. This action was taken, it was said, owing to the attitude of the Berlin workers on the question.

MILLERAND REPEATS REFUSAL TO GERMANY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 1.—Herr Mayer, the German Chargé d'Affaires called on Premier Millerand today and repeated the request of the German Government to be allowed to send large Reichswehr forces into the Ruhr region. The French Premier again refused his consent. However, he promised to investigate the statements made on behalf of Berlin that the situation in the Ruhr district called for the dispatch of large forces there. He informed Herr Mayer that information coming to the French Government was different from that presented by the German Government and that he would endeavor to establish the facts clearly. For the present he stood upon his refusal made formally yesterday in a note to the German Chargé.

As far as can be learned here, the English and Italian Governments have taken no action with regard to the direct negotiations between Paris and Berlin. The French Government continues to contend that it is entitled to act alone in the protection of its treaty rights, even when it has to act against the advice of its Allies. It holds that on the face of the situation there is no need of harsh action in the Ruhr Basin, and that even if it is the 25,000 Government troops permitted there are sufficient.

The German contention is that the negotiations have failed to effect a satisfactory settlement and force is necessary. As for the Reichswehr troops which were in the Ruhr region, the German Government says many of them went over to the workers' forces and what is left is neither strong enough nor well enough organized to restore the authority of the Berlin Government.

French official information is to the effect that the general strike order issued by the Central Workers' committee at Essen has not been well obeyed, and that the situation is one in which the use of negotiation has not been exhausted. Moreover, it may be noted that the permission given that August to send a limited number of Reichswehr troops into the Ruhr region to maintain order expires April 10, and it is evident that if the workers still are in control then the French Government will be forced to agree to an extension or to advocate some new policy.

As for the situation as it is now, the Temps says:

"The entrance of the Reichswehr with a fanfare of trumpets is useless. Authoritative reports say that the Red battalions are disbanding of themselves, that the workers are in dissension, that there are no great supplies of munitions, and that the Red forces lack food. There is no need of bloodshed to restore order in the Ruhr region. The Reichswehr and its leaders, however, desire revenge for the check of the Ruhr on their coup d'etat. To shoot down the Ruhr revolutionists would please them. We will not permit it. We are not going to put them back in the saddle."

A dispatch from Berlin says that Herr Müller made a statement today refusing to recall General von Watter, commanding the Reichswehr on the Ruhr, but that he has been instructed not to act except in accord with Minister Severing, who has been named High Commissioner for the Ruhr district. He stands upon the Bielefeld agreements and gives the workers forty-eight hours more in which to lay down their arms. The National Assembly has adjourned until April 14.

A dispatch from the Ruhr basin says: "Throughout the basin hunger rages, the strike having interfered with the food trains. In Düsseldorf the ration is reduced to three pounds weekly. In Arnaking two pounds of bread is supplemented by a few dried vegetables. The lack of milk causes a growing infant mortality."

The Wolff Agency sent out the following note this morning: "The situation in the industrial basin of the Ruhr is worse. Radical elements of the Left gain more and more influence in the executive committees."

At the same time the French received a private dispatch from Berlin saying: "Contrary to the semi-official declarations, the situation in the Ruhr district is aggravated in only minor ways. Resistance of the Red army is greatly diminished. It is believed the Government will make concessions to the central councils at Essen and that an agreement will soon be reached."

Doubt Need of Advance.

PARIS, April 1 (Associated Press).—The Premier conferred today with Marshal Foch respecting eventual measures to be taken in case the Germans disregarded the decision against the sending of more of their troops into the Ruhr district. No apprehension is expressed, however, that anything further would result than a demonstration such as an advance of the French troops a dozen miles or so in such a contingency. This advance would mean the occupation of Frankfort and Darmstad. It is not expected, however, that this would provoke any violent manifestation on the part of the Germans, since Dr. von Mayer in his first interview with the Millerand on the subject is declared to have intimated that his Government might consent to such an advance as a guarantee of the evacuation of the Ruhr district by the additional German troops, if they were allowed to enter the region.

At the same time there is much skepticism here, even in circles close to the Government, regarding the efficacy or the desirability of such an advance. It is pointed out that Frankfort, Darmstadt and, in fact, all the territory the occupation of which is under consideration, are now commanded by French batteries and would not be more completely dominated if French soldiers were picketing throughout the area. Moreover, such a demonstration would not be in accord with what appears to be the French policy of avoiding as far as possible causes of friction with the German population and even the adoption of as conciliatory an attitude toward the Government as is consistent with insistence upon strict execution of the Peace Treaty.

The impression today appeared to be that the whole trouble would blow over without the necessity of radical measures being taken.

DECLARES GERMANY IS RUSHING TO RUIN

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 31.—The belief that Germany is rushing headlong to a Bolshevist débâcle, which the French Socialist press has been almost alone in maintaining, today finds expression in L'Echo de Paris.

It is rather surprising that this is the case, as hitherto L'Echo de Paris, the most nationalist of the newspapers in France, has closely followed the official attitude of affecting to consider the danger of a labor revolution in Germany as a bluff. Today, however, L'Echo de Paris's German correspondent, Charles Bonnefon, whose dispatches since the crisis began have been more informative and clear-sighted than those of most of his colleagues, announces his opinion that a social catastrophe in Germany is inevitable.

The article contains a curious personal apology. He evidently feels that his views will be considered rather unorthodox in L'Echo, but he states the case with entire conviction. He says:

"In a hastily written article of March 13 I foreshadowed exactly the course which events have taken. Have I not the right, since I judged correctly then, to ask a hearing now? All who know me know that I am shy, painstaking and inaccessible to vanity, but one thing makes me desperate, namely, that my long experience acquired by careful investigation and minute scrutiny to test the accuracy of facts, but making no pretense to prophetic vision, is heeded as little today as it was in 1913, yet the facts are there for every one to see.

"Germany is moving inevitably toward a catastrophe and she has no man of genius to change the course of events. The catastrophe will come because, though Germany can no longer feed more than 35,000,000 inhabitants, she counts 52,000,000, the Rhinelands included, after losing by the treaty 6,000,000 peasants out of 17,000,000, to say nothing of 900,000 Russian agricultural workers.

"The rate of her exchange forbids her to buy food abroad. The loss of Silesia, which appears certain and imminent, foretokens a complete upset of her industry by depriving her of 43,000,000 tons of coal annually.

"She is hopelessly doomed to chaos. The present of 100,000,000,000 marks would not save the country from perishing under a debt of 300,000,000,000 marks, and with an indemnity of 1,200,000,000,000 marks to pay, she cannot recover, and is headed irremediably toward bankruptcy and bloody disorder."

The hand that writes the above may be the hand of a French Nationalist, but the voice is the voice of Maynard Keynes. Bonnefon, however, then devises from the British economist. Convinced that it is now too late to avert disaster by lightening Germany's burden, he forecasts its consequences. He continues:

"Germany, who knows herself lost, who would succumb as a result of her territorial losses even we made her a present of her debt, who must drag her chains until death because she cannot feed more than 35,000,000 of her inhabitants, this Germany still has something to hope and work for—her revenge. Already she is preparing to enslave Europe in co-operation with Russia. This very day a French engineer has come back from Krupps and told me that everything is ready to recommence there with feverish speed the manufacture of guns. He quotes names and facts, and gives me proof. How am I to not believe it after what I have seen and heard myself in Berlin?"

Swiss Are Startled by Order To Admit ex-Royalties Freely

GENEVA, March 31.—An order issued to the troops and customs officials guarding the Swiss-German frontier that if the former Kings of Bavaria and Württemberg and the former Grand Duke of Baden desire to enter Switzerland with their suites, all frontier formalities must be waived in their favor, is causing considerable discussion in the Swiss newspapers.

The order says the former monarchs and the one-time Grand Duke may come into Switzerland without being subjected to the usual procedure at the frontier.

WOOD WELCOMED IN BIG OHIO CITIES

HE DEFENDS THE UNIFORM

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 1.—Major Gen. Leonard Wood spoke at Toledo this noon and again tonight in Cleveland. His welcome in both cities was as enthusiastic as it has been in other States.

In Toledo the General spoke to a great audience that packed Keith's Theatre. He began by paying his respects to what he termed the "favorite son habit," explaining that simply because a man happens to have been born in a certain State is no reason in itself why that man should be nominated for the Presidency.

"The favorite son plan," he went on, "has been one which has always placed a limitation upon the choice of the people and has played directly into the hands of the worst form of machine politics. It has resulted often in bringing about in the States what a distinguished political leader recently said in Washington would be done in the 1920 Presidential nomination, namely, that about 2:11 A. M. the nomination would be settled by fifteen or twenty tired men sitting around a table in a smoke-filled room behind locked doors. We want no more of this in this country. We want the will of the people as expressed at the polls embodied in the choice made at the convention. When the time comes that fifteen or twenty men can gather in a smoke-filled room and settle the Presidency, may God pity us! No one else will."

Again Defends the Uniform.

General Wood has been assailed in Ohio because he appears in the uniform of his army rank. He again asserted his pride in it.

"Let's have done," said the General, "with these attacks on the uniform, which are for purely political purposes. When you hear the uniform attacked it is a safe conclusion that the men who do it are among those who are always somewhere else when the hour of national peril comes."

In arguing for a sane system of universal military service which will give to each man between the ages of 19 and 21 years at least four months of military training and vocational instruction, General Wood referred to the failure of the United States to prepare in time for the European war.

"We spent the three years before we entered the war," he said, "in what I might term a vigorous application of verbal massage instead of buckling down and getting ready to play our part as we should have done. It was three years of introspection instead of three years of rational preparation."

The audience cheered when General Wood argued for the ratification of the treaty of peace as amended by the Senate. It also shouted its approval of his plea for a strong, vigorous foreign policy and for a firm hand in dealing with the alien radical situation.

"All good Americans," he added "are glad that America has come in for peace, and they hope will continue in the future to be, the refuge of the oppressed of all lands. At the same time we must be careful that the United States is not made the dumping ground for the degenerates of other lands."

In the armory here tonight General Wood repeated in the main the speech he delivered in Toledo.

The General said tonight that his reception at Toledo and in Cleveland were the most friendly and demonstrative of any given him since he entered the lists for the nomination. Half an hour before he arrived at the armory tonight that building was crowded to capacity. As he entered two veterans of the A. E. F. carrying the American flag preceded him and the crowd stood and cheered him nearly two minutes.

William H. Boyd, who heads the Wood delegates at large in Ohio, presides. Mr. Boyd stated that up to the present time the sum total of all the money raised for the campaign in the Cleveland District totaled a little less than $2,800.

ANSWERS ATTACKS ON WOOD.

F. M. Alger Says All Campaign Money in Michigan Was Raised There

DETROIT, Mich., April 1.—Frederick M. Alger, President of the Leonard Wood League of Michigan, issued a statement today replying to the attacks of Senators Hiram Johnson and William E. Borah alleging improper use of money in Michigan for the Wood Presidential campaign. Mr. Alger says in part:

"These gentlemen have attacked us for the improper use of money in this State. Not a dollar has been spent in Michigan with our knowledge that was not raised in Michigan. These funds were contributed by citizens who believed that they were rendering a high service to the country in these grave times by assisting to make Leonard Wood President of the United States. Their action was purely unselfish, Senator Borah to the contrary notwithstanding.

"This money has been used, is being used and will be used for the purpose of conveying information to the people of this State concerning the qualifications of Leonard Wood. For Senator Borah to imply improper motives on our part is a comment on Senator Borah and not on Leonard Wood or his managers.

"The assumption by Senator Borah of the rôle of censor of Republican politics would be arrogant if it were not absurd. For one individual American citizen to acknowledge himself responsible for his political conduct to another individual American citizen, who has no legal authority in the premises, is in itself humiliating and un-American. As there is no legally constituted authority to whom to submit a statement, any statement of course should be submitted to the public and the public only, and to the public we propose to submit our accounts as soon as they are complete.

"In his Detroit speech of March 30 Senator Borah said 'I do want to say, so far as my own opinion is concerned, that no man gives $100,000 to any man's Presidential candidacy upon any other theory than that somewhere along the line he will get some return.' The same theory, of course, must apply to lesser contributions. This statement seems to give a true picture of Senator Borah's conception of public service.

"In the first place he can conceive of a Presidential candidacy, both from the viewpoint of the candidate himself and of his supporters, only as a purely personal matter. In the second place he cannot conceive of any one contributing money to a public cause without some ulterior and selfish purpose.

"It is therefore fair for us to infer that Mr. Borah is not contributing so lavishly his oratory to Mr. Johnson without expecting that 'somewhere along the line he will get some return.'"

Makes Capital Stock $750,000,000.

ALBANY, April 1.—The American Telephone and Telegraph Company certified to the Secretary of State today that it had increased its capital stock from $500,000,000 to $750,000,000.

Penniless Russian Princess Wins Sympathy Of Geneva Court; Escapes Paying Hotel Bill

GENEVA, March 31.—A Russian Princess appeared before the Vevey tribunal yesterday on a charge made by a Swiss hotelkeeper of failing to pay a hotel bill amounting to 1,000 francs.

The Princess, who was dressed in deep mourning, acknowledged the debt and said she would liquidate it later. She explained to the court that she was a victim of the Bolsheviki, who had killed her father.

In former days, the Princess asserted, she had an income equivalent to $50,000. Her properties, near Moscow, had been confiscated, and she was penniless. She added that she had applied numerous times for a position as lady's companion, and even as a maid, but that she had been unable to obtain a situation, as prospective employers declared her to be too aristocratic in appearance or were suspicious of her.

She said she had been offered many positions as stenographer or secretary, but that her education while at the Romanoff Court had not included stenography or secretarial work. The Princess asserted that she was closely related to the Romanoffs.

OFF FOR MICHIGAN TODAY

Frank H. Hitchcock, field manager of Major Gen. Wood's campaign for the Republican Presidential nomination, returned to New York yesterday after canvassing the situation throughout the country. He said he had covered every State in the Union, either personally or by conferring over the long distance telephone with Republican leaders and Wood local managers. "I have been all over the ground and I'm well pleased with the situation," summed up Mr. Hitchcock. "The general condition is indicative of Wood success."

Asked if the recent attacks upon General Wood's campaign by rival candidates who charged that large sums of money are being spent to obtain his nomination, Mr. Hitchcock declared that this method of attack was causing the Wood managers no concern.

"The same thing happens in every campaign," said Mr. Hitchcock. "It is generally an evidence of the strength of the candidate who is attacked and indicates that his rivals are trying to head him off. It has happened in every campaign in which I have been. Some fellow gets away in the lead and the opposition gets seriously worried. Then they adopt several standard methods, the usual one being to accuse the successful candidate of illegal use of money. It causes a sensation for a time, but is soon forgotten."

Johnson Off for Michigan.

Mr. Hitchcock will leave today for Michigan, where he will remain until the primary election next Monday. Both the Wood and the Johnson managers are worried about the Michigan situation. Senator Johnson cut short his New York speaking campaign last night and hurried back to Detroit. He will remain in Michigan right up to Monday. Mr. Hitchcock said he had talked with all the Republican county leaders there just before coming East and everything looked "good" Wood, indeed.

He said he felt satisfied with the Michigan situation as the sentiment among the delegates there was strong for Wood. He said he didn't know why Senator Johnson should be worried about the State, that the situation there had not changed recently. He admitted there was a good deal of Johnson sentiment in Detroit and other large cities, but that the country districts were strong for Wood. Governor Lowden's managers are very active in that State, although Senator Harding is making no fight for the delegates, having agreed to keep out of Michigan. There are four candidates to be voted for in the Republican primary, Wood, Lowden, Johnson, and Hoover.

Managers of Senator Johnson's campaign said yesterday that they would put up a hard fight against Wood delegates in nine New Jersey districts. They have nominated two delegates at large, M. L. Ballard of South Orange and Thomas Layden of Paterson, a labor leader.

Senator Harding of Ohio entered the New Jersey primary fight yesterday. Two Harding delegates have entered the fight from Jersey City, this being the only district in which Harding will be represented. A bitter fight in the Republican organization is predicted as the result of the selection of John W. Griggs, ex-United States Attorney General, and City Commissioner Thomas L. Raymond as Wood candidates for delegates at large. United States Senators Edge and Frelinghuysen are Big Four candidates but unpledged to Wood, and they are opposed to the Wood selections, it was said.

HINES OFFICIALS OUSTED.

Tammany Substitutes New 11th District Election List.

The Tammany organization, headed by Charles F. Murphy, showed its hand openly yesterday in the fight to displace James J. Hines as leader of the Eleventh Assembly District by the removal of all election district officials in the district by Sheriff David H. Knott, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and the substitution of an entirely new list, presumably friendly to State Senator Abraham Kaplan, candidate against Mr. Hines for member of the Democratic State Committee.

When he heard of the latest move against him, Mr. Hines declared that the Fourteenth Street organization was getting ready to use "oldtime rough methods" and "steal" the election from him. He called a meeting of his supporters for Sunday at the Monongahela Club, 209 Manhattan Avenue, to take steps to insure a legal vote and a correct count at the primary election on April 6.

JOHNSON LAUNCHES ATTACK ON HOOVER

DENOUNCES PRIMARY LAW

Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California told more than 1,000 people, mostly women, at a meeting of the League for Political Education in Carnegie Hall yesterday that he had the utmost contempt for those who tried to "run with the hare and hunt with the hounds," and for those whose views on the League of Nations changed with every gust of public sentiment. After the meeting the Senator said he had Herbert C. Hoover in mind when he made his statement on the treaty.

The New York primaries law should be amended so that voters would have an opportunity to express their opinions as to laws as well as to candidates for office, the speaker said.

"Go to the polls in the coming preferential primaries," he cried, "and my appeal to you is not that you shall register your vote for a particular person, but that you register your will against those who by sharp practices would deprive you of the right to register your will at all. You should not supinely permit any organization to select your delegates. If you do, you are forgetting your rights as American citizens. You should go to the primaries determined to amend your primary law because it is a disgrace to a great State like this."

The Senator from California said he had great respect for any other man's views, even though contrary to his own, but the greatest contempt for those who tried to run with both sides. Referring to Mr. Hoover's changes of view on the Peace Treaty, he said:

"It is only for those people who try to run with both sides that I have the greatest contempt. They try to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds."

Senator Johnson urged that something be done to relieve the high cost of living. He said the Administration had been provided with drastic laws with which to deal with the situation.

"We can with existing laws deal with the profiteer as he ought to be dealt with," said the Senator. "This high cost of living falls not upon one class, nor upon another, but upon those who have definite and fixed incomes which haven't responded to the rising costs of living."

Senator Johnsen said that, while he despised the profiteer, he had equal contempt for the "patriotees" hiding behind the American flag.

HOOVER TO APPEAR ON RIVAL TICKETS

Both Parties in Michigan Will Vote on Him at Presidential Primaries —Democrats Puzzled.

Special to The New York Times.

LANSING, Mich., April 1.—Herbert Hoover's name will be on both the Republican and Democratic Presidential primary ballots on April 5. It seems to be conceded by both Republicans and Democrats that the voters in Michigan will flock to Hoover without regard to party. Especially is this true of the women.

Democratic leaders of Michigan publicly deplore the fact that Mr. Hoover has thrown his hat into the Republican ring, but privately admit his declaration of principles will appeal to many Democrats. There is a feeling that Hoover offers the Democrats of Michigan an opportunity to get behind a man who has possibilities of success and whose nomination and election even on the Republican ticket could be hailed as a victory for Democrats.

Michigan leaders in the Democratic Party were openly enthusiastic over Hoover prior to the recent announcement. They concede that the statement is a blow to the Democratic organization, because a great mass of the party will vote for him. Probably the most prominent man on the Democratic State Central Committee admits that the leaders are facing a knotty problem. They feel Hoover is too popular to be arbitrarily discarded and they are hoping for Palmer or McAdoo as a candidate to tie to.

HOOVER HANDICAP SEEN BY WESTERNERS

EXPLANATION IS SOUGHT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 1.—The subject which political leaders and the people of the Middle West are talking most about today in connection with Herbert Hoover's announcement that he will accept the Republican nomination if it comes to him under terms which he feels that he can consider, is the fact that in the Fall of 1918 Mr. Hoover indorsed the request of President Wilson that a Democratic Congress be re-elected.

Reports which are reaching Chicago from many points in the Middle West have shown that the leaders are bringing forward that recommendation of the President for a partisan Congress and the Hoover indorsement of it. There is talk about it here on every side and many are seeking information as to the exact situation which led Hoover to make a blanket indorsement of Democratic candidates for the Senate and House in 1918. It would seem that this question must be answered successfully unless the Hoover boom is to suffer a severe loss of support.

Supporters of General Wood, Governor Lowden of Illinois and Senator Johnson of California are going as far as to say that the step which Hoover took in 1918 may be the thing which will beat him for the nomination. They find a parallel between it and the famous incident in 1916 when Senator Johnson—then Governor Johnson of California—and Charles Evans Hughes, the nominee for President on the Republican ticket, failed to shake hands, and Hughes was beaten in California and lost the election.

May Overcome the Handicap.

The best judgment here at the moment, however, seems to be that if the turn to Hoover in the late days of the preconvention campaign is strong he will be able to sweep the incident aside in fighting for the greater issues involved.

It is a fact that when President Wilson took his swing around the circle in September last in advocacy of the League of Nations some of the strongest opposition found against him was born of his partisan appeal just before the Fall elections of 1918. The writer of this dispatch was on tour with the President at that time and found many in every section of the country who brought forward the subject and expressed the belief that it had hurt the President more than almost any other act since he was sent to the White House. All this has its reflection upon the situation now created.

The details of the emotions and ambitions which brought first the request from the President in 1918 for a partisan Congress and next the Hoover endorsement have never been fully told. They were known to a few men in Washington and some of the leaders in the Middle West who were consulted have the facts. As they promise to play a prominent part in the campaign whether Hoover receives the Republican nomination or not, they are of great interest at this time.

It is stated on the highest authority that Vance C. McCormick, former Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, and Postmaster General Burleson were consulted by President Wilson as to the advisability of issuing the original Wilson appeal. McCormick is said to have been skeptical about it; Burleson in favor of such a step. The President is reported to have favored it from the first, believing that there would be no doubt as to the result if he spoke in such terms.

The appeal was issued, and an immediate and severe reaction was the result. Had other counsels prevailed it would have been withheld, but the three-man rule had its way. At that time there was in Washington what was known as the Supreme War Council, a sort of super cabinet. McCormick was a member and so were several other Democrats.

Hoover was known to be a Republican. He had always been a Republican in his leanings. He was a Republican then, just as he is a Republican now where the big principles of Government are involved.

When the reaction from the President's appeal reached proportions where it obviously threatened to defeat return of Democratic Congress there was a getting together of heads. Reports were coming in from many sections that a desperate situation had been created, and that unless something was done to turn back the tide a Republican Senate might even be elected. Democratic leaders who scoffed at such predictions before the Wilson appeal was made began to worry, and at last admit that such might be the case.

Hoover's Approval Sought.

It was at this juncture that Hoover's approval of the President's appeal was sought. It is understood that Vance McCormick spent almost an entire day at the Food Administration office in Washington urging upon Mr. Hoover and his advisers the necessity of a Democratic Congress, and that it was his duty in the interests of world affairs to indorse such a plea. Other leaders are said to have communicated with him. It was believed that the indorsement of Hoover, spoken of then as the best-known man in the nation, barring possibly President Wilson, would stave off defeat. It was felt that the combination of Wilson and Hoover at the moment when America was about to insure victory in the World War, was unbeatable before the people.

Hoover was intensely bound up in the subject of doing what he at heart felt was best for the peoples of the world. He had seen terrible suffering abroad and could grasp the dangers of a partisan fight at home which might delay giving relief when the war ended. At any rate Hoover, a Republican, whom many believed even then had his eye on the White House, capitulated after several hours of such argument and indorsed the Wilson plea, an indorsement which his opponents say may now have historic consequences.

At the time it was predicted by many that if Hoover ever attempted to run for President as a Republican his action would be brought forward to harass him.

The Hoover boom has not had time here to gain its real foothold but that it will develop great strength is unquestioned. Some political strategists in Chicago are predicting that he will beat Johnson in California. The Hoover vote in the Michigan primaries Monday, where his name is on both tickets, is being awaited with impatience. Wood leaders are asserting that Hoover's candidacy will aid them by helping to overthrow Senator Johnson. The Hoover fight will be on in earnest after the Michigan primaries are out of the way.

Governor Made Rent Bills Law at 12:01 A. M. Yesterday

ALBANY, April 1.—Governor Smith today signed ten rent relief bills passed by the Legislature yesterday. The laws became effective at one minute after midnight this morning, the Governor said.

Senator Lockwood of Brooklyn will move next week to force out of committee his bill exempting from the provisions of the State income tax the income from real estate mortgages up to a total of $40,000 which are held by an individual.

HOOVER MEN PLAN NEW NATIONAL BODY

MAY FIGHT FOR DELEGATES

Encouraging California News Brings Hope for Victory Over Johnson There.

Advisability of replacing the Hoover National Republican Club by a stronger central organization and of making contests for delegates to the Republican national convention was discussed yesterday at a conference of supporters of Herbert Hoover. No decision was reached, but it was said that the organization of a national Hoover campaign committee within the next few days was probable.

Encouraging reports from California continued to come into the national Hoover headquarters and hope was expressed that Mr. Hoover might carry that State against Senator Hiram W. Johnson on the issue of the League of Nations. Messages from California were said to be to the effect that a strong sentiment for the league existed among Republicans there who condemned Senator Johnson's extreme opposition. The California situation was considered of particular importance by Mr. Hoover's backers, if Mr. Hoover should be able to get only part of the California delegation, it was said, he would increase greatly his chance for the nomination.

Mr. Hoover's friends say Senator Johnson's bitter opposition to their candidate, even to the point of threatening to run as a third party candidate, if Mr. Hoover should receive the nomination, is in accordance with his repeated assertion that he proposed to give the American people a chance to vote on the league. As Mr. Hoover's supporters are basing the hope of his nomination upon expectation of a deadlock at Chicago, anything that would diminish Senator Johnson's importance as a convention factor would increase the chance for the nomination of Mr. Hoover as a compromise candidate.

Word was received that a Hoover Club of 100 members had been formed at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y. A poll taken among the students of the University of Kansas was said to have shown a plurality of 200 for Mr. Hoover.

Watson Washburn, chairman of the Seventeenth Congressional District Committee, was chosen secretary of the Greater New York Hoover Committee, of which R. Fulton Cutting is chairman, at a meeting in the Hotel Manhattan. Mr. Cutting advocated the nomination of Mr. Hoover on the ground that he was the only Republican candidate mentioned who could hope to break into the Democratic Solid South.

Captain J. F. Lucey, temporary chairman of the Hoover National Republican Club, answering a charge from a rival political camp that Mr. Hoover's job in the war had been an easy one, said that the latter was the only administrator "who came through the war with credit to himself, to his country and to his associates."

JOHNSON CLOSES HIS TOUR.

Winding up his present campaign in New York State for support in his candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination, United States Senator Hiram W. Johnson spoke at two crowded meetings in Brooklyn last night. The first meeting was at the Academy of Music, the second at Independence Hall in East New York.

Senator Johnson directed his attack at both meetings upon the League of Nations and was applauded when he declared that it would be an issue in the Presidential campaign.

"There are certain gentlemen in both parties," he said, "who seem to be determined that this question shall not be a political issue before the American people. There are also certain gentlemen throughout the land shivering for fear the American people may decide this question. I am well aware that there are in New York City distinguished international bankers who are willing to decide this question for you.

"Of course it is an issue, and will be an issue in the present campaign. You cannot bury the American flag and have people walk over its grave without making an issue before the American people. It is no secret in Washington that some of us are determined that it shall go before the American people."

The Senator declared that America had never been isolated from the rest of the world except in a geographical sense.

CARPET MEN FOR WOOD.

They Climb on Chairs to Cheer His Name—Hoover Applauded.

At the annual dinner of the Carpet Manufacturers of America at the Waldorf last night, William Potter, former Ambassador to Italy, was applauded when he suggested Herbert Hoover for the Republican nomination for President. Shortly afterward William Sloane, toastmaster, read several letters of thanks and regret from men who had been asked to speak. Among these was a letter from General Leonard Wood. Scarcely had Mr. Sloane pronounced the General's name when the room echoed with tremendous applause. Men rose from their seats and some climbed on chairs, shouting and cheering. It was several minutes before the enthusiasm had subsided, although the toastmaster tried in vain to restore quiet sooner.

Mr. Potter eulogized Hoover as a man who stood for the backbone of the American people, not only in war, but also in peace.

ASSURE $700 RISE TO TEACHERS HERE

WILL COVER ENTIRE STATE

FINANCING ARRANGED

State to Lay Direct Tax to Raise $13,300,000 and Vote $5,500,000 More.

ALBANY, April 1.—Wage increases for teachers throughout the State have been tentatively agreed on by the legislative leaders who have been trying to solve the teachers' salary problem. Senator Sage, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, in a statement tonight promises the enactment of a measure which would "meet the situation temporarily." A State commission is to be named to study the whole question, not only from the standpoint of the State and the cities, but also from that of the teachers.

According to the tentative arrangements, a total of $28,800,000 is to be set aside by the State this year to aid to a great extent in meeting salary increases of teachers. Thirteen million three hundred thousand dollars is to be raised by a direct State tax on real estate, $5,500,000 is to be appropriated outright by the Legislature, and $11,000,000 is already available.

Of this total New York City will get $16,000,000. The city will have to contribute to meet the new schedules about $2,000,000 in addition to its present contributions for teachers' salaries.

The increases which have been tentatively agreed upon will be $700 for teachers in New York City, $600 in Rochester and Buffalo, the other first class cities in the State; $500 in second-class cities generally, $400 in third-class cities generally and $360 for teachers in union free school and other rural school districts.

The decision is a marked victory for the teachers who have besieged both houses of the Legislature during the last week. They left Albany tonight elated.

At first they asked for a flat increase of $200 a year. Then they jumped their demands to $400. Now they are to receive more than three times their original request.

Senator Sage's statement was in answer to a letter he received from a supporter of the teachers, assailing him for opposition to legislation increasing school salaries. The Senator argues against the Lockwood-Donahue bill, which would saddle on the State one-half of the cost of these salaries.

"It changes the policy of the State, which has always been to aid the schools by appropriating a fixed sum each year, known as teachers' quotas," he said. "This bill would compel the State to appropriate for one-half of all teachers' salaries, irrespective of what those salaries were. It would be impossible to tell from year to year what the necessary appropriations of the State would be. Having assumed that the State was responsible for a proportionate amount of the teachers' salaries, it would follow necessarily that when the cities decided the State should relieve them of the entire burden there would be no argument."

EDUCATION BOARD SEEKS WAGE PLAN

Opposing Lockwood-Donahue Bill, It Yet Favors Increases, President Says.

The Board of Education yesterday considered the report of its special committee on the shortage of teachers, and after long debate adopted it. The committee was continued, with instructions to ascertain the desirability and practicability of matters of school organization touched upon in its report. The City Superintendent of Schools and the Board of Superintendents were requested to co-operate with the committee in its efforts to bring about educational reform and retrenchment. A motion was adopted opposing the Lockwood-Donahue bill, increasing the salaries of teachers.

Anning S. Prall, President of the board, who had gone to Albany on Wednesday to present the board's views on the salary question, said that a conference between the representatives of the Mayors of different cities and the Board of Regents resulted in a decision not to support any of the educational bills now before the Legislature, but to appoint five persons from the Mayors' conference and five from the Legislature to go over the whole educational question and make a report to the Legislature in 1921.

The committee is of the opinion that it would be advisable to request the Board of Estimate to indicate to just what extent it is prepared to go in order to provide means to increase the salaries of teachers, with a view of checking the shortage and meeting the existing exigencies.

By direction of the Board of Education, President Prall issued a statement last night opposing the Lockwood-Donahue bill. He said he was quite sure that the public does not understand that the increases in the Lockwood-Donahue bill are far in excess of the present salaries paid, and that a bill passed last year, making increases possible in 1920, 1921 and 1922, has been changed so as to make the increases payable on and after June 1, instead of spreading the increases over a period of three years. He said the board was in favor of increasing the pay of practically all teachers, but not on the Lockwood-Donahue schedule.

BOWIE BUGLE CALL OPENS RACING YEAR

WINNER IS HOT FAVORITE

BOWIE, Md., April 1.—The curtain was lifted on the Eastern racing season here this afternoon before one of the largest crowds that ever turned out at the Prince George course and one which taxed the capacity of the inclosure. It was a truly representative gathering, and included horsemen from all parts of the country, besides the usual racegoers from Baltimore and Washington who had long hungered for the return of the sport. All of the special trains arriving from Washington and Baltimore were packed and the enthusiasm for racing was not dampened one whit by the fact that there were light showers during the day.

A very good card, which was well filled, had been arranged for the opening day, with the Inaugural Handicap, a seven-furlong dash, as the feature. This was captured by the Sunnyland Stable's Slippery Elm, a veteran campaigner, which ran a very clever race and handily took the measure of William Snea's Ormonda, with Romeo third, in a field of seven starters.

With the track faster than it ever was before, owing to recent improvements, the Inaugural attracted some of the very best performers in training here. Quite naturally, a majority of these were recruits from the Winter tracks, which fact added to the merits of the race, as the horses which have only recently come here from the South are in fine condition. Only two of the nine originally named were withdrawn. These were Bullet Proof and Fort Bliss, both of which accepted other engagements on the card.

Slippery Elm's victory was a decidedly popular one, as he had been made an odds-on favorite for the race, being backed down to 9 to 10 at post time. Slippery Elm is always a dangerous horse when in shape, and it was known that he had worked excellently for this test. Accordingly, there was such a rush of support for him that some of the other dangerous contenders, including Ormonda and the usually reliable Chief, were somewhat neglected. Ormonda was quoted at better than 3 to 1 at post time, according to the figures of the mutuel machines, while Chief was held in only slightly higher esteem. The latter had not raced for some time, and his race today indicated that he was not at his best, though lacking none of his usual courage.

There was some disappointment felt over the showing of Chief. He did not run to his best form at any time. He was slow to get away from the post and was badly outrun for the first half mile. He seemed to get into his stride as he was making the turn and began to move up on the leaders. From last place he moved into fourth and finished with such a rush that he would have been third in a few more strides. He was wearing down Romeo. Clean Gone, Bondage and Dixie Carroll were never contenders.

Withdrawing Bullet Proof from the Inaugural, S. A. Clopton dropped him into a spot where he found much easier opposition. This was the second race, at five and a half furlongs, known as the Prospect Purse and was for three-year-olds exclusively. Bullet Proof was easily the second best of the three-year-olds at New Orleans and he made a show of his field in the dash today. He romped home four lengths in front of Arrowhead, with Lady Brummel third.

French Soldiers Are Urged to Try for Olympic Team

PARIS, April 1.—The War Minister has officially designated May 9 as the date for the first elimination trials among the French athletes for the selection of a team to represent France at the Olympic games in Antwerp from among soldiers now doing military duty. The War Minister authorizes and urges all soldiers to enter the competitions to be held in all the military districts of France. The final events will take place at Strasburg, May 23 and 24. Athletes qualifying in the finals are to be sent to the Military Training School at Joinville, near Paris, where the final touches will be put on their training prior to their departure for Antwerp.

FORDHAM NINE GETS OFF TO POOR START

The Fordham baseball team lost its opening game of the season to the Boston College nine at Fordham Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 3 to 2. The cold weather proved detrimental to McNamara, Fordham's veteran twirler, and he did not pitch with his customary effectiveness. Although Fitzpatrick, the visitors' star boxman, was not in his usual good form, he managed to hold his opponents to seven scattered safeties.

The Bronx collegians got off to a good start and tallied in the initial frame. McLoughlin got a base on balls. He advanced to second on a passed ball, reached third on Halloran's sacrifice bunt, and completed the circuit on Keough's sacrifice fly to centre field. The Maroon nine scored again in the third round on Haley's error and a brace of singles after the visitors had tied the count in the first half of the same inning on a pair of singles and a wild pitch by MacNamara.

CORNELL HITS IN PINCHES.

WASHINGTON, April 1. — Cornell showed a real punch with men on bases in its opening game of the season this afternoon and defeated Georgetown University's nine, 5 to 4. Rickard was hit freely, but proved effective in tight spots. Cornell bunched hits on Hyman, Raymond Kellogg, who has had only two weeks of outdoor practice in which to get his charges in readiness, expects to present a formidable lineup for the Violet.

The Ithacans stepped to the fore at the start, when Bonagura's walk was followed by singles by Murphy, Davies and Cross, accounting for two runs. Cross's triple and Gilhooley's error gave Cornell another score in the fourth. Another stroll for Cross, Meyer's triple and Spiers two-sacker earned two markers, the last for the visitors, in the sixth inning.

RUTH CLEARS FENCE WITH MIGHTY BLOW

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 1.—The Yankee colossus of swat finally came into his own today. Babe Ruth leaned all of his bulk against a swing in the opening inning of the tilt with the Dodgers and knocked one of Al Mamaux's benders clean out of the lot. Incidentally the Yanks beat Brooklyn, 6 to 2.

Hitting a ball out of the lot here is a feat which could be done only by Ruth. No other man in baseball could have lifted a ball that far. The pellet cleared the centre field fence. Ruth drove one ball over this fence before, but it was in batting practice off De Vitalis, a youngster. That drive was measured as 428 feet.

Today's drive was not quite as long, measuring, perhaps, about 415 feet. The centre field bleachers on the Polo Ground are 385 feet from the home plate, so the fans can get some idea of how far this ball traveled. No one ever has driven a ball into the centre field bleachers in New York. Ruth's hit would have carried into those bleachers without any trouble.

Babe's homer came in the first inning, with Gleich on first, and started off the Yankees to a winning start. The Yanks are coming along much better now, and in beating Brooklyn won their third straight victory, including the Jubilee Day victory over the Reds here last Monday. The Brooklyn series now stands 5 to 2 in favor of the Dodgers.

In addition to hitting his homer Ruth also starred in the field. Babe pulled off two sensational catches, the first being one of the best seen here this season. Petey Kilduff gave the ball a terrible ride to right centre in the sixth inning and Ruth started after it. With his back to the stand Ruth made a forward lunge and caught the ball. The lunge threw him out of balance and he ran along about twenty-five yards before he could straighten up. Babe made another fine running catch on Clarence Mitchell in the succeeding inning.

The Yankee pitchers are beginning to come around now and Quinn and Collins held the Dodgers to four hits. Both Brooklyn runs resulted from poor plays by the Yanks, but on the whole the Yankees fielded well.

Next to Ruth, Frank Gleich, the young outfielder, stood out. Huggins had him in left, in place of Duffy Lewis, who took the day off. Gleich hit a double and a single and was hit by the pitcher in four times up, scored two runs and drove in two and also made a fine running catch on Konetchy. Mamaux opened for the Dodgers and the Yankees clubbed him lustily.

In the ninth Zach Wheat walked, took second on an out and scored when Peck made a three-base wild throw on Kilduff.

Joe Kelly, scout for the Yankees, has gone to Nashville to talk over a trade with Ed Barrow, manager of the Red Sox. Barrow has sent numerous wires here making propositions and Kelly has been sent to talk things over with Barrow and bring back his offer. Barrow wants Ping Bodie and pitchers. The hope here is that Yawkey would like to make a deal for Schang, the catcher.

A telegram from Baltimore said that Wilson Fewster was making fine progress and showing no bad results from his operation. However, it is unlikely that he will join the club for a month.

RAIN KEEPS GIANTS IDLE.

JACKSON, Tenn., April 1. — Rain again prevented the Giants and the Red Sox from mingling today and an early start was made for Nashville, which will be reached tonight.

The enforced cancellation of today's game was a bitter disappointment to the baseball fanciers of this town. Jackson is not on the beaten trail followed by major league clubs and a game between two big team outfits was eagerly anticipated. The town authorities had decreed a half-holiday and the game would have drawn well.

Ed Barrow had counted on starting Joe Bush or Harry Harper, who joined his club as per schedule at Memphis yesterday, in today's game in the hope that the tide of battle might be turned in favor of the Sox. Both seem to be in shape and each declares that the other is in great form. The Giants will soon disclose just how far these young men have progressed in their training.

Injured Athlete May Ask Waiver of Olympic Trials

WASHINGTON, April 1. — Robert Le Gendre of Georgetown University, pentathlon champion of America and winner of that competition in the inter-allied games, who broke the fibula in his right leg in practice Monday, will be able to compete in the Olympic Games, providing that the committee will waive his competing in preliminary trials. Coach John O'Reilly of the Georgetown track team said today that Le Gendre would be able to start light work within six weeks, but that he would not be at his best when the Olympic preliminary trials were held in June. As Le Gendre is certain to win in this section O'Reilly is hoping that the committee will qualify the athlete for the finals in July or name him for the Olympic team on his past performances, which he holds would warrant such action.

GEORGETOWN FINDS BLUE TEAM GREEN

Yale Nine Proves Not Yet in Form and Is Easy Prey in First Game by 8 to 1.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Georgetown battered two Yale pitchers and defeated the blue nine here this morning, 8 to 1, in a game called on account of rain after the visitors had batted in the seventh.

Georgetown got one in the first and had three left, on a hit batsman, a sacrifice, a fielder's choice, a pass and a hit. Two hits and a sacrifice added one in the fourth. A pass, a sacrifice and a hit manufactured another in the fifth.

Coxe was hammered for five hits and as many runs in the sixth. Three singles, two doubles, a pass and two errors doing the damage.

RICHARDS TO PLAY TILDEN FOR TITLE

CHAMPION AN EASY VICTOR

Defeats the Veteran Hardy Readily, but Tilden Has Trouble in Vanquishing Botsford.

Vincent Richards and William T. Tilden, 2d, who fought for the national indoor tennis championship last Winter, with the former winning a historic victory, will face each other again in the final round of the same event at the Seventh Regiment Armory tomorrow morning, both having won their semi-final matches in straight sets yesterday afternoon. The champion romped through two one-sided sessions at 6—1 against the veteran Samuel Hardy, but Tilden had a harder time eliminating young Willard Botsford, who carried the second set to deuce games, after rolling up a big lead.

The two survivors of the singles are also in the final round of the doubles, in partnership, after a strenuous battle with Fred C. Anderson and Ben Letson yesterday, in which they lost their first set of the tournament, individually and collectively. In the upper half the semi-final match remains to be played at 2:30 this afternoon, Wylie C. Grant and G. Carlton Shafer, twice champion in the past, meeting Samuel Hardy and S. Howard Voshell, a new but strong combination.

Of the two semi-finals of the singles yesterday the Tilden-Botsford struggle was the more interesting. After losing the opening set at 6—1, the youngster put up a splendid defensive battle against his experienced opponent, carrying the games to 4—1, by breaking through Tilden's service three times in succession, and again taking the lead at 5—4 after the second ranking player had caught up by the most brilliant and desperate tennis.

Botsford made some astonishing recoveries in this session, and seemed able to cover his whole court, no matter how accurately his rival placed the ball nor how hard he hit it. Tilden, who was inclined to be wild in his driving and overhead smashing at best, almost went to pieces in the face of this amazingly steady defense, and threw away a number of valuable points, which he made good only by the hardest work. The loser weakened under the strain toward the finish, and hastened his own defeat with some glaring errors. But for half a dozen games he looked almost unbeatable.

The score by points:

								Total Pts.	G.
Tilden	5	4	8	5	4	7	4—37		6

Richards proved in the first few games that Hardy was no match for him, and, after he had twice broken through the veteran's service, the result was a foregone conclusion. Hardy seemed weary and slow of foot after his strenuous matches of the earlier rounds, and the champion was placing so accurately that most of his shots were scarcely worth going after. The youngster did not even use his irresistible volleying game in a majority of the rallies, staying deliberately in the back of the court, and trying out his ground-strokes with consistent success. Hardy made enough errors to keep his rival out of danger at all times, and never seriously threatened even a temporary spurt.

Five Games Straight.

The titleholder rushed ahead for five more games in the second set before Hardy scored again, the veteran mixing a good smash with three more errors for his only tally. The final game was hard fought, a double fault helping Hardy to carry the points to deuce. But two terrific smashes brought up the match point, and it was all over when Hardy hit the next one out. The score by points was as follows:

Play was resumed yesterday in the annual 18.2 balkline billiard handicap tournament for the J. F. Poggenberg Cup at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn. Charley White, the Class A player, who won the event last year, was called into action for the first time. He was not compelled to play through the preliminary rounds. White met George Spear, the Class C player who won the tourney in 1918. Because of the difference in their rating in the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players, White had to concede a handicap of 135 points to Spear. In other words, White had to play for a total of 250 points while Spear played for 115. The match resulted in a victory for Spear by a score of 115 to 97, the winner beating his opponent of higher rating better than even up. In the evening match Frank W. Boyd and John Low locked cues. Both are Class C players and they battled on even terms, each playing for 115 points. Boyd won, 115 to 48.

As the result of this victory Boyd advanced to a tie for first place in the final round of the tournament with Robert Steinbugler. Each of these players has won two games and has not been defeated.

Joseph Cosgrove of this city is the new national three-cushion champion of the American Amateur Billiard Association. At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the association held at Joe Thum's Academy last night, where the tournament has been in progress for nearly three weeks, it was officially decided to award the title to Cosgrove. This action was taken when it was learned that Joseph Primakow, who was tied with Cosgrove for the lead and who was scheduled to play the deciding game of the tourney on Wednesday night, would be unable to return to this city from Chicago for several days. The committee then decided to declare his match with Cosgrove forfeited.

At the same time, however, the committee decided to give Primakow a week's time in which to come here and play off the tie for second place which now exists between him and William Blumenthal. If Primakow is unable to make arrangements to do this by April 8, the game will also be declared forfeit and second place will be awarded to Blumenthal. Under this arrangement Primakow cannot possibly finish worse than third in the standing.

Cosgrove can be classed as a veteran three-cushion player. Last year he competed in the national tournament and finished second to Scoville, who won the A. A. B. A. title. At that time, however, Cosgrove showed marked ability and this year his playing was just as impressive. He suffered but one defeat, and that was administered by Blumenthal.

The last of the regularly scheduled games in the tournament was played at Thum's last night. Henry Frisch, who earlier in the week had been the cause of eliminating Blumenthal from the three-handed tie for first place, met Chris Maxwell. Frisch won and finished his schedule in a tie with Henry Frantzen for fourth place.

The match between Frisch and Maxwell was excellently played and was productive of some very interesting three-cushion billiards. The final score was Frisch, 50; Maxwell, 32. The game was played in 81 innings and the fact that it did not consume more rounds is proof conclusive that neither player resorted to much safety play.

SUTTON DEFEATS CUTLER.

They have agreed to play 600 points and last night was the first block they have played on Washington Heights. Sutton won by a score of 300 to 164. Sutton's best run was a collection of 171 points. He averaged 33 3-9. Cutler's best run was an even 100 and he averaged 20 4-8.

The schedule of the Harvard Gun Club will include shoots with Yale on May 1 and May 8, and the intercollegiate shoot at New Haven on Saturday, May 22.

PENDLETON WINS WRESTLING TITLE

Nat G. Pendleton of the New York A. C., former intercollegiate wrestling champion, proved himself the best of a quartet of contenders for the metropolitan heavyweight wrestling title last night and won the championship by throwing his opponents in both the semi-final and final bouts. The matches, which were held at the New York A. C., decided the metropolitan honors in four classes—125-pound, 145-pound, 158-pound and the heavyweight.

Pendleton, who was Captain of the wrestling team at Columbia not so many years ago, had a comparatively easy time with both his rivals for the heavyweight title. In his semi-final tussle he pinned V. Kivi of the Finnish-American A. C. to the mat with a bar hold after three minutes of grappling. In the final encounter he faced Karl Leppanan, also of the Finnish-American A. C., and only slightly more than nine of the allotted fifteen minutes were necessary before Leppanan succumbed to a double arm lock.

In the other three classes a trio of title holders defended their honors, and only one of them, Apostolos Dialetis of the Greek-American A. C., met with disaster. The Greek successfully threaded his way through the 125-pound semi-finals, but encountered unexpected opposition in the final match, in which he met Constantine Mullinos, a columbate and the 1918 champion at the weight. It was a case of Greek meeting Greek, and the issue hung in the balance for the full fifteen minutes before Referee John Lee gave the decision to Mullinos. The winner had been on the aggressive most of the time and wriggled out of the few dangerous situations he found himself in. The bell saved Dialetis in the last minute, when Mullinos had both his opponent's shoulders nearly touching.

Karl Tika, the metropolitan 145-pound champion, who wrestled under the colors of the Finnish-American A. C., retained his title without being extended. He threw Karl Liljehult of the Bronx Church House in double-quick time, employing a double arm lock. In the 158-pound class E. Lenio, the title holder, required six minutes and fourteen seconds to down A. Frantz of the New York A. C. with a body hold and wrist lock.

125-Pound Class, Semi-finals—A. Dialetis, Greek-American A. C., won from J. Celmar, Bronx Union Y. M. C. A., on decision. Time—10:00. C. Mullinos, Greek-American A. C., won from H. Juenge, National Turners, by forfeiture. Time—5:00. Finals—Mullinos won from Dialetis, on decision. Time—15:00.

Schuszler, Hungarian-American A. C., on decision. Time—10:00. Final—Tika threw Liljehult with double arm lock. Time—1:44.

ZBYSZKO REFUSES VICTORY.

After his opponent had been disabled and prevented from continuing, Stanislaus Zbyszko, the giant Polish heavyweight wrestler, last night refused to accept the referee's decision of victory in his favor. John Freiburg of Chicago, who recently returned to this country, was the rival of the Pole, and after the bout Zbyszko declared that Freiburg was "the best man" he had met since his resumption of wrestling.

The match, which was held under the direction of the Viking Sporting Club, Prospect Hall, Brooklyn, had continued for 1 hour 19 minutes and 14 seconds without a fall when Freiburg was thrown heavily near the side of the platform. In toppling his head struck the bare floor near the edge of the mat and he was unable to continue, it was said.

Zbyszko announced his willingness to meet the Chicagoan again as soon as the latter had fully recovered from his injuries.

GREAT ROUND GIVES ADAIR GOLF MEDAL

PINEHURST, N. C., April 1.—Perry Adair of the Druid Hill Golf Club, Atlanta, won the qualifying medal in the North and South amateur championship tournament at Pinehurst today with a total of 76—72, 148 for the two days of play. The Atlanta youngster finished a stroke under the top trio last night, but his fine round of 35—37, 72 over the difficult No. 3 course today gave him a lead of four clear strokes over the nearest man in the largest and fastest field that has ever taken part in this event.

Sam Graham of Greenwich, Jim Standish of Detroit and F. C. Newton of Brookline, who were tied for the lead last night at 75, and Francis Ouimet, who was tied with Adair at 76, took up positions behind Adair. Graham had a 77 and took second honors at 152 for the two rounds. Standish turned in a 78 and occupied third place with a total of 153. Newton indulged in an 82 and finished at 157, a stroke behind Ouimet, whose total for the two days was 76—80, 156.

Ouimet's 80 today was the direct result of taking 25 strokes to play four of the holes on his round. He got into the rough on his way to the second, third, sixteenth and eighteenth holes on the No. 3 course and had a lot of trouble on each occasion. This cost him a seven on the second hole and sixes on the other three. Aside from these little lapses Ouimet played remarkably fine golf and gathered in three exceptionally fine birdies in the course of the round.

Ellsworth Augustus, the young Clevelander who has been winning laurels in Florida recently, also indulged in a poor round today and just managed to squeeze into the championship sixteen with a score of 79—85—164.

Albert J. Mendes of Siwanoy, who won the medal last year with 160, yanked himself into the top sixteen today by going over the course in 38—37—75, after taking 87 for yesterday's round on Course No. 2. Next to Adair's fine 72, Mendes's 75 was the best round of the day.

Adair would have gone out in 34 today if he had not elected to miss an 18-inch putt on the third green. Coming in, he took 3 putts from the edge of the green at the twelfth and another 3 putts to go down at the fourteenth, but with these small exceptions he played superb golf from start to finish and wound up by sinking a ten-foot putt for a birdie 3 at the eighteenth, which is one of the hardest par four holes on the course.

Perry Adair, Druid Hills, 76, 72—148; Sam J. Graham, Greenwich, 75, 77—152; J. D. Standish, Detroit, 75, 78—153; Harold Weber, Inverness, 78, 76—154; Francis Ouimet, Woodland, 76, 80—156; F. C. GOLFERS TO OFFER RULES SUGGESTIONS

Sectional Associations Will Be Asked to Send Delegates to Conference Here.

Golfers throughout the country will have the opportunity this month to present their views on proposed changes in the game. A meeting yesterday in this city of the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association resulted in a decision to ask sectional golf associations to send representatives to a conference on rules, which will be held on Friday, April 30, at Delmonico's. The hour is set at 1 o'clock. At that time the recently appointed Rules of Golf Committee will meet the representatives, receive proposals, suggestions and advice and discuss fully the attitude the Americans will take when they meet the English rule makers in Scotland this Spring.

Golf associations in the East are expected to send several delegates, and it is expected that even the distant Western and Southern bodies will have at least one representative. The Professional Golfers' Association of America has been asked to send three members.

It is doubtful if any official vote can be taken, but the five U. S. G. A. officials who go abroad will be fortified with various expressions of opinion and will be enabled to gauge views on proposed changes. In the case of the Metropolitan Golf Association, its Secretary, A. H. Pogson, said last night that it was improbable that a meeting of the body would be called. The delegates to the conferences will, therefore, speak merely as individuals. He suggested that some associations might learn by a mail vote the official views of various clubs holding membership. Even in individual golf and country clubs it would be difficult to assemble a representative number of members and learn the opinions of players on such proposals as the standard ball, the stymie and the lost ball rule.

Speaking as an individual linksman, and not as an official of the M. G. A., Mr. Pogson last night expressed what is probably the opinion of the majority of players. He opposes a standard ball on the grounds that it is impractical and too much of a restriction on a golfer's liberty. As for the stymie, Mr. Pogson said it was practically never played except in tournaments.

"Golfers who play an informal round on an afternoon after business," declared Mr. Pogson, "invariably pick up without a word, for the stymie is played so seldom that the opponent's permission is hardly necessary." As for the lost ball penalty, he believes that most linksmen agree it is too severe. A ball may be lost on the course, yet the player is penalized more than if he had sliced his drive over a fence and far out of bounds.

Mr. Pogson did declare, however, that one of the many proposals for an amendment on the present stymie rule had found favor in some golfing circles. This change would allow the player whose ball was away to concede the putt to his opponent or play the stymie. Naturally, if the interfering ball were one foot from the cup, the putt would be conceded, but if eight or ten feet from the hole there would be an inclination to play the stymie.

The Rules of Golf Committee will sail May 22 on the Caronia for England, stopping first at London for a conference with A. C. Croome, Chairman of the British sub-committee, and then proceeding to St. Andrew's for the official joint meeting. The five Americans will be George H. Walker, President of the U. S. G. A.; Howard F. Whitney and J. F. Byers, Vice Presidents; Frederick S. Wheeler, former President, and Robert A. Gardner, former champion, who is to play in the British amateur championship at Muirfield early in June.

BURGLAR INSURANCE RATES MOUNT 25%

Failure of the police of this city and other places in New York State, New Jersey and Connecticut to check robberies has sent burglary insurance rates mounting. It became known yesterday that insurance underwriters at a meeting held behind closed doors on Wednesday night voted to increase immediately the rates in New York City twenty-five per cent and in other nearby territories thirty-five per cent. These rates, which apply to policies of all amounts, affect new applications and renewals.

Officials of insurance companies freely predicted that further increases might be expected unless the number of claims against them, which have been growing every month, was lessened. They generally agreed that the burglary departments could not continue to exist profitably at the old rates. Several officials reported that they already were running at a loss.

When asked if the prevalence of crime here and elsewhere was not the chief reason for the increased rates, many insurance heads were reluctant to admit it, attributing the cause to the heavy cost of indemnifying policy holders for loss of goods at the present prices of the articles. One official explained that he did not care to state publicly that the increase in robberies caused the advances in rates, as the Insurance companies had to work with the police in endeavoring to recover stolen property. He doubted the expendiency of criticising the authorities, he said, even though he thought they deserved it.

Other insurance heads were more outspoken. Superintendent Rooney of the Maryland Casualty Company, at 105 William Street, declared that loft robberies and pilfering of homes had not decreased, and the companies were compelled to take action to meet such a situation.

"In the loft districts the robberies continue unabated, and thieves are breaking into homes both in this city and other places," Mr. Rooney said. "This has continued for many months, and the insurance companies had to take cognizance of the amount of claims piling up against them.

W. J. McCarthy, superintendent of the Burglary Insurance Department of the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, 84 William Street, said that the twenty per cent. increase on policies under $2,000, which went into effect in December, was found to be inadequate to meet conditions.

At the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance Company, 16 Liberty Street, one of the executives believed that policy holders would be asked to pay even higher rates unless the number of burglaries were decreased in the near future.

SEEK REIMBURSEMENT OF $5,000,000 FOR GRAIN

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Grain dealers from Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri and Illinois appealed today to the House Agricultural Committee for legislation to reimburse them for losses claimed to aggregate $5,000,000 in 1917, due to the fact that the price of wheat was fixed at 60 cents less than the current market price.

Herbert Hoover, former Food Administrator and Julius Barnes, President of the Government Grain Corporation, were declared by the dealers to be responsible for the losses.

"We used every diligence to find out the attitude of the Grain Corporation and the Food Administratio,n but got little information," declared B. E. Clements, President of the Texas Grain Dealers' Association, and spokesman for the dealers from the six States.

"We were told that there was no authority for fixing the price, but after it was fixed we were told that we ought to have known that they were going to fix the price.

"Congress would never have enacted the food control law if it knew that price fixing was planned," he added.

Mr. Clements said the grain dealers had vainly asked an indorsement of their proposal by Mr. Barnes, who told them that they "ought to have known" that a price was to have been fixed by the Government.

"We showed him letters from Mr. Hoover and from his own office to the contrary," continued Mr. Clements, "and he intimated that we ought not to have believed them."

"But you did rely on their statements," asked Representative McLaughlin, Republican, of Nebraska.

Lee G. Metcalf, representing the Illinois Grain Dealers' Association, said that if there was ever another grain corporation when he was buying grain he would "get a ouija board."

E. J. Smiley, representing Kansas and Nebraska dealers, declared that Mr. Hoover's announcement in August, 1917, of a necessity to reduce the price of bread grains was "infamous."

No action was taken by the committee.

The Sinking Fund Commission yesterday authorized John H. Delaney, Transit Construction Commissioner, to sell at auction the site of the old Grand Union Hotel, Park Avenue and Forty-second Street. The commission fixed a minimum price of $2,800,000. The date of the sale has not been set. A number of competitors in the bidding, including several hotel interests and the Victory Hall Association, are expected.

A syndicate headed by Sheriff David H. Knott is understood to be contemplating an offer. General T. Coleman du Pont, owner of the Hotel McAlpin, and August Heckscher were also said to be among the prospective bidders. Mr. Heckscher with the idea of constructing an office building. It was said to be likely that John McE. Bowman, already interested in hotels in the neighborhood, would be a bidder.

General George W. Wingate, head of the Victory Hall Association, said the organization would make an offer if sufficient time to raise funds was allowed. A bill is now pending in the Legislature empowering the association to obtain a site for its proposed war memorial by condemnation. It is opposed by the city administration.

The city acquired the property by purchase in order to construct the Lexington Avenue subway beneath the old hotel structure.

Seize Apricot Brandy Still.

A large illicit still for making apricot brandy was found, according to the police, when the home of John Ampolkic at 130 President Street, Passaic, N. J., was raided at midnight Wednesday. Seven barrels of the product were found in the house. Joseph Kokan, living in the same house with Ampolkic, was arrested with him.

CONFEREES CONSIDER RAISING BONUS REVENUE

Senate and House Republicans Fail to Reach Decision, but Admit Bonus Must Be Paid.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Various means for raising revenue to pay a bonus to American veterans of the World War were seriously considered today by Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee.

The whole situation with respect to taxes was gone over, and many suggestions for eliminating the excess profits tax, for changing administration provisions of the revenue law, and for providing revenue for a bonus were taken up.

Elimination of the excess profits tax or reduction of the taxes in any way at this time was out of the question, the conferees agreed.

House members suggested that a sales tax of 1 per cent. on all sales to consumers be applied as a means of raising the revenue needed to pay the bonuses to the service men. This tax would raise, it was estimated, about $1,500,000,000. Members said they thought the bonus might be kept within that figure, though it has been estimated that the American Legion Bonus bill, now before the House, would cost $2,600,000,000.

The conferees decided that the two committees should work separately on the bonus problem, with frequent joint conferences in the near future.

DISCUSS WOODPULP DEARTH

Importers Decide to Investigate Scandinavian Shortage.

An impending shortage in the supplies of chemical woodpulp, which threatens to bring about a continuous rise in the cost of newsprint paper at least until July 1, was discussed yesterday morning at a meeting of the Association of American Woodpulp Importers at a meeting at the Uptown Club. Reports were discussed to the effect that the Scandinavian countries, and principally Sweden, which have been shipping 125,000 tons of chemical woodpulp to this country each year, were now sold out. It finally was decided that representatives of the association should go to Scandinavia in the near future to investigate this alleged shortage.

In Scandinavian countries about 700,000 tons of chemical woodpulp is manufactured each year and, exclusive of the exports to America, practically the bulk of it goes to Europeans. With the Scandinavian supplies now reported to be sold out, the Association of American Woodpulp Importers are agreed in the belief that there will be a continuous rise in the prices, which are now higher than they were during the war's price peak. Unbleached chemical woodpulp or sulphide, as it is called among the trade, is selling for seven cents a pound as compared with two cents a pound before the war and six cents during that period of the war when prices were at their highest.

It was said that the Canadian supplies were sold out and the stocks of woodpulp in the United States likewise had been sold at prices which could not now be duplicated. The shortage has been caused by the vast increase in the sizes of periodicals which, in turn, has been brought about by the extensive use of advertising space. According to L. W. Bowmall, Secretary of the Association of American Woodpulp Importers, immense quantities of advertising are being paid for in an effort to escape the excess profits tax.

Another matter taken up at the meeting was the question of uniform contracts to be used in the trade between the Scandinavian maufacturers and the American buyers. The association has been working on plans for such a contract for the last two years, but little progress was made during the war.

ALBANY, April 1.—The Senate today confirmed Governor Smith's nominations of Corporation Counsel William P. Burr of New York City to be a Justice of the Supreme Court, succeeding the late Justice Edward A. Philbin, and of George R. Van Namee of Watertown, secretary to the Governor, to succeed Thomas F. Fennell of Elmira as a member of the up-State Public Service Commission..

Governor Smith announced the appointment of Jeremiah F. Connor of Oneida as his secretary at $7,000 a year.

Mr. Connor, a lawyer, was one of the special Commissioners which investigated the administration of the State Industrial Commission, has been a Deputy Attorney General, and was counsel to the Conservation Commission and to the Workmen's Compensation Commission and the State Department of Labor from 1913 to 1916.

To Aid Home for Legion Post.

Barbara Frietchie Post, No. 43, of the American Legion, numbering more than a thousand members, contemplates building a home and club for business and social events and to provide accommodations for homeless girls connected with the army and navy. To further this plan an orchestral concert will be held at the Morosco Theatre on Sunday evening, April 18, at which Emma R. Steiner, veteran American woman operatic and orchestral conductor, whose father was Barbara Frietchie's second cousin, will direct thirty-three members of the Metropolitan Orchestra, with a program of her own compositions.

LOW PAY ENDANGERS CITY'S HEALTH WORK

Dr. Copeland Says Death Rate Decline May Stop if Exodus Is Unchecked.

EXPERTS FAST DESERTING

Experts are quitting Health Department posts for better paid private employment at such an alarming rate that unless salaries are raised sufficiently to check the exodus the welfare of the community will be menaced, according to Health Commissioner Copeland.

Discussing this situation yesterday, Dr. Copeland said resignations were being received at the rate of more than one a day. He told of some men getting far larger compensation in private industry than they could hope for from the city, and while he did not say just what specific increases he advocated, he asserted that the steady decline in the death rate brought about by departmental activities for many years might suffer a sudden check unless properly trained men could be enlisted to carry on the technical work of the bureaus.

Dr. Copeland contrasted the pay of some such trained men with that received by ordinary patrolmen, without any intent to decry the compensation of the policemen.

"In the Bureau of Food and Drugs," said Dr. Copeland, "twenty-six men have been engaged in milk inspection both here and in the country districts. Of this number nine have resigned during the last year, representing about 34 per cent. Of 117 inspectors in this bureau, thirteen have resigned during the year. To one man receiving a salary of $1,560 a year a position paying $70 a week or $3,600 a year has been offered. The bureau employs chemists and three have resigned during the last three months. One position in this bureau has remained unfilled during the last year. It pays a salary of $1,220 a year. The bureau is operating on about 60 per cent. of its regular force. Of six veterinarians employed by the bureau, three—50 per cent.—have resigned in the last six months.

Gen. Harris's Will Omits His Son.

Its omission of reference to his son, Henry L., Jr., of Scranton, Pa., was a feature of the will of the late Brigadier General Henry L. Harris, offered for probate here yesterday. Pictures, jewelry and other personal effects are divided between his daughters, Dora Harris Cox of West Orange, N. J., and Emily Harris Dodd, of Vevy, Switzerland. His children also divide the estate left to him by his deceased wife. His housekeeper, Maria Campanello, gets $500, and a $1,000 Liberty Bond is given to Douglas F. Cox, broker, of 3 South William Street. The residue is for his daughter, Mrs. Dodd.

Linoleum Prices Unchanged.

Linoleum openings for the coming Fall season, as such, will not be made formally this year, due to the general scarcity of merchandise to sell and the difficulties with which deliveries are being made. Prices for the period beginning today and running until June 30, inclusive, will be the same as those quoted during the first quarter of the year, so far as lines made by the leading manufacturers are concerned. This will be true of the products of the Nairn Linoleum Company, Thomas Potter Sons & Company, the Armstrong Cork Company, &c. One of the chief hardships of the manufacturers, from the production point of view, is the irregularity of deliveries of wide burlaps, for backing purposes, from the Dundee market.

Carpet and Rug Buyers Here.

Carpet and rug buyers from all parts of the country were in this market yesterday for the opening of the Fall season. Buyers seemed satisfied with prices for the most part, but buying, because much of the available production of the mills had been allotted or bought tentatively in advance, was much less active than is the case on the opening date of a normal season. Prices were made by Stephen Sanford & Sons, Inc., that showed advances of 10 to 15 per cent. over those named on Jan. 1, and 15 to 20 per cent. over those made at the opening of the Spring season six months ago. The new prices cover deliveries up to July 1. The prices made by M. J. Whittall Associates are up 10 to 15 per cent. over recent levels. From the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet Company came the information that they would probably make their prices on Monday. The Fall prices of the Willow Grass Rug Company, whose products are sold through the wholesale department of W. & J. Sloane, show average advances of 10 per cent. over opening Spring quotations and 7½ per cent. over those last prevailing.

Printcloths Again Prominent.

Printcloths again were the centre of attraction in the local gray goods market yesterday. Buyers paid 25 cents for spot deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s, and they also bought May goods of that construction at half a cent less. Spot business was put through on 39 inch 68-72s at 26½ cents, and April deliveries of 72-76s in that width brought 29½ cents. Spot lots of 38½-inch 60-48s were disposed of at 23½ cents. Sheetings, fine yarn cloths and specialties were featureless, although in the last-named there were sales of 39-inch 64-104, 4.20-yard sateens, for this month's delivery, at 42 cents.

Dresses for Latin-America.

Retail merchants in Latin-America are responding well to offerings of American ready-to-wear garments, according to a statement issued yesterday by the Associated Dress Industries of America. The Export Bureau of the association reports numerous inquiries from that part of the world, especially from Argentina. Cuban merchants are also asking for American dresses. Medium-priced merchandise is the most wanted, and satin dresses are in high favor. Domestic reports recently received by the association say that business is the most active in theMiddle and Far Western section of the country.

Support Peace Resolution.

The resolution introduced into Congress to declare the state of war with Germany at an end has the warm support of retailers throughout the country because in it they see, it is said, the passing of the Lever profiteering act. The latter operates only during the wartime period. The National Garment Retailers' Association has called this fact to the attention of members in urging them to have their Representatives in Congress pass the peace resolution. Besides interesting its membership in the resolution, the retailers' association has sent telegrams to Chambers of Commerce and other trade bodies asking that the measure be supported. "As far as the retailer is concerned," the association bulletin to members reads, "the fearful ghost is the Lever Profiteering Act. That piece of legislation is the most iniquitous and unjust tha has ever been saddled on American business. Remember the Lever Act is a war measure and will immediately cease to exist with the declaration of peace."

Becomes Research Director.

Arthur Freeman, for four years advertising and sales director of Gimbel Brothers, has been appointed managing director in New York for the group of retail stores with which R. Sadowsky is identified. The announcement of his appointment was made yesterday by Victor Sincere, of the Bailey Company of Cleveland, who is Chairman of the Executive Committee of the store group, which will benefit through mutual research work and combined buying. There are thirteen prominent stores in the chain. The temporary offices of the organization will be located in the Hobart Building, Broadway and Thirty-seventh Street. The resident buying offices of the respective stores will be retained. Mr. Freeman will continue as President of Einson Litho., Inc., but will act for that concern merely in an advisory capacity.

Better Feeling in Garment Line.

Feeling in the garment clothing trades is once again somewhere near par as a result of the improved weather. While the manufacturers do not find any great activity in the way of reorders, nevertheless the reports they get from the retailers are more encouraging than they have been. In both the men's and the women's wear lines the wholesalers seem to have become reconciled to the policy of retailers, which calls for more conservative operation. General conditions are considered good, though the smaller retail stores are carrying somewhat heavier stocks than usual. This, however, is balanced by the condition of the larger stores, which are operating on very light stocks.

Forced to Cancel.

In many cases coming to their attention, sellers of woolens in the primary market are finding that cancellations are due, not to the lack of a demand for the goods refused, but because certain buyers are unable to finance full purchases. In one case related, a buyer so described his reason for cancelling, and admitted he would probably pay a good deal more for the goods he let go when it became necessary for him to have them. "But it's simply a case of my paying more for the goods six months from now or else taking them now and not being able to meet the bill when it comes due," he said. "I can't get the money now."

Firmer Toward Labor.

In the opinion of a representative manufacturer who has served on many arbitration boards in the needle trade, it will be some time before the employers will again bring their labor differences before a public tribunal for settlement. Women are now set against high prices, he explained, and yet at the same time their representatives decided that the workers should get more money. He referred to the decision of the Governor's Commission which ordered a 15 per cent. increase for the garment operatives. With this feeling among the garment manufacturers, there is a similar spirit among the clothiers, whose customers refuse to pay higher prices that are due to increases paid to the labor in the industry. Rumors are current in the clothing trade that a lockout may follow any attempt to boost wages on the termination of the present agreement.

Fine Japanese Silks Go Up.

The Yokohama raw silk market has advanced 80 to 100 yen per picul since last week on renewed demand for American account, particularly in the higher grades. Business is hampered, according to cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co., by the paucity of stocks. Sinshiu No. 1 is quoted at 3,840 yen and stocks on hand amount to 12,000 bales. Last year at this time available supplies amounted to 20,200 bales. The tone of the Canton market is improving and prices have been strengthened by an advance in silver exchange. The market at Shanghai continues dull and unchanged. The Milan market is more active for Lyons account, with prices nominally at 550 lire for extra classical for single weaving. American buyers are not interested in those sorts. The demand in the local market is improving and prices are advancing all along the line. The bullish tone at Yokohama is helping to strengthen things here.

SEES HIGHER FARE MOVE.

Mayor Writes the Corporation Counsel and Legislators.

Mayor Hylan sent a letter to Corporation Counsel Burr yesterday warning him that a bill was about to be introduced in the Legislature providing for higher fares on the traction lines and directing him to do what he could to defeat its enactment into law. He also sent a letter to each one of the legislators from this city making a similar request.

The bill which the Mayor has heard about is probably the one being prepared by the traction interests in the State which gives the Public Service Commissions power to regulate fares. This measure will have the support of all of the traction companies, and an earnest effort is to be made to obtain its passage.

NEW DAYLIGHT FIGHT LIKELY

Speaker Sweet Is Said to Plan Third Attempt Next Week to Repeal Law.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 1.—Repeal of the Daylight Saving Law will come before the Assembly again Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, according to a report today. Despite the double defeat administered to the repeal bill in the lower house, Speaker Sweet is determined to put the bill through and leave to Governor Smith the responsibility for vetoing it.

Some persons at the Capitol maintain that the move is part of Speaker Sweet's pre-primary campaign among the farmers. The Speaker and Assemyman Charles H. Betts, sponsor for the repeal legislation in the Assembly, have been very active since their latest defeat pledging Republican members to the measure, and it is predicted tonight that the third time they go to bat with the bill they will score.

Lewis Nixon Sued for Commissions.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 1.—Lewis Nixon, Public Service Commissioner of New York, is defendant in a suit listed for trial here next week, in which William A. Harrison sues for $13,000 in commissions alleged to be due from the sale of cartridge silk to the Nixon Nitration Works in Middlesex County. Volney Lewis of New York is also plaintiff in a suit against Mr. Nixon involving commissions on a real estate purchase during the war for the Nixon company.

City Gets Verdict for $127,153.

Supreme Court Justice Davis directed a verdict yesterday for $127,153 for the City of New York against the Bridge Operating Company, organized by the Brooklyn surface roads in 1904 to operate cars over the Williamsburg Bridge. The city sued to recover the cost of replacement on the bridge structure and approaches.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Edward D. Clery, Second Vice President of the George W. Blabon Company, manufacturers of linoleums, yesterday completed fifty years of continuous service with them. In that time he rose from an entry clerk to the position he now holds, most of his activities with the company having had to do with the selling end of the business. In honor of the occasion Mr. Clery was tendered a dinner in Philadelphia last evening by several members of the Blabon family. Among those present were a grandson and a great grandson of George W. Blabon, founder of the business.

A subscription dinner of the entire women's neckwear industry will be held in the Bluebird Room of the Hotel McAlpin on Saturday, April 10, at 7 P. M. Frederick W. Pollock of the F. W. Pollock Company, is chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

Present conditions have resulted in a great deal of short-term financing because many Governments, Municipalities and Corporations needing funds are unwilling to pay present high rates of interest over a long period. This gives the investor an exceptional opportunity to get sound security coupled with a high rate of interest.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Trading in securities yesterday was of the desultory character natural to dealings on the eve of a two-day recess. Call money rates at 8 and 10 per cent., with offerings decidedly scanty in the afternoon, continued to act as a brake upon speculative endeavor. Some of the sugar stocks and a number of specialties gained from 1 to more than 3 points, but operations elsewhere included a greater proportion of sales at the best prices quoted at the moment than of bids on a rising scale, with the result of a final price list containing far more declines than advances. Pennsylvania general mortgage 5 per cent. bonds declined, as they did the day before, evidently reflecting contemplated financing by the company in connection with the maturity of about $20,000,000 underlying bonds. At the day's lowest quotation this issue was nearly 4 points lower than on Tuesday. Other railroad bonds were steady.

The Stutz Motor share situation supplied the leading topic of market comment, but it did not appear that the suspension of dealings in this issue on the Stock Exchange had any material effect upon general transactions. Prior to the start of business it was felt in some quarters that liquidation of speculative accounts in other closely-held shares might be precipitated by the summary action of Stock Exchange officials in case of Stutz stock. When it was seen in early trading that a normal market was in progress, unmarked by any sudden reactions, nervous tension was eased in speculative quarters. The deadlock between the short interest in Stutz Motor shares and the dominant interest was continued, and reports from outside brokerage firms indicated that slight efforts were put forth by the shorts to buy. An ironical angle of the plight of the short sellers was presented before the end of the day through the declaration of a large stock dividend by the Stutz Company's Directors, which would seem to add to and not lighten the burden of participants on the wrong side of this remarkable development.

Unexpectedly, $10,000,000 more gold, evidently from the Bank of England's holdings, arrived here yesterday, making $20,000,000 to be received within the present week. As London dispatches have told of probable shipments of between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 within the next few days, it seems as though the movement to accumulate resources at New York to meet the Anglo-French loan maturity next Autumn is to gather headway rapidly. The Bank of England's weekly statement disclosed the loss of about $18,000,000 gold since Wednesday of last week. This withdrawal apparently represents transfers yet to be made and not any part of those received here. The bank's circulation increased $20,000,000, which, taken with the loss of gold and changes in other items, brought a decline of the reserve ratio amounting to 3.34 per cent.

Sterling exchange continued forward, although with somewhat less vigor than the day before. Francs also gained, but lire were heavy. The action of sterling for several days past has indicated that the heavy selling of Monday and Tuesday was rather easily absorbed, purchasers evidently being confident that the gold shipping program would justify their position on the "long" side of the market.

$10,000,000 IN GOLD ARRIVES ON SAXONIA

BOUGHT BY RESERVE BANK

Bankers Believe $100,000,000 Will Come from France and England Before Loan Matures.

Approximately $10,000,000 gold arrived here yesterday on board the Cunard liner Saxonia, which sailed from London on March 19. This arrival makes the total received during the week about $20,000,000. The Red Star liner Lapland brought in $9,000,000 last Sunday and $1,000,000 more was received on Monday. All gold received thus far came from England. The Carmania and the Minnekahda, which sailed from England last Saturday and are due to reach here early next week, are expected to bring in about $10,000,000 more, and a similar amount is expected to be shipped on the American Line steamer Philadelphia, which is due to leave England within a few days. Thus the amount of the metal either arrived or reported engaged for shipment or in transit is now in the neighborhood of $40,000,000. In banking circles the total movement has been estimated at approximately $50,000,000, so that presumably the movement is about over.

More gold will be sent here before the maturity of the Anglo-French loan. Bankers believe the total from France and England will be $100,000,000, possibly more. It is not believed, however, the total will be anything like as much as the early estimates of $250,000,000.

The gold which arrived yesterday is expected to pass through the Assay Office today in time to be sold to the Federal Reserve Bank and appear as gold reserve in that institution's weekly display of condition, which will be dated as of the close of business tonight. If this is so, the local Reserve Bank should show an increase in the item "gold and gold certificates" of approximately $20,000,000 for the week, but whether its total gold holdings will improve proportionately is another matter. The Reserve Bank last week gained $29,431,000 in the gold settlement fund, but it also increased its contingent liability as indorser of bills rediscounted with other Federal Reserve Banks by $12,220,000, making the full amount of liability $32,015,000. If, because of the arrival of this new gold, or for any other reason, the New York Reserve Bank pays off its indebtedness to the other Reserve Banks, there is likely to be shown a large loss in the gold settlement fund, and such a deduction would tend to counteract any gain in the gold and gold certificate item.

The Bank of England, in its weekly report as of the close of business on Wednesday, showed a further loss in its gold holdings, the exact amount of the loss this week being £3,610,711. The previous week the Bank of England lost £2,486,891 in gold, for a total in the fortnight of £6,097,602, equal to $29,695,300. This sum corresponds very closely with the amount already received and reported in transit, which is approximately $30,000,000. The $10,000,000 which is supposed to be forwarded on the Philadelphia would not be reflected in the Bank of England's statement for this week, as the statement is compiled as of the close of business on Wednesday, whereas the Philadelphia was not scheduled to sail until Saturday.

MORRIS PLAN LOANS.

In the year ended March 22, 1920, 106 Morris Plan banks in all parts of the country made about 275,000 loans aggregating $55,000,000, as compared with the first year of operation of a Morris Plan bank ten years ago in Norfolk, Va., when loans amounted to $45,400.

Since Arthur J. Morris started the first of the banks in the South in 1910, total loans by all of the institutions have numbered 950,000 and have amounted to $155,500,000. The Industrial Finance Corporation, the parent concern, is capitalized at $3,700,000 and the local banks—they are all independent of each other—have a total capital of more than $12,500,000.

PENNA. R. R. ASKS $50,000,000 LOAN

Directors Offer Long-Term Mortgage Bonds; Bankers Favor Short-Term Issue.

AGREEMENT EXPECTED SOON

Requirements for 1920 Between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000, but Need Not Urgent.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is negotiating with local bankers for the issuance of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 of general mortgage bonds. So far, it is said, no understanding has been reached between the management and bankers, but it is expected one will be arrived at within a few days.

The chief difference between bankers and the railroad interests is understood to be over the question of maturity. Bankers identified with Pennsylvania Railroad financing for many years and in close touch with conditions of the investment market believe that only comparatively short-term, high interest bearing securities can be marketed readily just now. Some of the Pennsylvania Directors, on the contrary, are of the opinion that the road should stick to its traditional method of financing its requirements through the sale of long-term, general mortgage bonds, or through the sale of stocks. As the latter recourse generally is admitted to be out of the question under present market conditions, they are committed to the idea of the long-term mortgage bonds.

The first positive need of the company will come on July 1, when $19,321,000 in bonds of a controlled road mature and must be met. These bonds are of three issues, all of the original obligations of the Philadelphia & Erie Railroad, and consist of $8,178,000 in 6 per cents., $5,263,000 in 5 per cents. and $5,880,000 in 4-per cents.

Total requirements of the Pennsylvania, including maturities, have been estimated for the current year at between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000. Part, a considerable part, in fact, will not be needed urgently until the latter part of the year, and if the road can dispose of $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 in bonds now, it is believed that it could go well into Fall without attempting any additional operations.

Says Cotton Supply Is Overrated.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Predicting a cotton famine next year, Senator Smith, Democrat, of South Carolina, told the Senate today that misleading statistics regarding cotton stocks on hand were being circulated by various cotton exchanges. More than one million bales of cotton unfit for spinning, Senator Smith said, are included in the exchange statistics as available for fabric manufacture.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Week-End Money.

Yesterday being the final day of the week for Stock Exchange trading—with today and tomorrow holidays—there were many who expected some more or less severe flurries in the money market. But none occurred. The rate opened and renewed at 8 per cent. and held at that figure until very late in the afternoon, when it rose to 10 per cent. But even in the few minutes when it was rising the additional 2 per cent. there was no excitement and none of the symptoms of flurry. The money market, in fact, behaved so well that most people went home last night brave in the conviction that the bank statements tomorrow will be quite "favorable."

Treasury Certificates.

In the latest completed sale of Treasury certificates New York, after all, did its full part, proportionately. The district took $59,982,000 of a total of $161,307,500, exclusive of the $40,063,000 which the Treasury itself subscribed. In other words, New York took its third, or slightly more, to be exact, the percentage being 37.1 of the full amount publicly subscribed. But in whatever gratification there may be for the Second Federal Reserve district, there is something of an indictment for the rest of the country, or else for the Treasury's "distributive system," for the fact remains that only $161,307,500 was got in when $300,000,000 to $350,000,000 was desired. Very obviously, New York bankers were correct when they predicted that 4¾ per cent., one-year certificates were "out of line" with the market and would not appeal to the investing public.

The grand total of new issues, railroad and industrial, floated during March was $275,771,300 an increase over the corresponding month of 1919 of $122,648,000, according to the compilation of the Journal of Commerce. For the three elapsed months of the current year the total for all new financing, according to the same source, is $816,714,900, an increase over the same months of last year of $233,481,700. Last month's total was made up of $44,191,000 of railroad securities and $231,580,300 of industrial emissions. The rail total was $14,066,500 less than the railroad issues of March, 1919, while the industrial offerings of March this year exceeded those of March of last year by $136,715,300.

An Irregular Market.

Stock market prices yesterday reflected to a marked degree the three-day holiday over the week-end. With no more trading this week, the market in the final hours was of a tone similar to a Saturday affair. Traders were apparently reluctant to carry their commitments over to next Monday, fearing the news developments that might intervene and entirely change the complexion of things. In certain of the issues there was evidence of short covering, this putting prices up several points. On the other hand, where long stock was disposed of, recessions were in order, but the undertone of the market was one of strength rather than weakness. Considering the unsettling effect of such an announcement as the Stock Exchange made with regard to Stutz Motors on Wednesday afternoon, trading being suspended, it was the opinion of the majority of people that the market bore up surprisingly well. There had been a fear on the part of some that other high-priced shares might suffer sympathetically, but, quite to the contrary, several of them rallied.

Motor Shares Firm.

The motor stocks, for the most part, held firm, with a good demand asserting itself on any moderate recession. The pastime of selling the motors has gone out of style a bit since the punishing that the shorts received in General Motors. Then, too, the question of earnings is not being overlooked as a factor making for better sentiment with regard to this class of stocks. The situation has been described aptly in the following words, spoken by one automobile man, "The public is long on riding and short on the means of transportation." For the present, at any rate, the automobile companies are doing a record business, and no better buffer is to be found to discourage persistent short selling than high production and high profits.

The Fuel Oil Shortage.

The difficulty which the Government encountered in getting bids for fuel oil for the battleships was conclusive proof that there was a shortage of oil for fuel. With the supply inadequate to demands, it is strange that certain oil companies, in publications which bear their names, are setting forth the advantages to be derived by changing industrial plants from coal to oil burning. It is difficult to see just where the advantage would accrue to the manufacturer in taking up a fuel in which there is such a shortage already that demands cannot be supplied. It would appear as altogether too optimistic to repeat now the assertions made not so long ago that "fuel oil will continue with each succeeding year to supplant a greater amount of coal." The coal men can apparently rest without fear that oil will drive them out of business.

February Earnings Improve.

Further improvement in earnings of the railroads is indicated by recent reports submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Many of these not only show substantial gains over the figures for the corresponding month in 1919 but show improvement for the first two months of the year. Some of the roads which fought the severe winter weather in both February and March reflect those conditions, but the numerous improvements are considered as heartening. Among the roads reporting increases for the month were Southern Pacific, Texas & Pacific, Oregon, Washington Railroad & Navigation, Chicago & Alton, Virginian, Toledo, St. Louis & Western and the St. Louis Southwestern. Among recent reports which show decreased earnings in February are those of the Chicago & Erie, Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville, Rutland, New York, Susquehanna & Western.

Interborough Income Higher.

The income statement of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for February shows marked improvement over the report for February, 1919. The deficit after all charges was $15,160 as compared with $364,638 in the corresponding month last year, a decrease of $349,477. February gross was $4,468,923 as against $3,499,170 a year ago, net, after taxes increased $471,676 to $1,600,013 and total income was $1,658,460 as compared with $1,183,399, a gain of $475,061. Gross for the eight months ended with February totaled $33,113,287, an increase of $5,847,300 over the same months in 1919 and 1918. In the same period the deficit after charges decreased by $1,009,061. The deficits shown exclude accruals under provisions of the company's contract with the city.

The shortage of railroad equipment which is slowing down business throughout the country is admitted by railroad men to be the most pressing problem they have to solve but at the same time they call it a national problem and ask for the assistance and the cooperation of all in meeting it. During the twenty-six months of Federal control less than half the annual normal equipment requirements of the carriers were met by the Railroad Administration. This was not the fault of the Administration, however, and the roads have to blame themselves for present conditions to a large degree. Opposition was made to the allocation of cars and locomotives by the Administration after the latter had purchased $380,000,000 worth, on the grounds that the prices paid were too high. Conservative operators now realize that mistake and are doing everything possible to secure the rolling stock necessary to bring conditions back to somewhere near normal.

There was little in the market action of the railroad shares to substantiate rumors that foreign holders were selling stock. Issues which recently have shown marked increases in activity dropped back to a trading volume as restricted in some instances as in the mid-winter sessions. As a whole the group seemed to reflect moderate sales by those who did not want to carry rail stocks over the three-day holiday and no outstanding offering of shares was noticeable. In one or two instances there were 1 and 2 point losses but these usually occurred where the turnover was moderate or restricted to only a few sales.

Systematic Investing

Every man, young or old, should build an estate. It will prove the best protection in case of business reverses or sickness, and will provide an income in old age. Systematic saving, investment and reinvesting of interest and dividends will, even if the initial amounts are small, provide a surprisingly large amount in a comparatively few years.

Prosperity

Almost everywhere to-day demand for commodities exceeds supply. This condition will not continue indefinitely. Large earnings and temporary prosperity have induced some investors to neglect the obligations of old established companies, also benefited by recent conditions, but which even during periods of deflation have earned several times their total interest charges.

Believing that we are entering a period requiring greater conservatism in the investment of funds, we invite your attention to a Closed First Mortgage Bond of one of the oldest and best established industries of its kind in the United States, yielding a generous return.

TELL HOW TO STOP PRICE INFLATION

REDUCE CREDIT DEMANDS

Treasury Certificates Should Be Made Attractive to Individual Investor, Report Asserts.

To relieve the present situation of inflation and high prices, those charged with the administration of the banking system of the country must bring about a contraction of deposits and loans in the banks by "inviting the borrower to observe the greatest possible moderation in his demands for credit, and the depositor to save, to invest his savings, and to relieve the banks to that extent of their loans and holdings of securities," according to the report of the Committee on Finance and Currency of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, which was presented yesterday.

William Woodward, President of the Hanover National Bank and Acting Chairman of the committee in the absence of Frank A. Vanderlip, pointed out that "it is equally clear that it is in the country's interests that the Treasury certificates should now be placed on a basis which, by promptly and effectively attracting the savings of the individual investor, would be helpful in furthering bank-loan liquidation rather than placing these certificates on an artificially low basis tending to lock up a substantial portion of such paper in the banks and increasing thereby an evergrowing pyramid of bank loans."

Continuing his report, Mr. Woodward said in part:

"It is profoundly to be regretted that after the armistice there was not a stricter control exercised toward securing a more conscientious and effective accumulation of savings on the part of all classes. Viewing in retrospect the last sixteen months, it would appear to us in the nature of a calamity that instead of permitting large amounts of these funds to be squandered in individual extravagances and to be poured into speculative ventures of little value in the large aims and needs of the hour, the world's resources could not have been better husbanded and directed. The economic loss to our own country and to the world at large has been incalculable.

Control Over Money Rates.

"But where other measures to curb the wasteful use of funds and credit could not be applied, or where applied failed to bring results, there should remain as the obvious means of combatting further banking inflation an effective control over money rates, exercised by the Treasuries or Central Banks.

"Your Committee does not wish to present an economic treatise on the question of which of the two factors, increased demand and decreased production of goods, on the one hand, or inflation of money and credit on the other, is the primary or more fundamental cause of the present situation. About the disastrous effects of both there is a general accord amongst all economists and it is equally clear that each cause must be dealt with separately and energetically and at its very source.

"It is generally assumed that the most subtle influence of inflation is to be found in the increase in buying medium as represented by the gain in bank deposits and currencies. From the beginning of the war to the present time eighteen billion dollars in the form of increases in circulation and in bank deposits have been added to the buying medium in the United States. On the other hand, the physical volume of business was only fractionally more in 1919 than in 1914. The production of buying medium has accordingly been increased in overwhelming ratio to the production of goods. The rise of prices has borne with particularly disastrous effect upon the purchasing value of a fixed income, it having been cut in half in six years.

"There is no doubt that the policy of requiring an easy money market for the purpose of placing the long-term Government bonds, and billions of Treasury certificates to be renewed from time to time at an artificially low rate of interest, had a very pernicious influence with respect to general credit and currency expansion. The wish for low interest rates for the Treasury resulted in low interest rates on the part of the Federal Reserve banks, and as a direct consequence, in low rates for commercial borrowers. It was natural that with a low money market and an apparently unlimited demand for goods, borrowers, unchecked by bankers in view of the banking profit, steadily enlarged their demands for credit and loans expanded rapidly. The consequent result has been the huge inflation of bank credits and currency which is considered as one of the main factors responsible for the rise in the general price level.

Justified During War Emergency.

"It must be admitted, however, that during the war the complexity and the urgency of the situation were such that measures appeared justified by the very emergencies of the hour which, retrospectively and in the quiet place of the critic one might judge in a different light. All other considerations had to be subordinated to the one object of winning the war, and if inflation was one of the prices to be paid for victory, that burden has to be shouldered along with the others. It was all the more important, however, that after the conclusion of the armistice the war finance policy of low interest rates should have been abandoned at the earliest possible moment and that a course should have been adopted tending to combat further inflation.

"For over a year from the date of the armistice banking expansion was permitted to proceed faster than during the period of actual warfare. While full consideration must not be denied to the emergencies that had to be met in the herculean task imposed by each successive loan and to the moral commitments that resulted therefrom, it should be made clear that it is of the highest importance to the country that a determined effort should now be made to arrest unnecessary inflation and that there should be no relaxation in this regard.

"Superficial observers claim that contraction on the Stock Exchange alone would bring relief. No doubt such contraction is highly desirable, and any era of excessive speculation, dependent as it must be on heavy borrowing, handicaps and delays a return toward the normal, but it is clear that everybody who indiscriminately buys goods for his own use or for the purpose of his business is a factor in this expansion, and particularly those who are holding for speculative purposes the things that the world requires for its daily life. Contraction must take place by co-operation on the part of all, and neither Federal Reserve Banks nor other banks can do their full share in bringing relief in the present emergency unless the public, as a whole, cooperates with them, and commodities of all sorts, stored and held for speculation, be brought into the market.

"Price inflation, therefore, is caused primarily by excessive issues of Government obligations and circulation, on the one hand, and on the other, by an increased and precipitate demand for goods with simultaneously decreased or disorganized production."

ASKS ERIE CANAL'S RETURN.

State Commerce Chamber Against Further Federal Control.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, held yesterday at the Chamber's building, Delos W. Cooke, Chairman of the Committee on Internal Trade and Improvements, presented a report advocating the withdrawal of Federal operation of the Erie Canal, on the ground that private operation of transportation systems cannot hope to compete with the Government. The act of Congress which restored railways to private control as of March 1 did not return inland waterways, and a resolution favoring by legislation if necessary, the withdrawal of the Government from this entireprise was passed by the Chamber. Mr. Cooke's committee also introduced a resolution disapproving Government's price fixing, and this, too, was passed.

Darwin P. Kingsley, Chairman of the Committee on Insurance, submitted a report and introduced a resolution opposing a bill at Albany which provides for compulsory health insurance, and a report and a resolution in opposition to the Kaplan and Bly bills, which seek to compel insurance companies operating in the State to invest one-half of all earned premiums paid on policies written on risks in the State upon the security of unimproved, unencumbered real property, for the purpose of erecting buildings for residential purposes. Both resolutions were passed.

J. Barstaw Smull of the Committee on Harbor and Shipping, acting for the Chairman, Irving T. Bush, presented a resolution against the placing of American boats on the former routes of German ships, except where of direct service in re-establishing a permanent American merchant marine, and a resolution favoring the improvement of the Harlem River. Charles N. Chadwick, Chairman of the special Committee on Conservation of State Waters, Land and Forests, offered a resolution indorsing the Senate and Assembly bills which provide for an amendment of the Constitution to allow the issuance by a county or city of bonds to provide for a sewerage system. All of these resolutions also were passed.

The Chamber also voted to commission Frank A. Vanderlip, Darwin P. Kingsley, Lewis L. Clarke and Seymour L. Cromwell as delegates of the Chamber to Japan. Welding Ring, on behalf of the Executive Committee, offered a resolution to this effect, and it was carried unanimously.

A Nominating Committee, to nominate officers and members of standing committees for the election at the annual meeting of the Chamber, which is to be held May 6, was announced by the Executive Committee, and consists of the following: Charles D. Hilles, Chairman; Louis Stern, William McCarroll, Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., Henry A. Caesar, Eugene V. R. Thayer and Gates W. McGarrah.

BANKS SEE MENACE TO OPEN BILLMARKET

SUGGESTED TO HARDING

Governor of Federal Reserve Board Is Told the Plan Would Be Revolutionary.

W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, told bankers and acceptance dealers on Wednesday at the Reserve Bank that a proposal had been made to treat acceptances indorsed by member bnks and lodged with the Reserve Bank as liabilities of the indorsing banks. The proposal, according to bankers, is revolutionary, and Mr. Harding was told that if it became the practice of the Reserve Bank to consider indorsed bills in this way it would do much to destroy the open bill market, which both bankers and the Reserve authorities have been bending every effort to build up for several years.

The suggestion, as it was understood by bankers and acceptance dealers, provides that bills indorsed by member bank and sold to Reserve Banks, would count against the indorsing bank as part of the member banks' credit line at the central institution. In other words, under the proposed law, designed to establish individual lines of credit for member banks, the amount of credit which a member could obtain at the Reserve Bank at the regular rates of rediscount would be computed on the amount of rediscounts and advances, plus the amount of whatever indorsed bills the Reserve Bank might hold.

To illustrate: A member bank might have, say, a credit line of $30,000,000. This, under present regulations, could be used for rediscounts and advances. But the new suggestion is that any of the bills it may have endorsed and which find their way, through whatever channel, into the Reserve Bank, would also count as part of the credit line. Thus, the bank with the established line of credit probably would be unwilling to indorse bills and sell them in the open market for fear that ultimately some other person or corporation would lodge them with the Reserve Bank.

The plan would work equally hard against dealers, for they would never know whether the bills they purchased could be sold to the Reserve Bank at the regular rate or at a penalized rate. In brief, bankers say the suggestion, if carried out, would destroy the whole bill market.

Mr. Harding, it was said yesterday came to New York with an open mind in the matter. In banking circles it was reported that an associate of his on the Reserve Board had proposed it and that some of the other members favored it. After his conference on Wednesday, however, Mr. Harding conveyed the impression to those with whom he came in contact that he would not allow the idea to be pushed forward and that nothing, at least for the time being, would be done about it.

$30,000,000 SHIPS SOUGHT BY ITALY

Negotiations with Submarine Corporation Said to be Progressing.

BIG BANK CREDIT NEEDED

Purchase Will Include Between Twenty and Thirty Standard Steel Vessels of 5,350 Tons.

Negotiations between the Italian Government and the Submarine Boat Corporation covering the purchase of between twenty and thirty standard steel steamships from the corporation are understood to be coming to a favorable close. The amount involved in the deal is between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000, and it is understood that a group of American bankers are considering favorably the extension of a credit sufficient to allow for closing the contract.

Henry R. Carse, President of the Submarine Boat Corporation, verified the report that the negotiations were going on, but stated that the deal had not yet been closed. He said that it was probable, if a sufficient dollar credit could be arranged, that his company would build the boats.

The original offer for the vessels, it is understood, was made to the corporation near the close of last year, when it became apparent that the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States Shipping Board would abandon its building program. The offer, it is said, was made directly to the Submarine Boat Corporation by the Italian Minister of Transportation.

On the question of extending credit to the Italian Government on a deal of such magnitude it is recognized that the corporation has not sufficient funds on hand to carry the burden alone. That it would bear a fair share of such financing was learned late yesterday afternoon.

The company has leased the big shipyards operated by it for the Emergency Fleet Corporation in the Newark Meadows and has been continuing work on all of the ships which had been started before the Shipping Board requested that the building program be suspended some months ago. The materials for the thirty-two ships which remained for the yard to build are understood to be at hand, and the closing of the Italian deal would mean steady business for the company for a long time. Most of the vessels which will figure in the deal are of 5,350 tons, the standard ships of Emergency Fleet construction.

No information could be obtained as to how soon the banking group would be ready to make an announcement regarding the creation of the Italian credit, it being stated only that "matters were progressing favorably."

COTTON PRICES FALL AFTER EARLY RISE

Reports of further bad weather, cold and rain predominating over much of the belt, and the conviction of most operators that present high prices are based on substantial warrant arising out of the statistical position and the crop outlook, led to further advances in the cotton market at the opening yesterday. During the first hour virtually all options made new high records, at advance of 25 to 50 points from the preceding night's closing. May sold up to 40 cents on this bulge, July to 37.37 and October to 34.25. The strength was not altogether expected, in view of the impending three-day holiday, and because of the rise there was a good deal of short covering early in the day.

Then, after the high prices had been established, profit-taking and scattered short selling, the latter being of the timid variety and designed mostly to catch whatever short reaction might develop, caused the market to sell off. The near months were the heaviest in this decline, but the distant months, which had experienced the best gains early, lost all of their advantage on the movement.

As the New York and New Orleans Cotton Exchanges will be closed today and tomorrow there naturally was a general unloading in the afternoon and this prevented prices from recovering any after the midday break. In the last two hours the market moved very little and at that time took on all the appearances of the conventional pre-holiday affair.

Liverpool, which will remain closed until Tuesday morning, was relatively stronger than our market, beginning with over-night gains of 20 to 25 points and finishing with net advances which ranged from 42 to 48 points. Spots were up 13 points.

Exports yesterday were 25,490 bales, making the total for the week to date 103,691 bales. The fact that the Exchange will be closed until Monday will prevent the publication of the usual week-end statistics until the latter day. Contract stocks of cotton were increased by 177 bales yesterday, making the total now on hand at this port 3,501 bales.

Governor Transmits Reports of Commission and Urges Legislation.

ALBANY, April 1.—Protection of the investing public against flotation of worthless securities was demanded by Governor Smith today in a message to the Legislature together with which he transmitted the majority and minority reports of the commission headed by A. Barton Hepburn which studied the subject last year.

The Governor made no specific recommendations, confessing that he was "without definite knowledge on the subject."

"I feel very strongly," he says, "that the investing public should be fully protected by all safeguards that the State can throw around the business of offering securities to the public, without unnecessary or undue interference with proper and legitimate business enterprises."

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Hampson Gary of Texas, now Consul General at Cairo, Egypt, was nominated today by President Wilson to be Minister to Switzerland. He will succeed Pleasant A. Stovall of Savannah, Ga., who resigned recently.

Roper's Successor Is Sworn In.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—William M. Williams, former solicitor of the Department of Agriculture, was sworn in today as Commissioner of Internal Revenue, succeeding Daniel C. Roper, resigned.

SAYS PACIFIC FLEET WAS LEFT USELESS

SHIPS COULDN'T LEAVE DOCK

Admiral Benson Was "Powerless to Overcome Inertia" and Only Roosevelt Was "Sympathetic."

WASHINGTON, April 1.—That the Navy Department made no efforts between 1915 and 1917 to prepare ships of the Pacific fleet for war, was a charge preferred before the Senate Naval Investigating Committee today by Rear Admiral William F. Fullam, who commanded that force and directed all allied naval operations in Pacific waters during the war.

Armored cruisers in reserve on the Pacific Coast were not made ready, he asserted, despite his repeated recommendations, and it was only by utilizing naval apprentices at training schools that he was able before the war to get the vessels away from the docks for short training cruises. Even after the outbreak of war in Europe, he said, the department was "indifferent" to the recommendations of senior officers that steps be taken to prepare.

The Admiral testified that it was only by going over Secretary Daniels's head and sending letters and outlines of plans and policies direct to Assistant Secretary Roosevelt that a sympathetic attitude could be obtained for preparedness measures.

In 1915, when he went to the Pacific Coast to take command of the reserve fleet, Admiral Fullam said, the ships had such small complements that they could not be moved from the dock. The navy was "fatally short of men," he added, but the department failed to advise the public of the seriousness and was totally indifferent to the possibility of a state of war being forced upon it.

He added that Admiral Benson, chief of operations, was powerless to overcome the inertia of the department, and the witness said he wrote Admiral Benson on June 19, 1916, that a declaration of war then would find the navy in a state of pandemonium and absolute inefficiency.

The committee adjourned until Monday, when Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, probably will testify.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The Supreme Court, at the request of the Government, today took a hand in the boundary controversy between Texas and Oklahoma, involving the Red River Valley oil lands, and issued two injunctions to remain in effect pending final decision in proceedings instituted by Oklahoma.

The first prohibits Texas from issuing permits affecting the contested lands. Under the second both States are enjoined from removal of oil or gas well machinery.

Jacob M. Dickinson of Chicago, former Secretary of War, was appointed receiver to take possession of the lands and machinery within fifteen days and to report to the court as to development of the lands. He also was authorized to operate or close any of the wells if advisable. His bond was fixed at $100,000.

The boundary controversy arose after the discovery of valuable oil and gas deposits in the Red River region and recently became so heated that armed conflict between the States was threatened.

The court's action, in the opinion of Government counsel, will now prevent any clashes between citizens of the two States.

DALLAS, Texas, April 1.—Texas claimants to oil land involved in the boundary dispute between Texas and Oklahoma, will not oppose the action of the United States Supreme Court in appointing a receiver for the lands and property thereon, it was indicated here today.

WOULD DEPORT ALIENS BELONGING TO I. W. W.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Evidence in the cases of a number of aliens recently ordered deported and subsequently released was taken from the custody of Anthony Caminetti, Commissioner General of Immigration, today by the House Immigration Committee. Papers in cases in which warrants of deportations were canceled also were taken.

The documents were not removed from the commissioners office, but were placed in charge of a sub-committee consisting of Chairman Johnson and Representatives Valle, Republican of Colorado, and Baker, Republican of California.

Many of the cases were from Seattle and the Northwest and New York City. Chairman Johnson said evidence had been obtained which convinces the committee that the I. W. W. was allied with the Communist Party.

"Alien members of the Communist Party," Chairman Johnson said, "are being deported under the ruling of Secretary of Labor Wilson that their organization is one which advocates the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force and violence. Members of the committee contend that alien members of the I. W. W. are clearly deportable for the same cause, and they desire to look over the evidence and records."

SELL STOCK TO EMPLOYES.

Wilson & Co., Packers, Offer Shares at $71.

Announcement has been made by Wilson & Co., packers, of an offer made to employes of the company's stock at $71 a share, to be paid for on the installment plan. Discussing the new plan Thomas E. Wilson, President of the company, said:

"It has been our policy to encourage the spirit of partnership between the employes and the company whenever possible. We are hopeful that this plan will increase that relationship. Through circumstances fortunate for our employes we have secured some shares of the company's stock which will be sold to them at $71 per share. These shares of stock carry with them full voting benefits and give the employes a voice in the management of the affairs of the company for which they work. It also gives them every right that accompanies any first class common stock issue in the way of dividends or other benefits which may accrue."

BLAMES FLETCHER FOR ANTILLES LOSS

Sims's Operations Officer Testifies That Convoy Orders Were Not Issued.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Loss of the transport Antilles off the French coast in October, 1917, was attributed directly to Admiral William B. Fletcher's alleged disregard of instructions from Vice Admiral Sims, in testimony today by Captain Byron C. Long, Operations Officer on Sims's staff at London, before the Naval Board investigating Admiral Fletcher's removal from the Brest Command.

When the Antilles was struck by a torpedo the convoy was proceeding in single file, Captain Long testified, adding that this was the "most dangerous possible formation." Admiral Fletcher, he said, had previously been ordered by Admiral Sims to issue general convoy instructions prescribing a "line abreast" formation. No such instructions, he said, ever were issued.

Every convoy that sailed from the French coast during Admiral Fletcher's command at Brest, Captain Long declared, proceeded in column formation, which made them particularly vulnerable to submarine attack. The fact that a line formation, with flanks of the convoy protected, was safer should have been "evident on its face," the witness said.

Counsel for Admiral Fletcher presented a report designed to show that the Admiral's duties were made more difficult by the attitude of Commander F. B. Baldwin, his aide for material.

Captain Thomas P. MacGruder, Admiral Fletcher's Chief of Staff, also has been charged with disloyalty by his former commander.

EGGS—The receipts yesterday were 24,404 cases, very heavy, with the current consumption requirements much exceeded, stock accumulated and prices fell to a speculative level. Some goods were withdrawn from the market. Except for graded eggs, ranging from extra firsts upward, the outside quotations are extreme, the bulk of the current packed ungraded supply being offered in range of 40c@42½c. White were continued in comparatively small supply. Several cars of California eggs arrived, but they are not on the market as yet, and Easter demands are absorbing all of the receipts received by most of the trade. Prices were consequently sustained, notwithstanding the heavy decline in other eggs, but it was generally expected that it will be impossible hereafter to sell except at a considerable reduction from present quotations. APARTMENT MARKET CONTINUES ACTIVE Goodly Array of Deals Closed Despite Belief That New Laws Would Curb Buying.

OPERATORS STILL IN FIELD

Contrary to the expectations of many real estate men, the passage of the eleven bills at Albany affecting the ownership of New York realty has not been reflected in a decreased demand for apartment house properties.

Earlier in the week there appeared to be a sudden weakening in the market for this type of property, but yesterday's budget of sales indicated that the new legislation had not materially affected the buying situation.

The A. & S. Realty Company, Inc. (George Sanderer President), purchased from the Wince Realty Company the five-story apartment on the northwest corner of 171st Street and Fort Washington Avenue, 100 by 100, accommodating forty-one tenants, having a rental of $88,000, and held at $980,000. The company also bought from S. Lair the five-story new-law house 885 Edgecombe Avenue, 80 by 100, accommodating thirty-seven tenants, renting for $24,000, and held at $148,000. It sold to a client of Samuel Wecht, jr., the six-story elevator apartment 215 Audubon Avenue, 100 by 100, accommodating thirty-six tenants, and held at $210,000; also sold to L. Plotkin the two five-story houses 512 to 516 West 160th Street, 100 by 100, accommodating forty tenants, renting for $25,000, and held at $185,000. Samuel Wecht, jr., represented Mr. Sanderer.

Morris Kahn sold for Adolph & Henry Weiss to Levin & Rosen the Norwood, at 100 West 110th Street, southwest corner of Lenox Avenue, a seven-story elevator apartment with six stores, renting for $100,000, held at $1,000,000. It was

FEW ALTERATIONS NEEDED

The former residence of the late Stanford White, who designed Madison Square Garden, the Washington Arch and many other notable structures, on the northwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Twenty-first Street, was sold yesterday to the Young Women's Christian Association.

The property, which faces Gramercy Park, was sold by Henry A. C. Taylor, who has owned it for a number of years. It consists of a five-story structure, with a two-story addition, occupying a plot with a frontage of 58 feet on Twenty-first Street and 131 feet on Lexington Avenue. After Stanford White's occupancy the building was extensively altered, and it became the home of the Princeton Club, which later gave it up and took quarters in the Yale Club.

In the rear of the property just sold is the building which houses the activities of the Russell Sage Foundation, which covers the balance of the block on Lexington Avenue.

It is understood that the association is to use the present buildings, which are connected, for the International Institute for Young Women. The building has a roof garden, and a large auditorium, besides a large number of dormitories.

Sells Bayport House.

Regis H. Post, who was Governor of Porto Rico under the Roosevelt Administration, has sold his lower place on Gillette Avenue, Bayport, L. I., to George S. McLean of Brooklyn. The brokers were Woods Brothers. The property comprises a modern house of sixteen rooms, garage and five acres of land, and Mr. McLean will make it his Summer home.

Seek and Ye Shall Find

HIDDEN beneath the mass of details in the bookkeeping records of every organization are the vital essentials that every executive should know, and they should quickly be brought to light.

Certified Public Accountants are "seekers" and "finders." By means of certified reports based on periodical audits, they place before the business head the vital facts he should know and then assist in interpreting them in their relation to his business.

"Seek and Ye Shall Find" with this organization has been a matter of "We have sought and we have found."

HIGH RENTS TO ADD $6 EACH TO SUITS

PLAN TO FIGHT PROFITEERS

Eighteen Garment Associations, Representing 15,000 Members, Appoint Committee to Act.

The cost of clothing will go up $5 or $6 a suit for men and women if exorbitant increases demanded of clothing manufacturers by owners of loft buildings are permitted to prevail, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of manufacturers in the rooms of the United Waist League of America, 29 East Thirty-second Street.

Representatives of eighteen trade associations, including all branches of the garment trade, said to represent 15,000 members, were present, and plans were made to combat profiteering in loft space.

A manufacturer of women's garments said that if the rent he is about to be charged for his loft were not set aside every woman's suit would bear a cost of $1.50 for rent in addition to the regular wholesale price of the suit. When the storekeeper adds his increased rent to the garment, it was said, the consumer would be obliged to pay $5 or $6 for the garment for the item of rent alone.

Herman Mason, Secretary of the Allied Lace and Embroidery Association and the Cotton Yarn Manufacturers' Association, reported that a manufacturer of his acquaintance informed him that his rent was about to be increased from $11,000 to $30,000. Another manufacturer paying $5,500 has been ordered to pay $15,000 in rent.

It was decided that there was no need for hasty action, but that the best plan was to make a thorough survey of the situation. Questionnaires will be sent to members of the associations represented in order to obtain information on which to base legislative action. In the meantime the Legislature will be asked to have the bills aimed at rent profiteering apply to the loft situation.

A committee was named to obtain the co-operation of civic and other organizations and to draw up legislative bills that may be found necessary. The committee consists of H. Uviller, Chairman; D. M. Mossesohn, Secretary of the Associated Dress Industries of America; Arthur J. Lewy and Samuel Blumberg of the Garment Salesmen's Association, Herman Mason of the Allied Lace and Embroidery Association, Clemens Schroeder of the Raw Feather Association and George Lewy of the Waist Manufacturers' Association. The committee will meet on Tuesday at the Dress and Waist Manufacturers' Association, 200 Fifth Avenue.

Arthur J. W. Hilly, Chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering, said yesterday that the new rent legislation passed at Albany did not give landlords the right to increase rents 25 per cent.

Tenants Mob Landlord.

Jacob G. Feldman, a landlord, from whose house at 1,876 Douglas Street, eighteen families were evicted during the last week was mobbed by an angry crowd of women yesterday following the eviction of seven families. Feldman ran to a nearby store and the police reserves dispersed the crowd but not before two women struck Feldman over the head. They were taken to the Brownsville Police Station but were released when Feldman dropped his charge against them.

Senator Kaplan announced yesterday on his arrival from Albany that he had introduced a bill on Wednesday to prevent landlords discriminating against children.

"If some landlords think it is a crime to have children it is about time the State made it a crime to discriminate against children," he said. If the bill becomes law a convicted landlord will be guilty of a misdemeanor and punishable by imprisonment not exceeding three years."

Police Captain Isaac Frank successfully mediated a rent strike which had been a source of trouble to tenants and landlords for three months. About forty-six families were involved in the dispute. They lived in the houses at 468 and 520 Powell Street, owned by Mrs. Sina Basin of 2,412 Ocean Avenue. Captain Frank invited a committee of the tenants to meet him and after the discussion in which the landlady took part the leases were renewed.

Senator Abraham Kaplan, a member of the State Housing Committee, will explain the meaning of the newly enacted rent legislation at a meeting to be held tomorrow night at Grace Methodist Church, 131 West 104th Street.

City Marshals will meet in the rooms of the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering Monday evening at 5 o'clock in order to discuss plans to safeguard the welfare of tenants who may be evicted on or about May 1.

CHICAGO, April 1.—Somewhat unexpectedly the strike of the clerks in the City Hall for an increase in salary terminated tonight when the clerks, to the number of 1,000 or more, decided to resume work tomorrow and submit their claims to arbitration.

Following a conference with Mayor Thompson and President Coffin of the Civil Service Commission today, President Flynn of the City Hall Clerks' Association announced that the strike would be called off, because of the apparent friendliness of the administration and the newly appointed Arbitration Committee.

Mayor Thompson earlier in the day appointed an Arbitration Committee, consisting of Corporation Counsel Ettelson, Captain Percy Coffin of the Civil Service Commission, Chairman Richert of the Finance Committee, and Aldermen Kostner, Fetzer, Morap and Smith. This committee will hold its first meeting tomorrow morning, and will summon the heads of the various municipal departments to confer with them regarding salary increases. Where the money is to be obtained with which to meet the proposed salary increases is still in doubt.

While the differences between the clerks and the City Government seem to be in a fair way of settlement, the grievances of the firemen are becoming more pronounced. The firemen have voted to resign in a body, effective April 7, if their demand for $300 a year increase is not granted.

'TIGER' OF FRANCE BAGS HIS FIRST CROCODILE

M. Clemenceau Finds Lesson on Keeping Mouth Shut in Reptile's Fate.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 31.—Georges Clemenceau, former Prime Minister of France, radiating strength and vigor as a result of his vacation in Egypt and the Sudan, tells of bagging a crocodile on the upper Nile as one of the proudest achievements of his fourscore of years.

"They call me 'the Tiger' in France," he said. "I believe this is the first time that a tiger has killed a crocodile."

The great reptile, basking in the warm sunshine, opened its enormous mouth when M. Clemenceau approached. A bullet struck the crocodile inside its mouth, killing it.

"I have always held," said M. Clemenceau dryly, "that reptiles as well as human beings should keep their mouths shut."
